Great Artist and Mother. Six and a Half Foot Men. Wanted, a Business Stimulus. Germany Getting Tired?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 22.

ON CHRISTMAS EVE, at 9:30 eastern standard time, on the coast-to-coast red network of the National Broadcasting Company, you will hear the distinguished artist, Madame Schumann-Heink, sing one of the most beautiful Christmas songs ever written, Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht, "Silent Night, Holy Night."

This inspiring pleasure you will owe to Mr. M. H. Aylesworth, president of National Broadcasting Company, who contributes the song to the general Christmas happiness.

ALL WOMEN, mothers especially, are interested in Madame Schumann-Heink, a very great artist, not only because of her beautiful voice that has made her one of the world's greatest artists, but because she is the mother of eight children, and not content with that service to the world, has adopted a ninth child to care for it as for her own. Thanks to the radio miracle, Madame Schumann-Heink will be heard in Germany, in the home where she was born, and throughout all Europe.

This writer will have the honor of presenting Madame Schumann-Heink to her radio audience.

FLORIDA, HAVING had her troubles before the 1929 troubles of others, begins to take a cheerful view of conditions.

Mr. Newt Roney, whose hotel is the greatest in Southern Florida, finds room renting this year, well ahead of last year. Henry Doherty, man of many interests and many battles, who recently bought the Miami-Biltmore Hotel and a great many other things down here, presumably for less than they cost, seems cheerful about it.

He runs autogyro flying machines for his guests from one hotel to another and down to his fishing island.

MR. RONEY, of the Roney-Plaza, observing the growth of his own daughter, who spends her summers in the North, her winters here, and was "at 12 years of age bigger than her mother," concludes that "the North in summer and Florida in winter" will produce a race of human beings six feet and a half tall.

It is a fact that in such a climate as this, the climate that prevails along the Gulf and California coasts, children grow and build up strength in winter time instead of fighting against "common colds" and losing weight.

Parents must have observed that California, combining admirable summer and winter climates, has produced an extraordinary crop of young athletes, from Helen Wills Moody of the tennis court to the young California football giants.

WHO WILL invent a "heart tickler" for business and industry?

You have heard about a "tickler" used by Dr. A. A. Hyman, causing hearts that have stopped beating to begin to work again, and apparently resuscitating the dead. It is well described in "Time."

There is, in the right auricle of the heart, a tiny electrical machine called the "pacemaker," supplying an electric stimulus that causes the heart to beat regularly until death.

That extraordinary little machine—you have one in your own heart—generates an electric current of about one volt, and if it fails, your heart stops beating.

DR. HYMAN has invented a gold-plated needle containing in its hollow point a wire carrying exactly the right electric current.

When the heart has stopped the needle is pressed through the ribs into the right auricle of the stopped heart, and six times out of ten the heart resumes work when the needed stimulus is applied not more than ten minutes after apparent "death."

IF SCIENTIFIC ingenuity can make a "dead" heart resume work, why cannot financial business and industrial ingenuity find some way to start the industrial and business heart of this nation?

Our trouble is STAGNATION. Money, which is the blood of business life, has stopped circulating.

It is not spent, does not buy goods, does not create payrolls. So nothing exists, or can be invented that would act on our business stagnation as Dr. Hyman's "heart tickler" acts on the human heart. What is it?

IS GERMANY tiring of the republic? A new "decree for furtherance of internal peace," issued by Chancellor Von Schleicher, taking the place of a former "defense of the republic act," says nothing about a republic and makes it possible for the former Kaiser to live in Germany if he wants to. Previously he had been "forever" forbidden to return.

A very well-known "society" man of New York, who had married a difficult old woman for her money, asked advice about a divorce and was told:

"You would only marry again."

Said the young gentleman:

"Well, if I do, all I can say is that I shall deserve it."

If Germany takes back the Kaiser and Hohenzollerns to do her thinking and ruling, all that anybody can say is that she will deserve it.

It is hard to believe that the intelligence of Germany, trained in marvelous schools and universities, disciplined and enlightened by the Social-Demo-

Student Brothers Confess Theft in School

MRS. RUTH ATLAS . . . . SHE'S "RUTH MILLSTONE" TO YOU

Mrs. Atlas, the former radio stylist under the name of Ruth Millstone, today in Judge Gray's court granted a divorce from Noah Atlas, who she says is now in Palestine, on charges of cruelty. She testied that at home they quarreled over money matters.

HOOVER TO ACT ALONE ON DEBTS

CITY URGED TO DROP 5 FIRE UNITS

Council Believed Ready To Make Drastic Payroll Slashes

Elimination of five fire companies employing 52 men was recommended to Council by Budget Controller Robert J. Alderdice today as large cuts in the city payroll were expected to be made to balance the budget under the reduced tax rate for 1933.

Alderdice recommended elimination of the following stations, all of which are housed with other companies:

No. 30, 341 First avenue; No. 32, Eighth street; No. 41, Arch and Jacksonia streets, North Side; No. 48, Madison and Foreland streets, North Side, and No. 61, Commercial street, North Homestead.

CHIEF CONSULTED

Alderdice said he believed these could be eliminated without seriously affecting the fire department service. He said George W. Booth, chief engineer of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, had offered no serious objections, since alarms at the five houses in the past year totaled only 383, and the total hours of service was 209. The 52 men employed in the companies include fire captains.

Fire Chief Richard L. Smith was given a copy of the report and was asked to submit other suggestions if he has objections.

A motion of Councilman Harry A. Little that 44 horses in the Bureau of Highways and Sewers be supplanted by six trucks was adopted. It was estimated this would save $20,000 a year. T. L. Pillow, head of the department, recommended the change. A motion of Councilman W. J. Soost that the superintendent of the stables be notified to dispose of the surplus horses as soon as the trucks are in operation also was passed.

A motion of Councilman M. J. Muldowney "to strike out non-existing jobs that heretofore were in the budget," also was adopted. It was the general opinion the motion referred to jobs which have been vacant for some time, and that these are not numerous.

SET-UP HELD READY

It is believed that the members of Council have already worked out a set-up which will keep the budget within the rate of 20.6 mills on land passed on recommendation of the Citizens' Tax Source Committee.

When these budget slashes are made, the passage of the salary

Prospect For Beer Bright

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The prospects of legalizing beer before March 4 were brightened this afternoon when the House 3.2 per cent beer bill was sent to the Senate and referred to committee while leaders promised prompt consideration.

There was no debate as a House messenger reported its passage to the Senate.

Senator Moses (Rep.), of New Hampshire, president pro-tem, ordered it referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee which has a number of Senate beer bills under consideration. Afterwards both Republican and Democratic leaders declared it would receive prompt consideration.

ACTION PLEDGED

The Democratic leadership decided several weeks ago to put a beer bill on their legislative calendar in the Senate, provided it was enacted by the House. Senator Robinson (Rep.), of Arkansas, said this promise would be kept.

A tortuous path must be traveled before—or if—the measure reaches President Hoover's desk, but the smashing vote of 230 to 165 in the House made Senate approval seem likely.

TESTS IN SENATE

Senate leaders generally agreed they would meet the issue before the "lame duck" session ends on March 4. Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, chairman of the

2 BROTHERS ADMIT THEFT IN SCHOOL

Langley Honor Pupil, Pitt Student Held; Aiding Studies

An honor-roll student at Langley High School and his brother, a graduate of the high school, now a pre-medical student at the University of Pittsburgh, today were held by police accused of the theft of instruments and chemicals, valued at $700, from the high school.

Lester Halley, 19, and his brother, Emil, 15, of 1415 Swantek street, confessed to Magistrate Thomas D. Jones they had carried microscopes, technical instruments and chemicals from the school to their home that Lester might continue chemistry experiments to speed him through college.

Russell Steiner, janitor, intercepted the boys carrying satchels leaving the school late yesterday, he testified, saying Lester fled with his satchel. He was arrested later at his home.

Lester told the Magistrate that he went to the school several times to get chemicals to continue experiments because his father was unable to furnish them since he lost his position. Emil admitted that he had made a master key from one lent him while assisting one of the teachers in the school.

Bruce Cobaugh, vice principal, said three microscopes, 200 slides for microscopes and other technical instruments and chemicals had been stolen during several months. He said one of the chemicals stolen, if mixed with water, was highly explosive. Lester was committed to jail pending a further hearing and Emil was turned over to Juvenile Court.

R O O SEVELT MESSAGES GIVEN

President Will Not Commit Next Administration

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—President-elect R o o sevelt having considered it "undesirable" to co-operate on foreign problems arising between now and March 4, President Hoover announced today that his administration would continue to deal with such situations as develop in matters of foreign policy, but in such a way as not to commit the new Democratic administration.

With the announcement, President Hoover made public the correspondence that passed between himself and his successor.

'RESPECTS WISHES'

Mr. Hoover prefaced the correspondence with this brief statement:

"Gov. Roosevelt considers that it is undesirable for him to assent to my suggestion for co-operative action on foreign problems outlined in my recent message to Congress. I will respect his wishes.

"Situations will no doubt develop and will be dealt with by the administration as they arise, but of course no commitment will be made for the next administration."

The tone of finality in this statement was accepted as ending any further moves for joint action between the incoming and outgoing administrations in dealing with inter-governmental debts, the proposed world economic conference, or the disarmament conference at Geneva.

It means, in all probability, a fairly stagnated international situation for the next two months, for scarcely any line of international undertaking can be followed that will not extend beyond March 4. And Mr. Hoover was careful to state that his administration would not attempt to commit the next.

WIDE DIVERGENCE

Behind the politely-worded phrases in the correspondence, could be discerned a definite determination on the part of Gov. Roosevelt not to be bound in advance to any of Mr. Hoover's policies, and also a determination to have a free hand after

RADIO STYLIST GETS DIVORCE

Mrs. Ruth Atlas, of 6421 Bartlett street, former radio stylist, was granted a divorce today from Noah Atlas by Judge James H. Gray on the grounds of cruelty.

At the hearing Mrs. Atlas testified she and her husband quarreled over money matters. He wanted $500 to bring a brother to this country from Europe, she said. Her husband at present is in Palestine, she testified.

Mrs. Atlas was formerly heard as Ruth Millstone over WJAS and KDKA.

Courtship Veiled By Girl, Suit Ends

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 22.—The breach of promise suit of Anna Ruth Lemley, 19, former Waynesburg High School student, against Mark Barnes, ended when Miss Lemley refused to give details of the courtship.

Miss Lemley on the witness stand told of having become acquainted with Barnes while rooming at his home when she was a student here, and of going to the movies with him. Requested to give further details, she refused.

Pope to Broadcast Christmas Speech

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Pope Pius today ordered Father Gianfranceschi, director of the Vatican radio station, to arrange to broadcast a speech the pontiff will make on Saturday, when the Cardinals of the Curia call to present their Christmas greetings.

This is the first time the Christmas speech has been broadcast. It will begin about 5:15 a. m. Pittsburgh time.

Governor's Brother Kills Kin in Mishap

WAUCHULA, Fla., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Tragedy today invaded the family of Gov. Doyle E. Carlton with one brother dead of an accidental shot fired from the gun of another brother.

Carl Carlton was killed yesterday by a shot from the gun of his brother, Alton, that ricocheted off a tree as Alton Carlton fired at a deer.

LENCHER SEEKS JUDGESHIP

Benjamin Lencher, former assistant district attorney, loomed today as a strong contender for the County Court vacancy created by the death of Judge Thomas C. Jones, of McKeesport.

Lencher was in Harrisburg today, where he had been invited by Gov. Pinchot after his appointment had been suggested to the Governor by a number of Pittsburghers who have been associated with the Governor and the independent political movement in Allegheny County.

Judge Ralph H. Smith, recently appointed to Common Pleas bench by Pinchot, and prior to his appointment an active worker in Pinchot campaigns, is understood to favor Lencher.

Lencher was active in the mayoralty primary campaign of James F. Malone in 1929, working closely with Smith. In making the County Court appointment Pinchot is being advised by some of his friends to ignore the past organization affiliations of Lencher.

A dozen Allegheny County attorneys have been mentioned for the County Court post, each with a group of supporters.

King George, Queen Off to Sandringham

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—King George and Queen Mary entrained for Norfolkshire today to spend Christmas with members of their family at Sandringham Castle.

JURY PONDERS KLINE 'FIX'

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 22.—A jury today was determining the guilt or innocence of Charles G. Flick, of Bakerstown, charged with embracery in connection with the case of Mayor Charles H. Kline and Supplies Director Bertram L. Succop, of Pittsburgh. The case was given to the jury by Judge J. A. Chambers, of Lawrence County, this morning.

The embracery charge against Robert Cunningham, Pittsburgh contractor, was called for trial and the defense moved to quash the indictment. The motion was overruled by Judge Thomas W. Watson.

Hindenburg Becomes Grandfather Again

Prince George Abed, Stricken With Cold

Rose Allen's Brother Jailed for 30 Days

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—William W. Allen, 21, socially prominent brother of Eddie Allen, acquitted of the slaying of Francis Donaldson, sweetheart of his sister, Rose, today was sentenced to 30 days in the county prison by Judge Raymond MacNeille for drunken driving.

During an interruption in another trial, Attorney John R. K. Scott, representing young Allen, withdrew an earlier plea of not guilty and entered one of guilty to charges of drunken driving, assault and battery, possession and transportation of liquor.

Vets End Dispute Over Ashes of Dog War Hero

UHRICHSVILLE, O., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The ashes of "Bing," a dog hero of the World War, rested today free from further controversy, in the Uhrichsville-Dennison Veterans' Memorial Building.

Whether it was proper for a dog to share a place in the memorial, along with the names of men who died in the Civil, Spanish-American and World wars, was for months a subject of serious argument among veterans of the two cities.

"Bing" was one of the heroic dogs to accompany American troops on the battlefields of France, and World War veterans held that his ashes, sealed in an urn, deserved a place of honor in the memorial building.

Veterans of the Spanish-American War disagreed with this view, and appealed to several Civil War veterans to join them in protest.

Police said at least one effort apparently was made to remove Bing's ashes from the memorial by stealth.

Jobless in Glasgow Riot

GLASGOW, Scotland, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Following a City Council meeting today when seven Labor members were suspended over a refusal to receive an unemployed deputation, several thousand workers marched through the city and in one section fought with the police, injuring five officers, two seriously.

A detective was thrown into the Clyde and rescued with difficulty. Other policemen were chased for their lives. One mounted constable fell from his horse.

Persian Shah Seeks To Sell Crown Gems

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—The Shah of Persia has approached jewel markets in London and Paris in an attempt to sell the modern Peacock Throne and the Persian Globe, two of the most precious crown jewel possessions, the London Daily Herald said today. The throne of gold frame with a peacock tail awning is studded with 140,000 gems.

Financial troubles were said to be the reason for the proposed sale.

Garner Wins Fight For Short Holiday

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Speaker Garner won his fight today against a long Christmas recess. On motion of Majority Leader Rainey (Dem.), of Illinois, the House agreed to adjourn from tomorrow until Tuesday next.

Kingsford-Smiths Parents of Boy

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A son was born today to Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, famous round-the-world flier, and his wife, the former Mary Powell, pretty Irish-Australian girl. Their romance had its beginning in 1927 after his trans-Pacific flight.

JANE DIVORCED FROM HARRIS

Jane Thurston, the magician's daughter, reached out with eager hands today for her Christmas gift from Judge James H. Gray—a decree in divorce from Harry Harris, young heir of the late Senator John P. Harris.

And as Judge Gray signed the decree there echoed through the courtroom the comely Jane's decision:

"If I ever get married again, you can just bounce me a good one on the noodle!"

Little wonder, then, that Jane's admiration today was split between her father, who nightly saws a woman in half, and Judge Gray, who divides husbands and wives.

Jane is going back to show business, to sing and dance and cause the ace of spades to disappear into thin air.

It was Jane's own testimony which won her a divorce.

She told of being beaten several times by Harris in his intoxications, of so many black eyes she couldn't estimate the number. She said nothing of the Cincinnati hotel fight between her father and Harris, who lost most of the sight in one eye when Thurston exploded a tear-gas pen.

Elopers, Jane and Harris were married three times in almost three years—once under assumed names.

Amy and Husband Passengers in Plane

PARIS, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Amy Johnson, who recently set up speed records for flights from London to Cape Town and return, and her husband, Capt. J. A. Mollison, whose record she beat, arrived at Le Bourget field today from London as passengers in a plane enroute to Switzerland.

Wed Under Guard After Threat Letter

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Due to a threatening letter which was received by Miss Jasmin Schoellkopf, daughter of Paul A. Schoellkopf, president of the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, a few days before her marriage to Andre Boissier last Saturday, the Schoellkopf home at Lewiston Heights and the Presbyterian church at Lewiston, where the marriage was solemnized, were guarded by police.

Frenchman Slayer of U. S. Man Gets Life

VERSAILLES, France, Dec. 22, (INS.)—Guy Davin, 26-year-old Frenchman today was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Richard Wall, an American resident of Paris.

A jury returned a guilty verdict only 15 minutes after it had retired. The prosecutor had demanded death on the guillotine.

Refuses to Leave Jail 'Because He's Innocent'

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Albert Leikert, who comes from "somewhere in the middle west," believes he is innocent and is going to stay in jail until someone agrees with him.

He seeks a new trial after being convicted of felonious entry, and refuses to appear for sentence although Judge B. C. Atlee announced that sentence would be, in effect, his release from jail.

Leikert has been in jail since last June. He was arrested when he entered Frank Ulrich's barn and removed a horse. It was Leikert's horse but there was an unpaid feed bill.

To settle the matter finally, Judge Atlee announces he will refuse Leikert's motion for a new trial, permit him to eat Christmas dinner in jail and then sentence him to be released.

GEORGIA GOVERNOR SCORES MOORE FOR FREEING BURNS

ACTION TERMED VIOLATION OF CONSTITUTION

Sees 'Cheap Publicity' As Possible Aim of N. J. Executive

ATLANTA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Gov. Richard B. Russell, Jr., today issued a statement terming the action of Gov. Moore, of New Jersey, who yesterday refused extradition to Georga of Robert Elliott Burns, fugitive from a Georgia chain gang, as contrary to precedent and custom and comity between states and a direct violation of the United States Constitution. Russell said:

"The Governor of New Jersey is either desirous of basking in the light of some cheap publicity or else is completely taken in by the statements and writings of Burns, which have been proved false and are a slander on the State of Georgia and its institutions.

ACTION DENOUNCED

"The question of whether the confessed criminal, Burns, shall or shall not be punished is of little moment. The action of the Governor of New Jersey in sitting as court and jury and passing sentence not only on a convict, but on the sovereign state of Georgia, is far-reaching in its consequences.

"The effect of the decision not only declares that New Jersey is not bound by the Constitution of the United States, but that the Governor of that state has a right to decide whether the penal system of another state is satisfactory and the laws of another state, which undertakes to protect the lives and property of its citizens, should be enforced."

ANSWERED BY MOORE

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Gov. Moore today replied to the criticism of Gov. Russell, of Georgia, of his action in refusing to extradite Robert Elliott Burns, as follows:

"I wish the Governor of Georgia a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year and respectfully refer him to the Fuller case."

The Governor's reference was understood to be to a refusal of Georgia authorities to release to New York state a fugitive charged with absconding with $1,000,000 of state funds.

Saved From Chain Gang, Burns to Rejoin Family

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Free of the shadow of a Georgia prison camp and chain gang, Robert Elliott Burns today was expected to join members of his family at Palisades, N. J., to celebrate his deliverance.

Burns, whose plight aroused a nationwide storm of interest and sympathy, was in seclusion following refusal of Gov. A. Harry Moore to extradite him to the southern state after a dramatic four-hour hearing at Trenton yesterday afternoon.

Burns' mother, Mrs. Catherine Burns; his brother, the Rev. Vincent Burns, and the latter's wife went to their home at Palisades. Burns did not accompany them, but it was intimated he would join them today for a family reunion.

BANDIT DEATH PROBE DELAYED

The Coroner's inquest into the death of Elmer (Red) McCorkle, bandit suspect, shot as he fled from the Carrick car barns last November 12, was continued indefinitely and a patrolman and the homicide detectives were scored by Coroner W. J. McGregor for failure to have their case properly prepared. Exoneration of Patrolman Thomas Feigler, shot in a gun battle with McCorkle, and Patrolman George Stone, which had been expected, was postponed until after Christmas. Feigler is in Mercy Hospital.

Stone testified some person connected with the Coroner's office told him it was not necessary to produce weapons used in the battle, which resulted in the death of McCorkle and the capture of F. A. Jedlick of 2933 Brentwood avenue, Carrick, and Walter Freithoffer of 830 Roll street, Knoxville. Stone said they are being held as exhibits at the trial of Jedlick and Freithoffer, M-Corkle's alleged companions. The homicide squad also was censored.

Marks Anniversary By Seeking Divorce

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Dec. 22.—Mrs. Ell Marie Anderson, Uhrichsville, observed the anniversary of her marriage, December 23, 1919, two days early, by asking a divorce from Frank M. Anderson. She charged he is not imbued with the Christmas spirit.

BEER PROSPECT BRIGHTENS

Earlier tests in the Senate have indicated a strong sentiment for 2.75 per cent beer. The House vote, however, is expected to have some influence in the final determination of the permitted alcoholic content.

The attitude of President Hoover continued to remain in doubt. Some administration senators have declared positively Mr. Hoover will veto the bill—but no one in the confidence of the Executive has deigned to say he knows just what he will do. Republican wets cling to hope of approval.

DRYS THREATEN

Drys today served notice they will seek to punish House members who voted for the beer bill.

The fire of the drys, it was intimated, will be directed chiefly at southern Democrats who supported the measure as a party platform promise.

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, declared the bill will bring a trail of disappointment. He said:

"Included in the list of disappointed will, of course, be the members of the House who supported the measure in the belief that their party-plank-disfranchised dry constituents will accept a party-machine-manipulated mandate for beer."

McBride served notice that if the measure should be passed by the Senate and signed by the President, the drys will take it into the courts.

Gilda Gray, Ill, Can't Visit Child

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Gilda Gray's hopes of spending Christmas with her son and her sister in Milwaukee, were frustrated today by doctor's orders. Miss Gray has been confined to her hotel here since December 15 with an attack of the grip.

Magistrate Easy On 'Dry Town' Drinker

Burgess Charles Chamberlin, of Dormont, is tough on people who drink, and Dormont people vote dry and drink wet, was Magistrate Leo Rothenberg's comment today when a Dormont resident appeared in Central station's "drink line." To the defendant, Fred Jordan, the magistrate lamented:

"You are from Burgess Chamberlin's bailiwick, and he's tough on people who drink. You people from Dormont vote dry and drink wet. However, I'm not going to be like Chamberlin; I'm going to return good for evil and discharge you if you stay sober over Christmas."

TRUCE REACHED ON PHILIPPINES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A complete agreement on Philippine independence legislation with less severe immigration and trade restrictions and granting full freedom to the islands in 10 years was reached today by congressional conferees.

Chairman Bingham, of the Senate Territories Committee and a Senate conferee, said he would try for quick approval of the agreement in the Senate, which must act first.

Both Senate and House groups receded on important points of difference under the proposed compromise.

The higher House quotas of duty-free imports of sugar and cocoanut oil from the islands were accepted.

FARM AID CUT $200,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Presidential budget estimates were slashed today for the third successive time by the House Appropriations Committee in reporting the annual agricultural supply bill.

The measures carries $110,981,193, as compared with $317,883,236 last year—a cut of $206,902,043.

The reduction is chiefly accounted for by budget cuts, but the committee pruned the bill $78,333,716 beyond the President's recommendation.

The largest savings was made for federal highway work, totaling $187,000,000. This is due to the fact that Congress has made no authorization for further continuation of the joint state-government road building program.

The highway work, however, will not halt. The bill carries a reappropriation of $35,000,000 for use next year. In addition at least $11,000,000 of last year's emergency funds can be used.

N. Y. Labor Leader Sentenced to Pen

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Patrick J. Commerford, a vice president of the New York State Federation of Labor and an official of the Building Trades Council, was sentenced to serve a year and a day in federal prison yesterday by Judge Robert P. Patterson.

RAIL WORKERS EXTEND PAY CUT PACT

10-Day Deadlock Ends As Labor Yields to Managements

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Ending a 10-day deadlock, representatives of the nation's railroads and their 1,500,000 workers came to an agreement today, calling for a nine-month extension of the 10 per cent pay cut.

The agreement was reached this morning after a strenuous night of bargaining between the rail managements' committee and heads of the 21 major brotherhoods.

Harmony was attained when the workers' emissaries accepted the final compromise proposal of the carriers' delegates.

PACT ENDS OCTOBER 31

Under the agreement, the present Willard wage contract, calling for a deduction of 10 per cent of every worker's pay, will continue in force from January 31, date of its scheduled expiration, until October 31.

The railroad executives pledged themselves not to move for any downward change in the basic wage rate before June 15. In return for this concession, the union leaders promised not to ask for any increases until June 15.

The deductions under the Willard plan are estimated to take approximately $18,750,000 out of the workers' pay each month.

The agreement ends a joint wage conference which has lasted two weeks, and several times approached the brink of failure.

EXECUTIVES' THREAT

It had been reported that the managements submitted the proposal of a nine-month extension as their last word and were prepared to move for drastic changes in the basic scale under the Railway Labor Act should the compromise proposition have been rejected by the brotherhoods.

Thus, the agreement averted, for the time being, a bitter battle between railroad capital and labor before a governmental mediation board.

Successful termination of the negotiations was hailed here as a relief and a boon to the nation's industries which are so closely dependent on the welfare and stability of the rail systems.

The labor chieftains described the agreement as a victory for the workers, pointing out that the basic wage scale was not affected and any move to lower it has been deferred.

LLOYD GEORGE DEFIES JAIL

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—David Lloyd George, the former Liberal leader, made a sensational declaration in the House of Commons this afternoon, intimating that he was ready to go to jail, if it came to that, on the issue of further disclosure by him of cabinet proceedings which he threatened should any further "partial disclosures" be made.

What led up to this was the recent partial disclosure by several members, including Lloyd George himself, during debate in the house of proceedings in Lloyd George's own cabinet in connection with the 1923 debt settlement with America.

Today's outburst was occasioned by a warning by Lord Hailsham, secretary for war, and other lords in the House of Lords last night that disclosures of cabinet secrets made the offender liable under criminal law.

SCHOOL TAX CUT ISSUE REVIVED

The possibility of reconsidering the tax millage for 1933 will be discussed at a special meeting of the Board of Public Education next Tuesday at 4 p. m.

President Marcus Aaron, of the board, has announced the board will discuss reconsideration of the 11¾-mill tax rate set for 1933 and will be glad to receive suggestions for economies in writing up to tonight.

Members of the board speaking at the recent taxpayers' protest meeting were unanimous in their declaration that the welfare of the children is the first consideration and that they failed to see how a reduction in the tax rate could have been accomplished this year.

The board has reduced its budget for 1933 by $1,568,000, but has not cut the tax rate because of slower tax collections.

Parochial Students To Be Transferred

WINNIPEG, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Two thousand Catholic school children, who have been attending parochial institutions in Winnipeg, will be absorbed into the public schools when the new term commences, January 4, following the Christmas holidays.

At a meeting of the Winnipeg School Board plans for the care of the Catholic pupils from 10 parochial schools were completed. Due to the financial burden, the Catholic church is unable to maintain schools after January 1.

If the heavy cuts are not made today no serious action is considered likely before the holidays.

Council has made another attempt to prevent the employment of husband and wife on the payroll of the City Home and Hospital at Mayview.

On motion by Councilman Robert Garland, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Welfare, and Dr. J. S. Hammers, superintendent at Mayview, have been instructed to correct the condition of a couple on the same payroll. Garland said:

"The principle is wrong and should be corrected. If you don't dismiss them their salaries should be reduced."

FIGHTS FOR CLINIC

Council had passed a resolution last year frowning upon this situation, but Dr. Hammers explained that the persons affected, in one instance Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Quigg, could not be replaced.

Mrs. Rauh has also asked Council to restore the Mental Health Clinic which had been tentatively taken out of the budget the day before. Council refused to act until it has an opportunity to study comparative figures for the County Home at Woodville.

Budget Controller Alderdice has recommended the transfer from the downtown district 60 of the 115 traffic officers, most of whom are on duty at corners where traffic lights are in operation.

According to Alderdice, the number of traffic officers on duty in the downtown district is larger than before the signal lights were installed. The men might be assigned to other parts of the city where patrolmen have been taken away, Alderdice declared. His report was referred to the Better Traffic Committee.

Phila. Cuts Street Lights for Economy

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—As an economy measure, 13,000 Philadelphia street lamps of a type looked upon as "bright lights" in the gay nineties, will be extinguished after January 1.

City officials announced that 8,000 gasoline lamps and 5,000 gas lights will be turned off at a saving of $300,000 annually. No streets will be left without lights, officials said, but in some places every second lamp will be eliminated.

HOOVER TO ACT UNAIDED ON WAR DEBTS

Messages of Roosevelt Made Public at White House

March 4, with all that that implies.

As for example, the Governor's assertion:

"I must respectfully suggest that the appointment of permanent delegates and the final determination of a program of the economic conference be held in abeyance until after March 4."

Throughout the correspondence, there was revealed wide divergences of opinion between the two men.

In one communication, Mr. Hoover invited Gov. Roosevelt to "designate Mr. Owen D. Young, Col. E. M. House, or any other men of your party possessed of your views and your confidence and at the same time familiar with these problems, to sit with the principal officers of this administration in endeavor to see what steps can be taken to avoid delays of previous time and inevitable losses that will ensue from such delays."

ROOSEVELT REPLY

To this invitation the President-elect replied that "the designation of a man or men of such eminence as your telegram suggests would not imply mere fact-findings; it would suggest the presumption that such representatives would be empowered to exchange views on matters of large and binding policy."

Chronologically, the exchanges between the President and the President-elect began last Saturday night, with Mr. Hoover dispatching a lengthy telegram to Albany in which he pointed out that both were agreed that it is the duty of the United States to survey and exchange views on the debts with various individual debtors. Such being the case, Mr. Hoover said it was necessary to consider the character of the machinery erected for this purpose.

The President then proceeded to outline to Gov. Roosevelt essentially what he later proposed in his message to Congress, i. e., that the debts question, the economic conference, and the question of disarmaments are more or less interlocking, and that the United States should be represented in all these affairs by "a strong delegation."

Mr. Hoover differed with Gov. Roosevelt's policy of dealing with debts through ordinary channels of diplomacy.

HOOVER TELEGRAM

His telegram said:

"Such problems as the exchange of views in respect to debts cannot be accomplished in satisfactory manner through the ordinary routine of diplomatic contacts. The routine machinery of diplomacy neither affords the type of men required nor can they give the time from other duties which such discussions require."

After pointing out that "we must not change our established policy of dealing with each debtor separately, Mr. Hoover then declared the problems were so interlocking as to require a strong delegation.

After pondering Mr. Hoover's telegram, Gov. Roosevelt replied in a lengthy message. He differed somewhat with Mr. Hoover's theory that debts, disarmament and economic conditions are all intertwined.

Gov. Roosevelt recognized "a relationship, but not an identity," and he could not go along at all with Mr. Hoover's idea that the American negotiating personnel on all three problems should be the same.

Paul-Boncour to Follow Herriot Debt Policy

PARIS, Dec. 22—(AP.)—Joseph Paul-Boncour intends to follow the policies of the Herriot government with regard to negotiations in connection with the American debt, he revealed today in his first appearance as Premier before the Chamber of Deputies.

His primary objective will be a conference to effect a general settlement, but he warned that the political situation in the United States makes it advisable to conduct the negotiations with the greatest care.

His disarmament policy also will be a continuation of his predecessor's. In domestic matters he intends to effect administrative economies which probably will take the form of salary and pension reductions.

In his foreign relations, he said, he desires particularly to cultivate the friendship between France and Great Britain, at the same time granting to Germany so far as he can consistently do so, the status of equality which she demands.

Bite By Co-ed Sends Policeman to Hospital

Especially when the co-ed is as pretty as Clare Carothers, 18-year-old Columbia University art student, who was cooling her heels in a police cell today, held without bail until tomorrow because of her tooth exercises on Patrolman Joseph Pacanucci.

It seems that Patrolman Pacanucci stopped Clare's car, and in the ensuing argument she bit him on the hand so severely that he had to go to the hospital for treatment.

She was charged with disorderly conduct.

Poor Board Pays $1,633 For Cigars and Whisky

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A report submitted by S. Davis Wilson to City Controller Willb Hadley states that more than $600 was spent for cigars and $1,000 for whisky by the Germantown Poor Board.

Wilson, counsel for the Controller, recommended yesterday that six poor boards be abolished by the Legislature. The boards have been under fire recently on charges of extravagance. A special committee of the State House of Representatives has been investigating their records.

A sum of $633 "charged to incidental expenses," Wilson's report said:

"Should have been charged to the tobacco item, as vouchers covering this amount call for a purchase of cigars at 12½ cents each. It was found the cigars were for 'house use' and not distributed to the inmates.

"Two vouchers of $500 each were for the purchase of 20 cases of rye whisky. We could obtain no information as to how this was distributed, or who was responsible for the requisitioning."

DEPORTATION FEAR HOLDS UP PEGGY'S STAGE CONTRACT

RICH'S DIVORCE SNAGS HOPES FOR JOB

'Moral Turpitude' Case Of Countess Prompts Ouster Hint

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Peggy Lawton, the "poor little Rich girl," faced the future today with an uncertain smile.

Uncertain because she might be deported from this country now that a jury has found her guilty of misconduct with Jack De Ruyter, prominent Park avenue society man, and a smile just to show she doesn't care that her husband, Freddie Rich, has won a divorce from her.

STAGE CONTRACT

She had planned to go back to the stage. In fact, a producer's representative with a juicy contract sat in court during the sensational trial of the orchestra leader's charges. But how can a girl sign a contract with immigration officials said to be considering sending her to British soil?

Peggy, with a hurt look, said:

"My husband tried to deport me once before."

Rich told reporters:

"Why, I'm not interested in having her deported. I wanted a divorce, that is all."

Immigration officials denied any knowledge of the Rich case. The basis of the report of deportation lies in the famous Cathcart case when Countess Cathcart was debarred for "moral turpitude."

'MAY BE DESTITUTE'

If Peggy does not get a job she will be among the destitute, her attorney, James D. C. Murray, asserted. She was making several hundred dollars a week when she married Rich in 1927, and when she left the stage he made her an allowance of $500 a week.

Pending the outcome of the case she got $60 a week.

Peggy would not mind returning to South Africa, where she was brought up. She likes her own country, although she likes America, too. She said:

"In my country things like this trial could not happen. There, men do not take such vicious means to get rid of their wives."

She left court with a woman friend and De Ruyter, who has stood by her through the trial, encouraging her in a belief the divorce would not be granted. He seemed more upset than she when the verdict came in late yesterday afternoon.

He won the decree, but she promises more legal fighting.

GUNMAN SLAIN IN TRAP SET BY WIFE

Jealous Woman Gives Gangster to Police, Son Sees Killing

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Trapped through the jealous anger of his wife, William Nydick, robber, gunman and ex-convict, went down in the records today as the latest casualty in Chicago's war on crime.

Before the eyes of Arlene, the wife who "tipped" the police, Nydick was shot and killed last night in his hotel room by Detective Sergeant Harry Miller.

Sergt. Miller, head of Mayor Anton J. Cermak's "Hoodlum Squad," is the officer who accompanied Sergt. Harry Lang last Monday on the momentous raid in which Frank "The Enforcer" Nitti, ace lieutenant of the jailed Al Capone, was shot and critically wounded.

BETRAYED BY WIFE

It was Nydick's alleged philandering that brought him to his death. His wife, who was formerly married to Policeman Morris Michaelson, was stirred to jealous hatred because he slighted her, devoting his attentions to another woman. So she betrayed his whereabouts and secretly arranged for the visit of Sergt. Miller and his squad.

Her 13-year-old son, Nat Michaelson, was also in the hotel room when Sergt. Miller and his men strode in and handed Nydick a warrant calling for his arrest on a charge of participating in the $70,000 gem holdup of the Fidelity Loan Bank more than a year ago. Nydick read the warrant, tore it to shreds and whipped a revolver out of an open drawer.

Sergt. Miller fired three bullets into Nydick, killing him almost instantly.

'WAYWARD SON'

Wayward son of a respectable Chicago family, Nydick served robbery terms in the prisons of Michigan and Ohio.

The shooting of Nydick was in accordance with Mayor Cermak's order to all police officers to be "first on the draw."

The death struggle between the police and the imprisoned Capone's underlings achieved new intensity today as the result of Mayor Cermak's grim warning that bullets will fly thick and fast should the mobmen attempt to carry out reprisals.

It was reported that the Capone band has determined to wage war on the police, much the same kind of bloody combat with which it crushed rival gangs in the struggle for underworld supremacy.

'Pal's' Back, Joey's Happy Again

JOEY M'ALLISTER, 2 . . . "PAL" WAS MISSING FOR TWO WEEKS AND JOEY WAS VERY SICK

DOG RETURNED, BOY REJOICES

The world is bright today for little "Joey" McAllister. His terrier, "Pal," has come home. For two weeks "Joey" watched from the window of his home at 4112 Winterburn street, Greenfield, hoping every dog that passed might be "Pal." "Joey," just 2 years old, couldn't eat and lost eight pounds.

Then the Sun-Telegraph heard about the missing dog and published a story and picture of "Joey" Tuesday. That same night "Pal" was brought home by the three little daughters of Mrs. Joseph Barthas, of 674 Frayne street, Hazelwood, who had taken the terrier in out of the cold at midnight of the day he strayed away.

They saw "Joey's" picture in the paper and said they knew "there just couldn't be another terrier like 'Pal.'"

All "Joey" could say when the dog came home was:

ROBBERS BEAT, BIND REPORTER

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Ray Seidle, 35, police reporter for a Chicago newspaper, was found unconscious in a garage at his parents' home here early today, his throat, mouth and nose tightly bound with adhesive tape and his knees pinioned, while nearby blazed flames from a pile of rubbish.

Police said Seidle, semi-conscious several hours later, nodded when asked if two men assaulted him as he drove into the garage.

He was rescued by his brother, Robert, who was aroused by a neighbor. Officers said they believed the reporter had managed to throw a brick through a garage window. They were unable to determine a motive for the attack. Robert Saidle said his brother carried about $200 which was missing.

Seidle spent last evening with Miss Wilma Thompson, of Indianapolis, leaving her home, she said, about 11:30.

When his brother pulled him from the smoke-filled garage he was near strangulation.

3 DEAD; WRECK LAID TO SPEED

LIMA, O., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Charges that the train was traveling at an excessive rate of speed were made here today as an investigation was started into the Erie Railroad tragedy near here last night, in which three persons were killed and several others injured.

The train was speeding at 50 miles an hour when it struck the switch at the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton crossing, two miles south of here, according to a report to F. J. Tamplin, of Huntington, Ind., Erie Railroad superintendent.

The engine, a baggage and mail car and two passenger coaches were hurtled off the tracks and plunged through a crossing signal tower.

The towerman, Charles Aldrich, of Lima; Court Scott, of Huntington, Ind., engineer, and Earl Swihart, also of Huntington, were killed.

Thirty passengers were aboard the train. They escaped by crawling out through windows of the wrecked cars.

STAR'S MOTHER CHARGES THEFT OF FORTUNE

Mary Miles Minter's Parent Accuses Civic Leader

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—District Attorney Buron Fitts said today a formal complaint would be issued charging Leslie B. Henry with theft of the once large fortune of Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, mother of Mary Miles Minter, one-time star of the screen.

Henry, a former executive of a national bond house, was held in the county jail today for suspicion of grand theft while authorities sought to untangle the involved records of his financial transactions with Mrs. Shelby. Fitts alleged Henry dissipated funds and securities, totaling about $500,000, placed in his custody by Mrs. Shelby.

CIVIC LEADER

Henry has long beben a prominent civic figure in Southern California. He was once president of the Tournament of Roses Association of Pasadena and the past district president of the Kiwanis International.

Although Fitts said a complaint will be issued today, which will charge more than 20 counts of irregularities, the case will be presented to the grand jury at a special session called for next Tuesday.

Mrs. Shelby told authorities she began dealing with Henry 10 years ago when he was manager of the Pasadena office of Blyth & Co., bond hous.. She said she believed at all times she was doing business with the bond house through Henry as their agent and knew nothing of alleged manipulations of her funds until five weeks ago.

BOND HOUSE DENIAL

Officials of Blyth & Co., of which Henry until recently was syndicate manager, declared Henry handled Mrs. Shelby's business independent of their concern. Any loss to the company, they said, will fall on the surety company which wrote Henry's bond. Henry, after his arrest, said:

"I have nothing to say about the matter."

He added that he was being guided by the advice of his attorney.

Fitts claimed he had statements and corespondence which implicated Henry with the dissipation by speculation of Mrs. Shelby's money.

Documents presented by Mrs Shelby's attorney, and statements made by Miss Eva Barber, for many years Henry's private secretary, led to the arrest of Henry, Fitts said.

Mrs. Shelby will be one of the first witnesses to testify against the former broker. She had been residing in Europe for the last several years.

SHAW TO VISIT IN CALIFORNIA

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—George Bernard Shaw has private engagements in San Francisco and will fly from San Francisco to Los Angeles, a message from the ship on which he is making a world cruise said today.

The playwright never has visited the United States. Previous reports were that he would stop over only a few hours at an American port.

The Empress of Britain, which Shaw and his wife boarded in Southern France, was nearing Athens today after a call at Naples.

After viewing the ruins of Pompeii, Shaw said:

Shaw also climbed Mount Vesuvius.

The message from the ship said his engagements in San Francisco were believed to be the "main object" of his voyage.

Youth Jailed After Holding Up Lodge

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Less than half an hour after he had purchased a hunting rifle, Claude Graeff, Jr., 17, was under arrest charged with holding up two members of a fraternal lodge and robbing them of $1,000.

Graeff, police said, was a sophomore in a high school here until three weeks ago when he quit.

A CLASSIFIED advertisement in the Miami Herald headed "extermination" offers to destroy your termites, white wings, wood-eating ants and all others that will destroy your buildings in this warm climate if let alone.

This announcement reminds you of Mr. Huxley's comforting statement that ants, which might well have conquered the earth and dispossessed man, wiping him out completely, will not do so, because "ant evolution" has come to a standstill.

All that the ants know now they have known for a million years, and they will not know any more a million years hence, whereas men with their science are making themselves more and more invincible. Even so, if the termites, "imitation ants," could endure the cold northern climate, they might have owned the earth ages ago.

TIED TO a river bank, north of Jacksonville, for convenient unloading, prohibition agents found and captured a British ship carrying 955 boxes of whisky, valued at $50,000.

That is one modern case of smuggling. A case more interesting is revealed in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, where a federal grand jury indicts eleven inside and outside the prison engaged in selling drugs to prison mates.

FAMILY FACES 2D YULE BURIAL

Christmas will be a day of mourning for the second time in four years in the home of Mrs. Mary E. B. Miller, 1713 Montpelier avenue, Dormont.

On Christmas, 1928, she buried her husband. On Sunday she will bury her youngest son, Clyde R. Miller, 24, who died early today in her home of pneumonia.

The mother and two other sons, Chief of Police Ralph Miller, of Dormont, and Harry, 31, had worked since Monday in relays with an oxygen tent in an effort to save the life of Clyde who was stricken ill about nine days ago.

The young man was a lifelong resident of the South Hills. He was a member of the Mt. Lebanon United Presbyterian Church.

Father Confesses To Killing of Son

FRESNO, Cal., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—John Domke, 63, who told authorities he shot and killed his son, Henry, 26, with a muzzle loading and ball pistol, will be given a preliminary hearing on a murder charge on December 28, Glenn M. Devore, assistant attorney, declared today.

Both Domke and his wife told Devore the killing was in self defense when the son advanced upon his father with a kitchen knife.

QUARRY KILLING JURY LOCKED

LIMA, O., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Deadlocked nearly two days, the jury which heard the first degree murder trial of Loren Truesdale, 23, accused of slaying his brother and the latter's girl friend, asked to be discharged today, but Judge E. E. Everett ordered deliberations continued until late this afternoon.

It was rumored the jurors, who received the case at 6 p. m. Tuesday, stood 10 to 2 for conviction.

Loren was charged with beating his brother, Earl, 20, and Miss Thelma Woods, 17, to death and throwing their bodies in an abandoned quarry May 30, 1931.

Cold Robin, Sent South, Too Weak to Fly

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A robin-red-breast has traveled hundreds of miles and arrived here, just another "snowbird" for the police department to look after.

The robin was rescued by Racine (Wis.) police after being hit with a stone and was nursed back to health by Chief Grover C. Lutter.

But Racine has been having some below-zero weather lately. So Chief Lutter boxed the bird up and sent it to Chief A. J. Roberts, of the Jacksonville force. With it came the following note:

"When it gets 10 below zero it is much too cold for little robins to be in this part of the country. The one in this box forgot to move South with the rest of the flock last fall.

"Would appreciate it if you would release him with a warning not to return to Wisconsin without heavy underwear and spats."

Science Saves Girl, 9, From Dwarfdom

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Science has spared "Miss J. M." from dwarfdom.

A year ago, the 9-year-old girl stood but 36 inches, which is normal height for a 3-year-old child.

But today, after treatment with a new fluid purified at the University of California laboratories, she has assumed the appearance of any normal 9-year-old girl.

University scientists disclosed that little "Miss J. M.," under treatment with the pituitary growth hormone, has been made to grow more than four inches and develop normal features. Before the experiment, the child had failed to grow for three years.

Her case climaxed the life work of Dr. William Engelbach, New York biologist and expert on endocrine disturbances, who died a few days ago.

—prime, young, fresh, hand-picked birds; the cream of the flocks of 60,000 farmers in the great Northwest. Only the choicest of the many birds shipped are fine enough to earn the Fifth Avenue Blue Ribbon De Luxe trademark.

This Christmas they cost no more than ordinary birds. You take no chances, you are insured against disappointment, if you choose a Fifth Avenue Turkey De Luxe. Look for the Fifth Avenue trademark button—your guarantee of satisfaction—on the turkey you buy. Fifth Avenue Turkeys De Luxe are freshly-dressed, dry-picked—breasts are plumped to pleasing fullness—breast-bones are straight, heavy with white meat. Fifth Avenue Turkeys De Luxe are available only at DONAHOE'S. NO MAIL ORDERS—NO C. O. D. ORDERS

On Sale At ALL Donahoe Stores

Look For This FIFTH AVENUE Blue Ribbon Trademark Button

It is "only a button" but it represents the reputation of Donahoe's.

Today—tomorrow—all week, thousands of people, depending on this button, will buy from Donahoe's the most important item of their Christmas dinner—a turkey—a Donahoe Fifth Avenue Turkey De Luxe.

As these thousands do, so may you well do, for you will be getting the finest turkey in the land.

How we Sell, Price and Weigh Turkeys

All Donahoe turkeys are sold, priced and weighed on the "New York Style" basis. This trade term means that such a turkey has its head and feet on and is undrawn. After the turkey is weighed and priced it is drawn and the head and feet removed.

For Quicker, Better Service

During the Christmas rush, in order to give you quicker and better service, we will have hundreds of turkeys ready in advance—weighed and priced on the "New York Style" basis, then fully dressed—head off, feet off, entrails out and cleaned.

No Waiting—No Delay

All such turkeys will be tagged showing the weight and price before full dressing—just pick the turkey that suits you and have it wrapped—no waiting—no delay.

Donahoe's LEAD—Others Follow—

Donahoe's—by their timely action in reducing the price of turkeys when the market justified it—saved the People of Pittsburgh thousands of dollars on their Christmas Turkey Dinners.

Donahoe's brought down the price of turkeys at the proper time, and now others—weeks after our first price drop, days after our second price drop—have desperately lowered prices in a frantic effort to regain trade and good will that has been lost by a high-price policy.

In such stores you pay a high price for many days—a low price for a few days. Donahoe's live up to their policy by giving the Public the RIGHT price at the RIGHT time.

Take Home Your Turkey Thursday or Friday . . . . . Avoid the Terrific Saturday Rush! . . . . . Fifth Avenue Turkeys De Luxe, Fresh Dressed, will KEEP

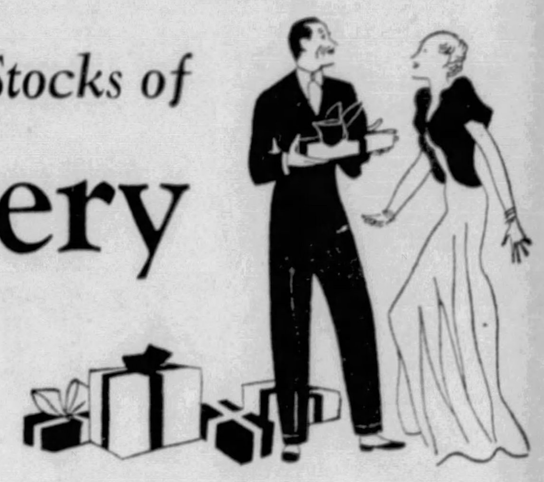
Gift Hosiery



It may be practically the last minute . . . but don't let that worry you, if you're planning to give silk hosiery. For you'll find just what you want, in the types and shades and sizes you know she prefers . . . at just the prices you want to pay . . . right here in our well-stocked Hosiery Section!

Aimcee 85c

The improved Aimcee, too. Sheer, all-silk chiffons . . . or semi-service with lisle tops, solid silk heel, and lisle reinforced foot.

Van Raalte $1.00

Two general favorites, at this price—are Van Raalte's Myth, beautifully sheer but serviceable—and Illusion, little more than a suggestion of a stocking for evening.

Barbara Lee Personalized, $1.35

Propper Ingrain Chiffons . . $1.65

Propper Lace-Clock Stockings, $1.35 and $2.00.

There's Still Time to Have a Radio for Christmas

Selections Made Tomorrow Will Be Installed in Time for Christmas.

The Essex, $49.95

This radio is unusually selective—a superheterodyne circuit, has 10 new type tubes, automatic volume control, static reducer, illuminated tuning scale and dual dynamic speakers.

A Small Payment Will Insure Delivery of This Radio in Time for Christmas—Balance May Be Paid in Monthly Payments.

Be Bright . . . Give Her

A Glitter Sweater

It is the newest, gayest thing of its kind, that you can give a young woman, and besides it's "a lot for your money" . . . Choose from various puff-sleeve models in white, bright or soft colors, all-over threaded with metal, or with metal threads outlining a wool-embroidered motif on the front of the sweater.

... Horne's, Sweater Section, Second Floor ...

Hundreds of New Gift Skirts . . . $1.65

Believe it or not, skirts are one of the most popular gift items in things to wear, and our skirts at this price have been making a grand hit. A new group for tomorrow includes sports and semi-dress models, of heavy and medium-weight wools in wanted colors, black and gray.

HERBERT OPERETTA -:- Aborn Singers Present 'Naughty Marietta' -:- JUDGE SMITH ON AIR

Ann Harding In Hollywood Broadcast

Microphone appearances by seven well-known Hollywood personalities; a miniature production of Victor Herbert's operetta, "Naughty Marietta," and an address by Judge Ralph H. Smith, recently appointed to the Common Pleas bench by Gov. Pinchot, headline tonight's air presentations over Pittsburgh stations.

The stars of RKO'S new film, "The Animal Kingdom," headed by Ann Harding, Leslie Howard, Myrna Loy and Neil Hamilton, are featured in "Hollywood on the Air," broadcast over NBC-WCAE from 12:30 to 1 a. m. Others scheduled to appear on the program are Ilka Chase, Henry Stevenson and William Garga, who acts as master of ceremonies. Additional highlights are brief talks by Edward H. Griffith, director of the production; Carlotta King, screen and operatic star, and Clyde Beatty, famous animal trainer.

Miss Harding

Herbert's "Naughty Marietta," with Roy Cropper, Edward Nell, Jr., Vivian Hart, Eulalie Young, Laura Ferguson, Hal Ford and William Philbrick singing the leading roles, is the Aborn Opera Company's "Five Star Theater" offering over CBS-WJAS at 10 o'clock tonight.

Program Pointers

"Building Balance" is the topic of Judge Ralph H. Smith's address, heard as KQV's "Pittsburgh Today" feature at 9 p. m. Speaking under the auspices of the Allegheny branch of the Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A., of which he is vice president, Judge Smith discusses the boys' work of that organization. The Regimentalists, a male chorus of 16 voices under the direction of Keith McLeod, presents a varied program including the yodel, "Chanson Tyrolienne," by Harrhy; "Comrades," from Stoltz' "Love's Command," and "Red Bombay," on KDKA at 8.

Judge Smith

Once again the studio audience of 200 persons joins the "Show Boat" cast—as it did on Thanksgiving night—to present a seasonal selection, the Christmas hymn, "Silent Night," on WCAE at 9. Muriel Wilson, the Show Boat's latest addition, also is heard, singing "Listen to the Mocking Bird."

Georgie Price offers a society comedy scene and mimicks Sir Harry Lauder on WJAS at 7:45.

The story of a prospector who celebrated a rich strike by inviting all of his long-lost relatives to a Christmas party is the "Death Valley Days" drama on NBC-KDKA at 9 o'clock

"The soul of Elbert Imstraus," depicting the attempts of a crazed professor to restore his dead son to life and Thurston's success in averting a murder which would have accompanied such an experiment, is dramatized on KDKA at 8:45.

Little Jack Little is one of radio's ablest musical "ad-libbers" . . . He never times a program in rehearsal, but invariably manages to change it sufficiently while broadcasting to come out exactly on time.

Georgie Price has started to take piano lessons and spends several hours daily in concentrated practice. He's preparing for a vaudeville impersonation of Jimmy Durante.

Jessica Dragonette, Rudy Vallee, Ed Wynn, Rubinoff, Ted Husing, Morton Downey and the Gypsies are leading the various groups in that Bosch radio star poll. Sherlock Holmes, Ray Knight and Elsie Hitz virtually tie for the lead in the actors' division.

Salvation Army Band In Yule Concert

The annual Christmas radio program of the Salvation Army Band under the direction of William Abram is broadcast from the studios of KDKA at 5:15 p. m. today.

Writer Opens New Series on WCAE

Henrik de Leeuw, Dutch traveler, lecturer and writer, who for years has lived in the Far East, Borneo and Malaya, opens a new series of talks as guest speaker on the Women's Radio Review over WCAE at 3:30 tomorrow.

Ladies G. A. R. Home Yule Party Tonight

The annual Christmas party at the Ladies of the G. A. R. Home, Hawkins Station, will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Members of the Progressive Blind Girls' Club will provide entertainment.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Merry Christmas, ladies and gentlemen:

Here's a Globe-Trotter who signs herself a "puzzled wife." She needs help and needs it badly. This is her problem:

"What would you do with a man who insists on talking back to the radio?"

And the way he argues with the Washington political experts sometimes makes her furious. You know it's a good thing that they don't have a gadget so that the listener could interrupt and talk through his machine right back to the talker. Could we organize a radio kibitzer club?

* * *

That wasn't a crime being committed in the Liberty Tubes the other evening. All that squealing and groaning came from three pigs which objected to going through the tunnel. Motorists got the surprise of their lives when they saw the porkers come chasing through the tubes. A. C. Strauss reports that three men, after an exciting game of tag, loaded them back on a truck before some astonished driver turned them into chops.

* * *

Devotion to duty regardless of personal comfort is the theme of the story told by J. Boyland, of Butler street. When Engine Co. No. 9 answered an alarm at Fifty-seventh and Butler, the other day, one fireman had no opportunity to put on his shoes and socks, but attended to business with his bare tootsies in the snow.

* * *

Louis A. Harris, Wilkinsburg—Wish you were right.

Mrs. Smith, Brookline—First tell me who is in the Etna dance.

Miss J. W., Monongahela—Rudy Vallee here December 26.

Mrs. P. L., Mt. Washington—Several have reported flocks of birds and all seem to get a kick out of caring for them.

* * *

Mrs. Joseph Lang, of Butler street, cautions Globetrotters about covering birds. Be sure they get enough air to prevent suffocation.

Mrs. H. Allen, of West View, was host to a pair of cardinals at her bird free lunch stand.

* * *

We have a real seafaring Globe Trotter among us. He is E. A. Kotak, of Overbrook, who advises youngsters with romantic ideas of the sea, to remain landlubbers for a while. Men who have roamed the seas the world over are at present without berths and that part is not so romantic.

* * *

The prize child story comes from Mrs. E. Calmus, of Beltzhoover. Her little Jean gazed long and curiously at the ear muffs on Policeman John Fogarty and then said:

"It must be time for the Globe Trotter."

* * *

And you are not forgetting that your Christmas cards can be mailed for a cent and a half if the envelope is unsealed.

* * *

You can just add the word Gallipolis to the list of Globe Trotter pitfalls. It seems that we forgot to accent the last syllable of that Ohio town, and are some of you laughing? All right, but don't report me to O. O. McIntyre.

Listening In On Radio Gossip

Bits about the stars: Harriet Lee has been commissioned an honorary captain in the Army . . . Annette Hanshaw still cherishes her first party dress . . . T. Daniel Frawley led six different dramatic companies on world tours before he entered radio . . . Sigmund Spaeth has been giving musically-illustrated lectures since 1922 . . . Lanny Ross wants to spend the holidays in Bermuda, but won't because of broadcasts . . . Reis and Dunn are off the air at present due to seasonable colds.

Every time the Pickens sisters go to pose for pictures, they take seven or eight gowns each with them, usually requiring three page boys to carry the costumes.

* * *

Elizabeth Love, who's heard in the role of Betty Graham in the present series of "Roses and Drums," made her radio debut last week when De Wolf Hopper recruited her to perform with him in the dramatic production. She played the lead in the road show of "Strictly Dishonorable" and now is rehearsing for a New York revival of the popular farce.

* * *

The unexplained laughter which CBS listeners heard last Sunday night at the beginning of Fred Allen's revue was provoked by a grimace on the face of Jack Haley, comedian of "Take a Chance," who entered the studio as a visitor at the last minute.

The Three X Sisters are working on a series of movie shorts.

RIDING MASTER SEEKING BAIL

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Sidney Homewood may be released from the Rockland County jail at New City before Christmas.

This possibility loomed today as Attorney Caesar Barra moved to press his request for bail when a show cause order comes up for argument tomorrow before Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor, Jr.

The father of Charlotte Gibson's infant daughter is entitled to freedom pending appeal of his conviction for betrayal, Barra contends.

Shoes Repaired As Needy Phila. Pupils Study

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The "while you wait" system has been extended to relief work among Philadelphia's school children.

At the headquarters of the Philadelphia County Relief Board, 10 cobblers repair an average of 100 pairs of shoes a day while their youthful owners are in school.

The shoes, in all stages of disrepair, are taken from the children when they arrive at school and they don rubbers or bedroom slippers. By the time they are ready to face the elements again, the mended footgear is back.

FORMER OPERA TENOR BEATEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Arthur Albro, 43, formerly a tenor with the Chicago Opera Company, and now a Brooklyn photographer, was beaten last night by two men who invaded his studio. Whether the men sought to hold him up was not made clear.

Two women who had made appointments earlier in the day were having their pictures taken when the men entered, one with a pistol. Albro grappled with them, using jiu jitsu methods he said a Japanese valet taught him. One of the men clubbed him with a blackjack and the other fired one shot which grazed Albro's leg.

The men and women then fled together without taking anything. Albro said the men merely tried to back him into another room and made no demand for money.

He was taken to a hospital for treatment.

CIPHER NO. 30

By FRANK E. CORBETT

SNEUT ROIVC RTEIH
ETONP MALOC EDHAA
XONOW LPOTI NSOAR
CRTRT RIHRY DOXRE
SRTIE SEHGG

This shouldn't be so hard? How long do you think it will take you? Record time is four hours.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor.

Now for a cipher that really is tough. It is Cipher No. 30—an original given us by Frank E. Corbett. You can work it if you stick to it.

"Bogie" had a hard time with it. He completed it in four hours. If you do it in five you can consider yourself quite a decoder. At any rate, you should be pleased if you get the answer without a tip. (This should tax George R. Lang's abilities.)

Tomorrow a tip will be published that may throw a little light on the subject.

Remember—no clues to this excepting that this is a message to a party in Pittsburgh.

How did you find Cipher No. 29? Rather interesting, wasn't it? Did those extra figures throw you off the track?

If some of you fans didn't understand, you reached the answer by dropping the last part of your fraction and following the table or key printed today.

To encipher this code, take for your numerator the number at the top of the column in which the letter appears in the key. For your denominator take the figure on the left of the same line in which the letter is found. And the fraction obtained is the code for the letter you were enciphering.

The key to No. 29 is as follows:

	1	2	3	4	5
1—	E	D	C	B	A
2—	J	I	H	G	F
3—	O	N	M	L	K
4—	T	S	R	Q	P
5—	Z	Y	X	W	UV

With this key it should be easy. How long did it take you? Write and let the Cipher Editor know.

Poses as Bellboy, Robs Hotel Guest

DETROIT, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A young robber who posed as a bellboy delivering a telegram took $25 from a guest in a twenty-eighth floor room of the Book-Cadillac Hotel last night, tore the telephone from the wall and fled. The victim was Leslie Lewis, 32, an official of the La Salle Extension University, Chicago.

N. Y. Snow Removal Costs $1,500,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(US.)—Snow removal here since Saturday cost the city $1,500,000 and gave employment to 18,500 men, it was announced today.

PROBE MYSTERY SHOOTING

DOVER, O., Dec. 22.—Charles Brandon, of Stewartsville, died today as a result of being shot early yesterday. Police held three men who were with him at the time of the shooting. All declared Brandon was shot by a revolver he was examining, despite a doctor's statement that a revolver bullet could not have inflicted such a wound.

W. L. Baderstschal and his brother, L. D. Baderschal, residing on a farm near Eaton, told Sheriff Clark Shearer, of Wayne County, that several years ago their barn was looted, and they equipped its door with a shotgun so arranged that it would be discharged by anyone tampering with the lock.

The gun was found exploded yesterday. Police said they believed Brandon was shot while trying to enter the place.

TYPHOID AGAIN REDUCED HERE

The number of typhoid fever cases in Pittsburgh probably will be lower for 1932 than for any previous year, Edward G. Lang, Director of Public Works, said today.

Reports from the superintendent of filtration to Director Lang show only 30 cases thus far this year. Only 33 cases were found in 1931. The peak year was 1907 when 5,133 cases were reported.

Fireman Killed In Boat Explosion

CLEVELAND, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Grant Owens, 65, of Solon, O., a fireman, was killed, one man was critically hurt and eight others narrowly escaped injury yesterday when a boiler exploded aboard the pile-driver scow J. D. Judson. Owens' body was recovered from the Cuyahoga River by Coast Guardsmen.

Rubber Distillate Used to Run Auto

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(Universal.)—Automobiles of the future may be run both on and by rubber. An English scientist in Singapore is propelling his motor with a rubber distillate, the Commerce Department was advised today.

Man, Woman Die In Flaming Auto

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 22.—(Universal.)—Trapped in the flaming wreckage of their car after a collision, J. Orville Burtis, 42, of Ypsilanti, and Mrs. Vivian L. Porcupile, 34, clerk at the University of Michigan, were burned to death here today.

Cousin of Kaiser Must Pay Pension

POTSDAM, Germany, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Prince Friedrich Leopold Hohenzollern, Jr., cousin of the former Kaiser, was under sentence today by the Appellate Labor Court to pay Frau Richard Batsch pension arrears of 1,063 marks ($253) and 59 marks ($14) each month in future.

G. E. Man to Direct Fair Illumination

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—W. Darey Ryan, General Electric illuminating engineer and former director of the illuminating laboratories here, has been named director of illumination for the Chicago World's Fair, it was announced here.

Ryan had charge of the lighting of the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisc in 1915 and engineered the flood-lighting of Niagara Falls.

Chimpanzee Sobs When Being Scolded

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Sensitive is "Mary Lou," only chimpanzee in the Washington Park Zoo. Said Edmund Heller, director:

"Her sensitiveness is almost pathetic. If you speak gruffly to her or even 'look daggers' at her, she will breakdown and cry because she doesn't understand hate."

Baker to Address German Scientists

Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, has accepted an invitation from Dr. Max Planck, president of the Kaiser Wilhelm Gesellschaft for the Advancement of Science, to address that group while in Germany. He will make the address at Harnack House, Dahlem, outside Berlin, January 20.

Dr. Baker will be in Germany during January and February to deliver a series of lectures under the Oberlaender Trust of the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation. The addresses, to deal with general aspects of American life, will be delivered at the leading German universities.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mary H. Boal.

Mrs. Mary Helen Kiskadden Boal, widow of Thomas McDonald Boal, is dead at her residence, 3815 Wilkesboro avenue, North Side. She died late Tuesday of pneumonia. Born March 26, 1854, at Freeport, Miss Boal was the last grandchild of Massa Harbison, said to have been the first white woman to cross the Allegheny Mountains into the Ohio Valley. She was a member of the Massa Harbison Chapter, D. A. R., and of the Eleventh United Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Boal lived for the greater part of her life in Parnassus, New Brighton and Pittsburgh. She leaves four children, A. G. Boal, of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Cleveland; Mrs. Bertha Boal Ewing, Miss Marjorie Boal and Frank K. Boal, secretary to Senator James J. Davis; 11 grandchildren, and a great-grandson. Burial will be made in Steubenville, O., tomorrow.

Mellon Funeral.

Funeral services for William L. Mellon, Sr., 74, distant cousin of A. W. and R. B. Mellon, with whose real estate offices he was connected for more than 50 years, who died yesterday, will be held from his home, 7726 Stanton avenue, Swissvalle, tomorrow afternoon. Born in Unity Township, Westmoreland County, he spent the greater part of his life in the Pittsburgh district. He was a member of the Second Presbyterian Church, of Wilkinsburg. Besides his wife, Mrs. Ella McLaughlin Mellon, he leaves three sons, John M., of Butler; Wilbur S., Swissvale, and Robert S., Wilkinsburg; two daughters, Mrs. U. K. McJunkin, Swissvale, and Mrs. Homer P. West, Sharon, and five grandchildren.

Beckett Funeral.

Funeral services for George Thomas Beckett, who died yesterday morning at his residence, 309 South Lang avenue, will be held there tomorrow evening. He was chief wire inspector in the Pittsburgh Bureau of Building Inspection, where he had worked for 31 years. He was a member of the Homewood United Presbyterian Church, of Homewood Lodge F. & A. M. 635, and other Masonic organizations. Besides his wife, Mrs. Christian Vohr Beckett, he leaves three sons, Russell, Durbin and Charles, and four brothers, William, Frederick, Albert and Oliver.

Herbert R. Bunting.

Herbert R. Bunting, 39, died yesterday at his home, 745 Seventh avenue, Coraopolis. Born in Streator, Ill., he had been supervisor of music in the Coraopolis schools, and at his death was teacher of music at the Latimer Junior High School. He leaves his wife, two sons, Herbert and Roland, and his father, Albert Bunting, of Lincoln, Neb.

Lutton Funeral.

Funeral services for Prof. Louis F. Lutton, of 325 Grandview avenue, Mt. Washington, for six years principal of the Latimer Junior High School, who died Tuesday, will be held at the Mt. Washington Presbyterian Church at 2:30 p. m. Saturday. He was born in Scott Station, Pa., October 2, 1872, and after attending the public schools of Glenwillard, Pa., he attended the Indiana State Normal School, graduating in 1896; the University of Indiana, and the University of Pittsburgh. He had taught school in Irwin, McDonald, Claysville, Munhall and Pittsburgh, coming here in 1911. For some time he was principal of the three public schools on Mt. Washington, going to the Latimer school six years ago. He was a member of the Mt. Washington Presbyterian Church, Geter C. Shidle Lodge, No. 650, F. and A. M.; Pennsylvania Consistory, Scottish Rite Masons, and the Delta Phi Kappa fraternity. Besides his widow he leaves two daughters, Helen Margaret and Dorothy Miller Lutton, and a son, Edwin Scott Lutton.

Moslemer Funeral.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for Gustave Moslemar, 72, who died Tuesday at his home, 3519 Penn avenue. Mr. Moslemar, for many years an employe of the Carnegie Steel Corporation, leaves five sons, Louis, Walter, Fred, Edgar and William Moslemar, and two daughters, Mrs. Anna Eicheldinger and Mrs. Margaret Mitchell. Services will be at 2:30 p. m. at the Goetz funeral home, 3509 Penn avenue, with burial in Oakland Cemetery.

Hagerty Funeral.

Funeral services for Daniel Hagerty, 61, of 838 Lockhart street, who died Tuesday, will be held in St. Mary's Catholic Church, Lockhart street, Saturday morning. Mr. Hagerty, a former city employe, was a lifelong resident of Pittsburgh. Besides his widow he leaves a son, Charles Hagerty, of Los Angeles; a brother and two sisters.

$3 worth of protection for $1 against stubborn winter colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

PLEASE stop a minute and ask yourself a question. The right answer saves you $2 out of every $3. What kind of antiseptic do you use when fighting colds—infection—unpleasant breath?

Two kinds of antiseptics

There are only two kinds. In one group you have the mouth antiseptic that kills germs only when used full strength. In the other group you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to kill germs in 10 seconds even when it is diluted with 2 parts of water. Pepsodent is at least three times as powerful as other leading antiseptics. Hence, it goes 3 times as far—gives you 3 times as much for your money—and gives you greater protection against sore throat colds. Here's a fine way both to save money and safeguard your health—something you can't afford to overlook.

Use Pepsodent for safety

When choosing your antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that kills germs even when it is mixed with water. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be sure! Be safe—and save your money.

IMPURE BREATH

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, even when diluted with water it still kills germs.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern antiseptic

Sore Throat Colds	Cuts and Abrasions
Head Colds	After Shaving
Smoker's Throat	Chapped Hands
Bad Breath	Dandruff
Mouth Irritations	Skin Irritations
Irritations of the Gums	Checks Under-Arm Perspiration Odor

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

To the Old Maestro

(I hope you like it)

The melody comes drifting like a whisper on the breeze,
And soon we hear the patter of the dial's smooth-as-silk man,
And politics and bridge and such become nonentities;
We want to hear about the Alpine Milkman.
The Queen was in the parlor, we're officially informed;
The Old Man of the Mountain was a mouser;
With all the horses of the King the forts of gloom are stormed,
As cheerily the Maestro thunders: Yowzzah!

When lovers' cares are burdensome, as frequently they are,
And restfully they watch him and each soporific star
But give this swain the Windy City's tunesmith!
Strike up the band, and you know how to strike it!
The guy next door is sleeping, but the hell, say I, with him,
He's going to get a load of you and like it.

Robert Newcomb.

Hope, Faith & Charity

When Bob Hope, the comedian, was playing in "Ballyhoo," which suffered from lack of customers, he was approached one matinee day by a panhandler.

"Could you spare a dime for a cuppa cawfee?" was the request.

"Don't bother me," countered Hope, "I'm in a hurry. I'm playing in 'Ballyhoo'!"

I've Met Her!

Ben Grauer, one of the better National broadcasters, had the most amusing session over the phone with "Information" the other sundown. Grauer, who is a bit of a tease anyhow, had asked "Information" a series of queries and then going gay, he cooed:

"And tell me, dearie, where ja get those great big beautiful blue eyes?"

"Veddy soddy," was the routine report, "but we are not allowed to give out that information."

Mean Crack

The Cynic Railway

Most of the radio sopranos will never be singers if they live to be a hundred—and Will Herbert thinks many of them have already done that.

Nifties

J. M. Josefsberg knows a doctor who had to buy a magnifying glass because he had to operate on a chorus girl's brain! . . . Greenwich Village is a place where the heels gather to talk about their souls.

Fact

George Joel forwards this on Gene Fowler, co-author of the late "Great Magoo," which closed in a week. It seems that every time Fowler's name appears in print, his "retinue" contact him for a loan. They call up or write, and Gene is fed up.

When "Magoo" opened he was overwhelmed by the upturned palms. One guy in partic was a pest. He first asked for $100, then $200, and finally $250. Gene didn't answer any of the letters, which drew a squawk which wound up with:

"The least you could do is give me a pass to see your show!"

So Gene sat down and wrote:

Form of Criticism

A Broadway failure, which closed after a brief run, was so bad that they are saying of it:

Snapper

A movie magnut, according to J. L., interrupted a rehearsal of his picture, and offered various suggestions and ideas to his fed-up director. When the "rushes" were revealed the magnut went into a lather. Summoning the director, he bellowed:

"Why didn't you carry out my ideas?"

"Because," was the louder reply, "I couldn't lift them!"

Heheheh

Beth Eliot reports this quip heard at the Actor's Stage Relief meeting. This is the newly-organized group started by Rachel Crothers, the authoress.

Eddie Cantor was making a talk, and carried away by his own eloquence, he suddenly banged the table and said:

"We'll see this noble charity through—by the help of God and Rachel Crothers!"

Then turning to Miss Crothers, Eddie apologized, and added:

"I hope you don't mind second billing."

Yellimony

The trouble with alimony, nifties David Murray, is that it's like making payments on an automobile that you hit a truck with.

Merciless Truth

A newspaperman is a guy, reports Jules Levine, who, in youth, thought: (A) A reporter's life is glamorous. (B) A by-line entitles you to chorus girls, free dinners and Valhalla. (C) It's the best formula for becoming a playwright or a novelist. (D) It's a good excuse for drinking.

And who has since learned that: (A) A reporter's life is glamorous in the movies. (B) a by-line entitles you only to headaches. (C) the best formula for becoming a playwright or a novelist is to need more than a newspaperman's salary. (D) When you have an excuse for drinking, there's no longer any fun in it!

THEATERS -:- Producer Gives Reasons for Decline of Stage -:- PICTURES

Brady Blames Young for Slump

By GEORGE SEIBEL

William A. Brady, father of Alice Brady and husband of Grace George, and one of the oldest theatrical producers in America, told the Catholic Actors' Guild a few days ago that the trouble with the American stage was in the apathy of youth. Young people, he said, lacked earnestness and ambition; they did not see the opportunities open to them; there were more opportunities than ever oefore, but "no one is alive enough or big enough to grab at them."

Mr. Seibel

He was speaking of actors, but he might have included the young people in the audiences, who use very little brains in their choice of stage heroes.

Actors like Richard Mansfield and Robert Mantell were on the stage a whole lifetime—they grew in stature and in fame—they had mentality and personality.

PRIZES ARE VANISHING

But what William A. Brady was driving at is the apparent reluctance of young actors, real actors, to work hard for moderate rewards. The theatrical business, before the movies came along, had become a speculation, a gamble. The winner got a big prize, whether he owned a popular theater, controlled a popular star, or was in touch with a popular playwright. With the coming of the movies the speculative and gambling element was transferred to the screen—also the big cash prizes.

We have been told recently that there's a surplus of 25,000 doctors in the U. S. A., so we'll have to invent new diseases to keep them busy. There are twice as many moving picture houses as we need, and we'd have to increase the amount of unemployment to keep them filled. The speculators have over-speculated and met their Black Friday.

That should help the stage. Plays for grown-up people can be presented in the theater, and grown-up people will go, but there will be no enormous profits as in the past. The actor can become a respected person and an artist, as Joseph Jefferson and Mrs. Fiske were, but he will not get such sums as Clara Garbo or Greta Bow have raked in. Here is the chance William A. Brady sees for the young men—a chance to be somebody.

Brady's idea seems to be based on the co-operative principle—something like the Theater Francais or the Abbey Players, here last week. Both of these get a state subsidy, ridiculously small. The Irish Players, I am told, get a thousand pounds—that's less than $4,000 now—from the Free State government.

Brady said he knew of 10 plays that might succeed. If the actors themselves take hold of the dark and empty theaters, if they co-operate with the playwrights, we should soon have a theater we might point to with pride, as we point to our universities or libraries.

SOME OF THE BENEFITS

The big profits might be missing, and that might be a good thing. It would keep the money-changers out of the temple of art. It would take the gag out of the mouth of the playwright. At present our theatrical powers-that-be have no courage except to be indecent—that, they think, will pay, while the courage to be honest would only make a lot of people sore.

If the big profits are missing, we should not even need to imitate the Greeks, who recently passed a law obliging every actor to have a license. He must show special talent for the theatrical profession, or must be a graduate of a dramatic school. Many an aspiring Sarah Bernhardt or Eleanor Duse may be sent home to help mother dry the dishes. Amateur performances, of course, will be exempted. Anybody will be allowed to act "Macbeth" in the evening if he doesn't commit any murders during the daytime.

MAKE THEATER OVER

The actors, if they have the courage and the intelligence, can make over the theater and make it what it was before speculators stole it. According to the last census, there are 37,993 actors in the United States—over 18,000 men, over 19,000 women. Besides these we have over 37,000 showmen, who do not act, but manage and handle publicity and similar official functions. It's the 38,000 actors who must be depended on to rescue the stage from its slump. They can do it if they get the support of the people, especially the young people in the audiences.

A play on Broadway now has an average run of 60 performances. Most plays on the road have not lasted that long, because the scattered audiences of smaller centers are held by their neighborhood picture houses. The road has become so precarious that Fritz Leiber wrote me a month ago he would not take his company out until after the first of the year.

When Drury Lane was opened by David Garrick, Samuel Johnson wrote a prologue in which occurs the line: "The drama's laws the drama's patrons give." If the audience will attend intelligent plays acted by intelligent actors, we'll have a flourishing theater.

Comedy

Mary Boland will be the principal comedienne in "Face The Music," musical revue that will open in the Nixon Monday night.

Show Boat to Present Christmas Bill

Slim Fare in Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 22.—Christmas week finds not a single picture playing two-a-day in this home of premieres, nor is there any definite prospect of an important film opening until January 20, when Cecil B. De Mille's "The Sign of the Cross" makes its western bow in the Biltmore Theater, downtown.

This unusual situation is brought about by the closing of "The Kid From Spain," and the German film, "Maedchen In Uniform," which, for several weeks past, have been enjoying good patronage from what showmen are wont to refer to as "the class trade."

Standing on the station platform at Pasadena the other night were Marlene Dietrich (in polo coat and trousers), her daughter, Maria (also in polo coat and trousers) and Josef Von Sternberg. As the train drew to a stop a dapper young man got off a Pullman and the trio hurried forward to greet him. It was Rudolph Seiber, the German star's husband, newly arrived from Berlin.

Von Sternberg, by the way, leaves for New York immediately. He says he has no definite plans. Nor did the Dietrich picture get under way yesterday. Now they tell you:

"After the first of the year."

On the same train were Marie Dressler, Leo McCarey and Mr. and Mrs. Buddy De Sylva.

Who remembers the Cherry Sisters, famous old vaudeville team that used to play at Hammerstein's back in the nineties? It seems they've been running a bakery in Cedar Rapids, Ia., and now Lou Brock, of the RKO comedy department, has sent them a wire asking about a comeback.

Hollywood's favorite wit, Wilson Mizner, was well enough to listen to Phil Harris' music in the Cocoanut Grove. He had a floor table, along with Alice Glazer and a man I didn't recognize . . . Evelyn Brent, Harry Edwards and Lillian Bond were at another table.

Fatty Arbuckle's first picture in recent years will come to the Warner screen next Friday, to be run in addition to the regular feature. The Arbuckle picture, a comedy, is called "Hey, Pop."

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Mary Boland, who is starred in "Face the Music," the Irving Berlin musical revue coming to the Nixon Monday, never in her stage career played anything but leading roles. Her first role, at the age of 15, was opposite Robert Edeson in "Strongheart," for which she was chosen from among several hundred applicants. Since then she has been leading woman for a number of male stars, including John Drew, Augustus Thomas and Leo Ditrichstein.

The Academy box office has opened an advance sale of tickets for "Kris Kingle Girls," called a combination musical comedy production and burlesque show, in two acts and 34 scenes. It will open in the Academy Sunday (Christmas) night, with a midnight show.

Broadways Of the World — All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

MAJESTIC HOTEL, TUNIS, NORTH AFRICA.—Step up and meet a few of the characters I've encountered lately. I've met so doggone many that it's difficult to choose the ones about which to write. However—

First, Mr. Coert Du Bois. Mr. Du Bois is the supervising consul-general of all Italy for the United States. He is supposed to be the protector of those Americans who are traveling through Italy and to be decent and courteous to them at all times. Mr. Du Bois has a big job and he is evidently a big shot. He is also, as far as I am concerned, a complete pain in the neck.

Before I left New York, I was warned by several world-travelers to stay away from American ambassadors and consuls when I needed assistance in any direction.

"For the most part," I was told, "you will find them dull people with extravagant social ambitions. There are definite exceptions, of course. But do not depend on them to too great an extent. You will be highly disappointed."

I thought, of course, that this was a great exaggeration. I carry with me a diplomatic letter from Mr. Stimson, the Secretary of State, and I felt certain that such a letter would make any consul welcome me with open arms.

The first time I used the letter was in Rome when I wanted to learn something about the customs of Tunis. I sent the letter in to a Mr. Alexander Kirk, supposedly the head diplomatic gink in Rome at the moment. Out came a tall gentleman with a decided British accent.

I told him what I wanted.

"Oh, deah, deah, deah," he sighed. Why have you come heah to me? Why not wait and see our consul in Tunis? After all, my deah man, there is a limit, don't you know?"

That was my first meeting with an American consul—and you can imagine how I felt about it. I left Mr. Kirk as rapidly as possible.

My second experience was with Mr. Coert Du Bois. Mr. Du Bois and his wife were sailing to Tunis on the same boat as I, the S. S. City of Tunis. Being the only American parties on the boat, I was more than anxious to talk to him. So, during dinner, I addressed a little note to the supervising consul general of Italy for the United States.

"Dear Mr. Du Bois!" I wrote. "Since I carry a letter from our mutual friend, Mr. Stimson, and because we are the only Americans on this boat, may I ask you and your charming wife to have a bottle of wine with me?"

I handed the note to the dining room steward and sent it to the table at which Mr. and Mrs. Du Bois were sitting. About three minutes later the steward was back.

"Mr. Du Bois says, sir," was his report, "that he has forgotten his glasses and that he regrets he cannot read your note."

And that, during the remainder of the trip, was my only word from Mr. Coert Du Bois. When this column appears, I'd like some of my good friends to do me a favor.

Please send a copy of this portion of the article to Mr. Stimson. I'd like him to drop a little note to the Messrs. Kirk and Du Bois, and remind them that the basic requisites for every diplomat are decency and courtesy . . .

The second character for today was a cattle checker who stood beside me on the deck of the S. S. City of Tunis as the boat stopped at Palermo, in Sicily, to unload some 50 or 60 heads of cattle. I looked on in amazement as they transferred the livestock from our boat to the scow beside it.

The steers were being brutally handled. They had a sickly pulley with a dangling rope that was tied carelessly around the middle of the steer. When the animal was raised aloft and swung downward, it was bent almost double.

The sight was pitiful. The pulley was none too certain. And when the animals finally did hit the deck of the scow below, they were dumped there most unceremoniously. When I saw one have its eye gouged out and another break a leg, I turned to the checker.

"Man," I cried, "I can't watch this any longer. Can't you land those animals without hurting them?"

"What is the difference?" was his reply. "Aren't they going to be killed anyhow?" . . .

Frederick Knobel, Director of the cabinet of the Resident-General of Tunis. A big shot in the city and a swell guy. Meeting him here was one of the luckiest breaks of my life.

Strange how we became pals. I drifted into his office on the slim chance that someone here might be willing to do something for me. Mr. Knobel spoke English, and decidedly well, too. He was rather cold at first, but when I mentioned something about Broadway, his eyes lit up.

"Do you, by any chance, know Ina Claire?" he asked.

"Do I know Ina?" I repeated. "Why, she's one of my best pals. I've known her for years. And she's a grand woman."

Mr. Knobel leaped to his feet and drew up a chair for me. From that moment on we were the best of pals. Seems as though, when he was working for the French government in Washington, D. C., Mr. Knobel grew very much attached to Miss Claire. He has never forgotten her—and since I knew her so well, there wasn't much in Tunis I couldn't have.

Thus, Ina, I want to thank you very much for being of so much help for me in this god-forsaken spot. I hated to be so deceitful, but maybe I actually will meet you some day, eh?

Mr. Knobel is bright, keen-witted and manages to retain his sense of humor in spite of a trying position. For instance, as we sat at dinner one night, he asked me if I would care to hear a somewhat silly story that took in several nations at one crack. I said I did. And this was his yarn:

An Englishman, an Irishman, a German, a Frenchman and an American sat in a club one night. The conversation turned to the subject of elephants. After talking for an hour, they agreed that each should study the subject thoroughly and write a book about it. They shook hands and promised to meet again in the same spot a year later.

At the agreed time they were again together in the same spot. The Englishman was the first to arise. He spoke briefly of his experiences and tossed his book upon the table.

The title was:

"Elephants I've Hunted."

Then the Irishman. He, too, spoke for a few moments and then put down his book. The title was:

"The Elephant and the Irish Question."

Then the German. He put down three volumes, closely printed. The title was:

"An Introduction to the Elephant."

Then the Frenchman. His title for his book was:

"The Elephant and His Loves."

Last came the American. He put down his book. The title was:

"Bigger and Better Elephants!" . . .

Patricia Pitt

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

e Today is a very big day in the life of our debutantes. First of all, there's a most exciting luncheon, given this afternoon in the Twentieth Century Club by Mrs. W. Eugene Gary with Dorothy Blaxter, the H. Vaughan Blaxters' daughter, as the guest of honor.

Then this afternoon two young cousins, Mary Thaw Dilworth, daughter of the John Crossan Dilworths, and Mary Bliss Reed, daughter of the Edward Bliss Reeds, of New Haven, Conn., will be presented to Pittsburgh society by their grandmother, Mrs. William Reed Thompson. The event is a tea-dance at the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

Then this evening many of the debutantes will be at the rag and tatter dance at the Edgeworth Club. And there's a Dutch treat dinner at the clubhouse before the event.

Mrs. Gary's luncheon was a most attractive affair, given in the fan and feather room of the Twentieth Century Club. The debs were seated at a large table, and friends of the hostess at another.

The decorations were blue—yes, blue. Christmas trees with gay silver ornaments.

* * *

Two of our sub-debs will be off the latter part of this week for a debut in the East, Peggy Robinson and Virginia Evans.

To Visit In East

They will attend the debut Friday night of Elizabeth C. Bullock, who'll be presented to society at one of the most prominent debuts in Worcester, Mass. Elizabeth is the daughter of the Rockwood H. Bullocks, of Worcester, who are giving both a dance in their home Friday evening and a tea the following afternoon for her.

Peggy and Virginia will be house guests of the Bullocks while in Worcester and probably will remain there for the entire week-end.

* * *

Bows at Dance

Christmas decorations formed the setting for the event. The young debutante wore white charmeuse, and her mother, white pebble crepe with mink trimming.

The young debutante is a grandchild of David B. Oliver, and niece of Mrs. Charles S. Shoemaker, president of the Twentieth Century Club; of Miss Jessie Oliver and Charles Oliver and Mrs. John Henley Ross, of Madison, N. J.

MISS ESTHER M'DOWELL, TWO SISTERS AND A GUEST AT HER DEBUT AT HER MOTHER'S TEA IN THE M'DOWELL HOME

Mabelle Steele Married to H. F. Bowes

At a pretty home wedding last evening at 7:30 o'clock, Miss Mabelle Luella Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Steele, of Lexington avenue, Aspinwall, became the bride of Harold Fleming Bowes, of Clearfield, Pa. The ceremony took place before an embankment of cibotium ferns and palms, on either side of which were placed torch lamps. The bride and bridegroom knelt on a white Indian prayer rug. Officiating was the Rev. John Milholland, of the United Presbyterian Church.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, having a long train, and her mother's tulle wedding veil, finished with a cap of tulle. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies. Her sister, Miss Dorothy Steele, as maid of honor, wore yellow georgette, having a border of lace at the hemline, and a tiny jacket of the lace. The bridesmaid, Miss Frances Graham, wore a similar frock in pink. Both carried flowers harmonizing with their gowns.

Theodore F. Bowes was his brother's best man, and Dr. Logan Harvey Steele and John R. Steele, Jr., were ushers. Mrs. Logan Harvey Steele played the wedding music and Miss Katherine McRae sang.

There was a reception and dinner later, and receiving with the bridal party was the bride's mother, gowned in blue lace. The bride's table was decorated in yellow and white.

After a honeymoon in Bermuda, Mr. Bowes and his bride will be at home in Dormont. Mrs. Bowes is a graduate of Carnegie Tech, home economics department, and the bridegroom is a graduate of Penn State.

Mrs. Weinhaus Will Be Guest at Council Party

Mrs. Fannie Weinhaus, who has been membership chairman of Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Women, since its inception in 1894, will be honor guest at the bundle party to be held January 4 at the Y. M. and W. H. A.

Urges Real Christmas Story Replace Myth Of Santa Claus

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

A plea to abolish Santa Claus, to put him in the class with myths and fairy tales where he belongs and to tell children the story of the first Christmas was made yesterday by Miss Helen Grimes at the Christmas festival of the Congress of Clubs. She said:

"We are getting down to basic truths in so many things, let's begin with Santa Claus. Tell your children the truth, tell them the old story that begins, 'There were shepherds.' Santa Claus typifies the spirit of getting, not giving. Anyway, no modern child knows what a sleigh is and not one would believe anybody came down a chimney."

Only illness marred the elaborate program that had been prepared for the annual celebration at Congress House and among those absent from their accustomed places were the president, Mrs. T. M. Stahlman; the choral director, Mrs. Elsie Breese Mitchell; the literature department head, Mrs. W. N. Zortman, and Mrs. R. W. Johnston, one of the past presidents.

Mrs. Chester F. Johnston's play, "The Street of the Kings," was presented by George H. Mitchell, Gretchen Welch, Frances West and Ruth White, whose characterization of the mother was done with sympathetic beauty. A number of students from the Congress School of Physical Education added interpretative dances in costume, and the choral, dressed in white, sang carols.

* * *

Mrs. Catherine Helfrich will be in charge of the annual Christmas card party to be held at the Council House of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Helfrich will be assisted by her daughter, Miss Rosemarie Helfrich, Mrs. Leo Heinrich and Mrs. A. J. Kiefer. This will be the last social event at Council House for this year.

* * *

Mrs. Adele Eggers Furniss, soprano; Mrs. J. Charles Wilson, reader, and Mrs. William H. Patterson, pianist, will give the program for the New Era Club's Christmas party on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. P. W. Seibert will be hostess at her home in Wineblddle avenue.

Miss Marion Lee Married in Swissvale

The marriage of Miss Marion Florence Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Lee, of Cannon street, Swissvale, to Thomas K. Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Patterson, of Schoyer avenue, Swissvale, was solemnized at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. John Helm, of Edgewood. The Rev. Helm officiated.

The bride wore a gown of light coral colored crepe with black accessories and a corsage of white bridal roses and baby's breath. Miss Dorothy Argall, her only attendant, wore dove grey and black transparent velvet with a corsage of pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath. Daniel Kelso served as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson left on their wedding trip and upon their return will be at home in Francis street, Swissvale.

Esther S. McDowell Makes Debut at Tea

Christmas decorations gave a holiday air to the tea at which Esther Sawhill McDowell, the David Franklin H. McDowells' daughter made her debut yesterday afternoon in the family home, Fifth avenue.

Balsam trees decked with silver ornaments decorated corners of the living room and the hall. Flowers were placed on end tables.

In the dining room where tea was served, the centerpiece was of hot-house fruit, pineapples, pears, and bananas and grapes, all painted white. Silver and green leaves were used for accent.

Assisting the debutante, who wore wine-red velvet, fashioned with brief sleeves, were her sister, Sarah McDowell, in sapphire blue velvet; Eleanor Ramage, of Fairmount, W. Va., in turquoise blue velvet with ermine at the neckline; Katherine Little, of Youngstown, in black velvet with cloth of silver, Jeanette Rickets, of Long Island, in brown crepe; Virginia Koch, of Pittsburgh, in yellow crepe; Jane Fitzhugh, of McKeesport in brown crepe; and Mrs. Walter Morgan, Jr., of Roanoke, Va., sister of the debutante, who wore grey crepe with scarlet crepe sleeves.

The mother of the debutante was in beige lace having a cape trimmed in white fur. The debutante is a student at Chevy Chase, Washington.

Monteliore Aid Society To Meet This Evening

A special meeting of the Montefiore Aid Society will take place this evening at the home of the president, Miss Margaret Sandler, Bartlett street, Squirrel Hill.

Writers to Vie In Character Contest

A contest of character sketches is being conducted today, with a prize by Mrs. Marie Tello Phillips, national president, at the breakfast which the writers' group of the Bookfellows' Library Guild is having at the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. William N. Zortman is reviewing Mrs. Phillips' latest volume of verse, "The Honeysuckle and the Rose" and original works are being read by other members.

Mrs. Chester F. Johnston is the president of the local group; Miss Lillie M. Jordan is first vice-president; Mrs. Herbert Van Kirk, second vice-president; Mrs. William M. MacWilliams, secretary; Arthur M. Jordan, treasurer; Mrs. Zortman is chairman of poetry and Miss Louise Johnston, chairman of publicity.

5,500 Juniors Now in State Federation

It's rather startling to find that there are 10,000 junior club women in the state, 5,500 of them belonging to the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women. The infants in the junior club family are the Beaver and the Springdale-Cheswick groups.

Federated juniors in this district are planning some unusual activities for the new year. The annual district meeting is to take place in February. A little later in the spring there will be an innovation in the way of a party and in August Mrs. Joseph M. Steim, state chairman of juniors, will entertain the entire district at her home in New Kensington.

* * *

Mrs. F. T. Edwards, community service chairman of the Dormont New Century Club, has planned the community "sing" which will be held Christmas eve on the steps of the Municipal Building from 8 to 8:30 o'clock. David Bissett, of the South Hills Choral, will direct. Among those participating are the music department of the New Century Club, the High School Glee Club, grade school pupils and four trumpeters from the high school. The entire community has been asked to attend. * * *

Special music will be provided by the Union Quartet for Tuesday's meeting of the Foster Women's Christian Temperance Union. It's to be held at the home of Mrs. J. C. McNeil, Ross and Diamond streets, and will be addressed by the Rev. Dr. J. Alvin Orr. The quartet consists of Mrs. K. P. Weber, Mrs. F. W. Goodwin, Mrs. J. R. Irvine and Miss Gladys Frantz.

ELY REVEALS NEW BRIDGE 'SYSTEM'

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.) — Ely Culbertson disclosed today his new method of "plastic valuation" in contract bridge which he says will enable thousands of ordinary players to graduate into the expert class.

To make the picture a player counts winners or losers in his hand, whichever is simpler. For an opening bid with an ordinary hand, it is easier to count winners. On the basis of the requirements for an opening bid partner counts the losses in his hand. The rest of the auction gives further inferences for revision of winners and losers so that a player can visualize what would be the strongest combination of 13 cards out of 26.

METHOD OF MASTERS

Culbertson describes this as the method used by all master players. He retains the methematical method of honor count and playing trick count as a fundamental basis for bids and the composite picture.

A forcing takeout is recommended on a three-card suit to the ace, if need be, when a hand contains 3½ honor tricks. Hitherto a suit had to be strictly biddable to be used for such a purpose.

"If over a forcing takeout or a jump raise in a suit one of the two partners bids four no trump, he is showing two aces and a king of a suit which has already been bid by either himself or his partner.

"If he does not have this holding he may have three aces, but the bid must mean one of these two things.

ACES SHOWN

"If the response is now five no trump, this shows the two missing aces. If the response is an immediate small slam bid in the suit which has been set (decided upon as best), this affirms one ace and denies the other.

"The four no trump bid also conveys the extremely valuable negative inference that three aces and a king of the bid suit are not held. With this holding the first bid would be five no trump, after which the decision to play the hand at six or seven must rest with partner."

The jump overcall has been discontinued as a force. It is now a defensive measure to deter bidding by opponents, like the psychic Oswald Jacoby used in the Lenz-Culbertson match.

The opening three bid is now pre-emptive, having been discarded as a strength showing bid.

MURRAY FAVORS WHIPPING POST

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Revival of the whipping post, both for malicious juvenile offenders and for violators of minor laws, was proposed today by Gov. Murray.

He also said he intended to ask the Legislature to set up a $100,000 fund to insure speedy prosecution of persons charged with murder and robbery with firearms.

For juvenile offenders, Murray recommended the whipping post for first infractions and confinement in stocks for second offenses.

Instead of jail terms, persons convicted of chicken stealing, drunken driving, wife-beating and the like, which Murray called "high misdemeanors," would receive 39 lashes with a cat o' nine tails.

The $100,000 fund would be used where counties do not have money to try murder and armed robbery cases speedily.

Owns Deed Signed By Andrew Jackson

Denver Unemployed Removing 100 Trees

DENVER.—(INS.)—The Unemployed Citizens' League of Denver is removing 100 poplar trees from the north bank of Cherry creek in the heart of the city without cost. The work is being done by unemployed men, who are converting the trees into firewood for unemployed families.

Shipping on Canal Nears 1928 Mark

MONTREAL. — (INS.) — Shipping activity on the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals so far this year has exceeded that of any year since 1928, due largely to the increased shipments of wheat through the waterways.

Tracer Shells Set Liquor Ship Afire

CAPE MAY, N. J.—(INS.)—A rum boat trying to escape in Delaware Bay from a Coast Guard patrol boat, was set afire and demolished by tracer shells, which the guards set off to illumine the chase.

RESEARCH SCIENTISTS HERE AT ODDS WITH 'TECHNOCRATS'

SCHOOL RELIEF HEARING SET BY COUNCIL

Welfare Aide Probes Charge City's Needy Are Denied Shoes

Administration of relief in public schools, including distribution of milk and other food, will be discussed at a hearing before Council next week in connection with the Board of Education's request for $100,000 to be used in providing food for school children.

The Allegheny County Emergency Association has asked Council to take no action on the board's request until the association has had an opportunity to present the program it has for such relief. Representatives of the School Board and the Emergency Association will attend the hearing.

Samuel E. Claney, executive secretary of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board, today was studying a list of South Side's needy who, it is claimed, need shoes but have been unable to obtain them.

In Council yesterday a committee of three headed by Miss Edith Briscoe, Communist worker, charged that hundreds of children on the South Side are unable to attend school because they lack shoes.

She asserted parents of the children have gone to the city's Welfare Department and other organizations and have received "promises, not shoes." She also spoke of the great need for milk and urged establishment of milk stations.

Another charge made by Miss Briscoe was that many people who did not need shoes were receiving them.

Claney, called before Council, said shoes were being supplied as fast as possible to people "on the relief list."

Counterfeit Bill Passed on Grocer

North Side police today sought a well-dressed man who tendered a counterfeit $5 bill for a package of cigarets in the grocery store of Max Sividal, 2246 East street, last night. Receiving his change, the man drove away in an automobile.

Later, Sividal noticed the bill was bogus and notified police.

Robbed By Bandits Dressed as Women

Edward Brunner, of 319 Balph avenue, Bellevue, was robbed of $20 by two Negroes, who "strong-armed" him in West General Robinson street last night. The thugs wore house dresses and women's coats and hats, Brunner told police.

Stein on Table May Help Keep Wolf From Door

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

They're trying to keep Wolf away from the door. And one-third of Congress doesn't want Stein on the table.

They voted on him yesterday in the affirmative, the negative and the maybe. If the beer bill ever is validated it is going to be the fanciest law you ever saw.

It will be a rider on a by-law of a postscript to an amendment of the Constitution.

Now, it has to go to the Senate for a pat or a kick. After that it travels to Mr. Hoover. And he suspect he will be wearing his pointy shoes.

If he vetoes it then everything is off until March. And by that time we will be needing something stronger than beer.

CORNELIA BRYCE PINCHOT . . . HER SAVINGS: $900 POSTAGE

Mrs. Pinchot, who with the Governor has announced that there'll be no Pinchot Christmas cards for 1932 and the money—$900 in postage alone—will go to charities' relief work at Harrisburg.

RITES SATURDAY FOR G. H. JAMES

Funeral services for G. Herbert James, who died yesterday, will be held in his home at 4052 Vinceton street, North Side, Saturday at 2 p. m. Burial will follow in Uniondale Cemetery.

Born in Pittsburgh 40 years ago, Mr. James was a lifelong resident of the North Side and was associated with his father, the late Enoch James, in the meat business in the North Side Market House. He served overseas as a sergeant in 112th Ambulance Company, 28th Division, was past commander of Observatory Post 81, American Legion, and a member of the 40 and 8 society. He had been well known as a vocalist and semi-professional baseball player, and sang with the Allegheny County American Legion Quartet.

He leaves his widow, Hazel; a son, Glenn; two daughters, Marjorie and Carol Ann; two brothers, Glenn and David, and three sisters, Mrs. G. S. Snaman, Mrs. S. P. Steffler and Mrs. Jean Sarver, all of Pittsburgh.

Christmas Tree Adorns Police Station

Christmas without a Christmas tree just isn't Christmas, Police Inspector Anthony Block, of the North Side, believes.

Accordingly, the inspector went shopping yesterday and today there stands in the spacious hall where justice is meted out a beautifully trimmed tree. Miniature models of North Side's postoffice, Carnegie Library, the North Side Police Station and the County Workhouse have been placed under the tree.

Wealthy Banker Dies at Wheeling

WELLSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Frank K. Chapman, 63, wealthy banker and manufacturer, died at his home late last night.

Chapman, unmarried and survived by no immediate relatives, was financially interested in three banks in Wellsburg.

CINDER ROUTE URGED FOR BOULEVARD

Makeshift Proposed To Open Allegheny River Road

Negotiations were to be started today by the county to open the Allegheny River boulevard with its "bottle neck" at Nadine.

The Commissioners have asked Solicitor J. P. Fife for an opinion whether they might open the boulevard by obtaining a "temporary easement" from the Pennsylvania Water Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, until the controversy is settled.

Except for the short "bottle neck" stretch, the 30-foot boulevard is complete from the city-line to Verona, at a cost of more than $3,000,000. The matter of obtaining the necessary land to connect the boulevard at the "neck" and make it a uniform 30-foot width is now in the courts.

The price asked by the water company for damages has held up opening of the highway. The Commissioners have discussed building the road around the company property.

The present plan is to make a temporary passage way around the water company's plant which blocks the road as originally laid out. The temporary stretch would be made of cinders and red dog.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern, who asked Fife's opinion, said he was anxious to learn whether by making a temporary connection the county would be liable for damages motorists might incur there. Fife suggested warning signs be placed, letting motorists use the road at their own risk.

McGovern stated:

"We have an investment of more than $3,000,000 in that road and it's idle. The people are clamoring for it to be opened. We should do something right away to give the people in the upper river towns the use of this boulevard."

POLICE TO GIVE YULE PARTY

For any children who care to attend there will be a Christmas party in Oakland Police Station Saturday, it was announced today by Inspector John W. Barry and Sergt. Morgan O'Brien.

Not only will there be a trimmed Christmas tree, but also plenty of candy and toys for the children.

Meanwhile, those who wish to make candy or toy contributions for the party will be welcomed at the Oakland Station.

Aeronaut Institute Gives Wright Honor

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Orville Wright has been named the first honorary fellow of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences, Jerome C. Hunsaker, president of the organization, said the honor would be bestowed annually hereafter.

WOMAN ROUTS THUG IN STREET

Two Bandits Hold Up Chain Store in East End

East End police today sought a Negro thug beaten off by Mrs. S. D. Clarke, 30, of 215 Elysian street, when he seized her while she was returning to her home from a Christmas shopping tour last night.

Mrs. Clarke was walking in Beechwood boulevard near Penn avenue when the Negro seized her. Dropping her packages, Mrs. Clarke beat the thug and pushed him. He slipped and fell against a bench. She screamed and the assailant, frightened, fled.

WOMEN HELD UP

Two bandits held up Bessie Dolan, the manager, and Lueta Taylor, the clerk, in a chain store at 5827 Rippey street, and escaped in an automobile after rifling the cash register. The women were unable to estimate the amount stolen.

Thieves who broke a rear window in the home of Joseph Lahr, 866 Phineas street, escaped with a diamond ring, radio and clothing valued at approximately $250. Lahr told police.

GOODS RECOVERED

Approximately $5,000 worth of merchandise believed to have been stolen from the Joseph Horne Company store had been recovered by city detectives today following the arrest late yesterday of Wallace Mack, Negro porter, of 1614 Forside street; his wife, Sadie Mack, and Mrs. Mack's son, Fred Boyce, and Vivian Hulton, 23, of 55 Crawford street.

Mack was held for further hearing on larceny and conspiracy charges, and the others were held for receiving stolen goods and conspiracy.

City Detectives Frank Morgan and his son, Thomas Morgan, testified the store had been looted systematically of more than $15,000 in merchandise within the past two years. They testified the loot had been disposed of in New York City.

Free 2 Patrolmen Accused by Captive

Accused of extortion, conspiracy and pointing firearms by a man under indictment in Federal Court, Patrolmen Joseph Scanlon and John Greenley, both of North Side Police Station, were discharged by Alderman A. W. Headley last night because of lack of evidence.

The policemen were accused by Joseph Kamarak, arrested by them for federal authorities. Kamarak was said to have been impersonating a United States Bureau of Investigation agent.

Mother Suing for Him

JOSEPH NOWAK, JR. . . . MOTHER ASKING FOR HIS CUSTODY

Joseph, 15 months old, doesn't understand it, but his mother, Mrs. Mildred Nowak, has resorted to the courts for his possession by filing habeas corpus proceedings that follow the suit of her husband, Joseph Nowak, of 224 Kennedy avenue, for a divorce.

DEATH CHARGE DROPPED

GREENVILLE, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—F. C. Doolittle, Mercer County farmer who was arrested on a murder charge just before his wife's funeral Saturday, was released in $1,000 bail on an aggavated assault and battery charge today.

The District Attorney's office announced that the murder charge will be dropped, as recommended by a coroner's jury.

Mrs. Doolittle died from pneumonia. After her death, neighbors caused Doolittle's arrest, saying he had mistreated his wife and forced her out into the cold.

WIFE DESCRIBES CAFE SCENE

Mrs. Romain Kress, sprightly brunette of 4116 Griezella street, seeking a divorce from John William Kress, testified before Judge William H. McNaugher that she found another woman sitting on her husband's lap in a downtown cafe.

Mrs. Kress said she objected and her husband struck her on the shoulder with a ginger ale bottle. On another occasion, during a party at their home, Mrs. Kress said her husband paid attention to a girl and when she protested, called her names.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I don't know why Mr. Hoover is all excited over the debt yet. That's all over now. He did a mighty good job. We was owed about one hundred and twenty-five millions, and he collected over a hundred. Anybody who can get four-fifths nowadays is doing a mighty good job of collecting. And besides France is going to pay. So it looks like the debt thing is all settled till next December, when it will be Mr. Roosevelt's Christmas present to try and get on our tree. Time to worry over a debt is before you get it, not after you got four-fifths of it. So arguing over the debt now is just like arguing over the last election. Yours,

WILL.

DENY INDUSTRY HAS MANPOWER OUTDISTANCED

Mellon Institute Men Point to Inventions Creating New Work

Pittsburgh, mechanical heart of America, today was taking inventory of "technocracy"—the new "cureall for what-ails-us"—with mixed emotions.

Leaders in the district's scientific and industrial life were inclined, on the whole, to discount the organized group of New York engineers and architects, but will consider their ideas disinterestedly.

A report by Dr. E. R. Weidlein, director, and Dr. W. A. Hamor, assistant director of Mellon Institute, on a canvass of sociologists, economists, psychologists, chemists and physicists of the district today indicated some difference of opinion with the "Technocrats."

DISCUSSED IN BOOK

Weidlein and Hamor interested themselves in the subject of social and industrial revision some time ago in a jointly-penned book, "Science in Action."

Although today they declined to comment directly on "Technocracy," they outlined in brief some changes they think necessary in our present industrial system—changes which might help prevent future depressions and even lift this one.

First, these scientists agree, the human sciences—together with the physical sciences—must be encouraged to make research for the aid of industrial management. Sociology, economics and psychology must assume their places in aiding the future executive.

STUDY NEEDED

Management, these men say, has been increasing the productivity of industry too long without study of the problems in the domain of these human sciences—problems which include consumption, distribution, purchasing power. They add we are now faced with "securing, interpreting and applying" the answers to economic and sociological questions before we can be certain that the people have economic security.

That industry has not supported science sufficiently to solve numerous problems of the machine environment seems to be the consensus. Few reports of research staffs have been accepted in full nor has business taken advantage of many discoveries. To this failure, in part, is this depression due, they state.

As for the "Technocrats'" fear that the need for manpower is rapidly nearing an end, these men point out that science has constantly devised new branches of manufacturing absorbing new workers. So Weidlein and Hamor say:

"We shall have more power and more machinery, but we shall also gain new inventions."

RESEARCH URGED

One suggestion is that universities arrange for research into problems involving the human factor of management because—

"Hitherto, economics has concentrated largely on production but now the research is shifting to distribution in which province the problem appears to be even more intricate.

"We must learn how to avoid economic insecurity, the pronounced inequality of distribution and the collapse that crowned the expansion of 1929."

To do this, it is recommended that the interest of sociologists and other apostles of the human sciences should be aroused and that they should be shown the "realizeable possibilities of applied sociology and should be given support for researches of likely concern to management."

Psychology should be drawn more closely to the heart of the industrial manager to aid in the selection of personnel, in the selection of individual vocations, to aid in merchandising.

There are two kinds of unemployment, these men think—cyclic and technologic. One comes with recurring business depressions, the other with obsolescence of industry.

To correct the present depression—one principally cyclic—these men advocate rehabilitation or improvement of production methods, development of new products and processes and creation of new uses for old products. Along with this research should go

Wife Defeated in Fight To Prevent Divorce

Mrs. Olga Leone Eyler, who contested the divorce case of her husband, Robert P. Eyler, 53½ Trenton avenue, Wilkinsburg, was defeated when Judge William H. McNaugher granted Eyler a decree.

Eyler, who is 33, and a Pennsylvania Railroad clerk, charged Mrs. Eyler, 1250 Moore avenue, North Braddock had several times attacked him. He testified she was jealous and accused him of flirting.

He said she once jumped out of a window, but Mrs. Eyler asserted she was pushed out.

Mrs. Linna B. Lord, 4716 Ellsworth avenue, has filed a divorce suit against Franklyn G. Lord, Woodmont street, charging indignities. They were married August 21, 1926.

Other divorce suits filed were those of Joseph Curtis against Anna Curtis, Frank Carpenter against Nanie Carpenter, and Pearl Aiman against William B. Aiman.

Divorce decrees were granted to Lillian E. Malone from Harry N. Malone and Olga G. Schran from Walter J. Schran.

Ten 'Beautiful Words' Change Like Weather

The Rev. Dr. Robert MacGowan, pastor of Bellefield Presbyterian Church, believes the 10 most beautiful words in the English language he selects change like the weather.

Today he said one of his selected words is grass, tomorrow it might be snow; the change being made by his receptive mood towards his environment.

Likewise, he declared, sunshine becomes one of his most beautiful words in his reaction towards a heavy fog. On the other hand, many of his selected words are highly symbolic as honor, joy, hope, love and faith. Still another type he chose is the class which shows the meaning of the word in its sound as whipering, roam and wander. His selections are as follows:

2—Sunshine.
3—Honor.
4—Joy.
5—Hope.
6—Love.
7—Faith.
8—Wander.
9—Roam.

ROXIE, HURT IN LEAP DURING RAID, SAYS HE'LL SUE

BLAMES FOES HE LINKED IN RUM PLOT

Rocco DiPippa, alias Roxie Long, confessed bootlegger, today contemplated criminal action against the constable who was the cause of his jumping from the second-floor window of his home, 1934 Rowley street, late yesterday.

At home with his wife, Virginia, and a son, Richard, 14, Roxie heard someone battering on his door and asked who was there. The only answer he got was "Sam" and because he did not know who Sam was he refused to open the door.

The pounding continued and Roxie jumped out the window, suffering a cut on the chin. He leaped because he feared he was being visited by gangsters seeking revenge for testimony he gave in Federal Court to convict 21 persons involved in a bootleg ring.

The visitor was a constable who searched the house for a still, but there was no still, according to Roxie, who declared he would bring action against the constable and possibly against the alderman, too.

PLAY CENTERS TO MARK YULE

A series of Christmas entertainments will be held throughout the week in city-owned recreation centers, Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang said today.

Because of the lack of city funds, Leo Altmeyer has donated the Christmas trees to be used. The lighting fixtures have been donated by the Iron City Electric Company and the Raphael Electric Company. Candy for 3,000 children under the age of 12 has been provided by the Goodfellows of the Rotary Club of Pittsburgh, according to Lang.

Crawford Bath House, entertainment at 8 p. m.; Lawrenceville Neighborhood House, Christmas carols at 3:30 p. m.; Leslie Recreation Center, entertainment at 4 p. m.; Lewis Recreation Center, entertainment at 4 p. m.; Oliver swimming pool, Christmas party at 4 p. m.; Warrington Center, children play at 8 p. m.; West Penn Recreation Center, Christmas party at 4 p. m.

Bandit Robs Carman As Passengers Watch

BALTIMORE, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—With his car operating on schedule and discharging and taking on passengers, Robert Larkins, operating a one-man street car was held up by an armed bandit and robbed of about $20. Passengers saw the robber in the vestibule but thought he was a railway employe.

The tiny submarine making its first dive as Dr. Beebe tested its practicability. The boat's only 22 feet long and 6 feet wide, will drop out a diver under the water, draws air and current from a mother ship with emergency supplies and controls readily available to allow it to cruise.

CHARGES AGENT COAXED HER TO SELL LIQUOR

Mrs. Agnes Brooks, proprietress of a store in Straka street, arraigned before the United States commissioner on a charge of violating the dry law, admitted selling a pint of whisky, but said she did only after being coaxed for 15 minutes by a man she later learned was a prohibition agent.

The agent denied he had had to coax her to make the sale. He testified he paid $1 for the liquor. This was denied by Mrs. Brooks, who said that both the agent and a stranger, who said he knew her son, had paid for it, the agent contributing 25 cents. The agent testified he paid the entire amount. Mrs. Brooks was held for court under $1,000 bond.

Testimony brought out that the agent asked a man in the neighborhood where liquor could be bought, and was escorted to the Brooks store. This occurred December 13. Five days later the store was raided and two pints of whisky seized, according to the testimony.

Counsel for the prohibition department offered in evidence a note said to have been found in the store during the raid, which read:

"Give this man a half-pint. Will pay you in the a. m."

It was signed "Milkman." The Commissioners ruled it was not material evidence.

County Probes Physical State of Pensioners

O. A. WILLIAMS RITES HELD

Funeral services for Owen Albert Williams, formerly secretary of the Pittsburgh Press, who died at his home in Merion, Philadelphia, Monday, were held today at Samson's funeral home, Neville street, with interment private at Sharon Cemetery, Carnot, Pa.

Honorary pallbearers chosen from among his former associates were Edward C. Fownes, George J. Campbell, George S. Foster, John J. Gallagher, John B. Townley, H. M. Bitner, Reed C. Neill, Thomas M. Carmichael, Max W. Silverblatt, John G. Miller, John J. Datz, Verus T. Ritter, Charles S. Gibbon, Ralph S. Davis, G. L. McCullogh and William S. Haddock.

Last Tribute Paid Aviation Pioneer

RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—As airplanes in massed formation flew overhead, Alberto Santos-Dumont, aviation pioneer who died July 23, was buried yesterday with high honors.

The stonemason who built the tomb with Santos-Dumont's guidance sealed it in accordance with the wish of the inventor. The body had lain in state in the Sao Paulo Cathedral since the death of the inventor.

Public Job Holding By Retired Men Also Checked

A complete checkup was to be started today on the physical condition and employment status of every person receiving benefits from the county pension fund. The action was ordered yesterday after County Commissioners had discussed several persons reported as receiving pensions from one municipality and drawing salaries from others.

After Leo A. Riordan, chief county investigator, had been instructed to make the survey, Commissioner W. D. Mansfield said he was considering presenting legislation in Harrisburg to make the practice illegal.

It was pointed out many persons on the county payroll are drawing pension money from the city and other sources. In one case a county employe is drawing a city pension and is getting government compensation for war service, it was declared. There are county employes who are receiving school pensions, it was said.

City and county pension funds recently have been declared in weakened condition. George B. Buck, New York actuary, recently informed the Commissioners no county employe now is assured of receiving his pension when he retires. He said the Commissioners would have to appropriate $468,339 next year to put the fund on a sound basis.

A similar condition exists in the city, where the three funds for the police, firemen and other employes are said to be in a precarious state.

SANTA CAME TO EDWARD

EDWARD ROBERTS, JR., 3 MRS. ROBERTS

Edward, 279 Spahr street, with his new spectacles, supplied by the Falk Clinic as many Pittsburgh opticians volunteered to give him free glasses after it became known that he had asked Santa to bring them to him. The prescription had been issued for the lens, but Edward's father had no job. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

VOTE MACHINE BREAKS IN TEST

SUNBURY, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A Northumberland County taxpayers' group, seeking to prevent the county from paying for voting machines bought by a former Board of Commissioners, had two of the machines brought into court yesterday—and one of them lost several parts.

The taxpayers contend the machines, costing $74,000, were faulty.

Benjamin B. Sklar, of Pittsburgh, former foreman and instructor for the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, of Baltimore, the manufacturer, testified for the taxpayers that inferior materials were used and that the machines did not meet specifications. He asserted the company knew of the faults.

Asked to demonstrate one of the machines, Sklar failed to get it started after an hour's effort. Court adjourned the hearing until the middle of January.

PAY FOR LOST PANTS DENIED

County Commissioners will not play Santa Claus to Anton Morouse.

While Morouse bathed in the South Park pool last summer someone stole his trousers, or perhaps his whole suit—the Commissioners are not certain. He notified them yesterday he would be glad to receive $15 for new clothes, or would accept any offer.

A. M. Marion, park director, said it was first reported Morouse had lost his trousers and a county investigator offered him $15, which he refused. In his letter to the Commissioners he said the whole suit was lost.

Although Leo A. Riordan, chief county investigator, said Morouse had no money and was unable to buy new clothes, the Commissioners tabled his plea, not wishing, they said, to invite similar claims.

'QUAKES BREAK PITT RECORDER

Records supplied today from the University of Pittsburgh seismograph, showed part of the apparatus shaken out of commission by yesterday's earthquake that rocked the western part of the United States.

When the quake started yesterday morning at 1:16:23 Pittsburgh time the west component shook the writing point off the cylinder where the vibrations are recorded. The east component showed terrific vibrations that lasted for more than three hours, coming to rest at 4:30.

H. Morgan Rutherford, in charge of the seismograph station, said:

"The western earthquake made the biggest movement ever shown on the university seismograph. Also that was not the only quake of the day. A smaller one followed at 7 o'clock in the morning."

Kellogg Observes His 76th Birthday

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State, passed his seventy-sixth birthday in New York today. Accompanied by Mrs. Kellogg, he is here on business.

PFARR'S FUND PLEA DENIED

Fire Marshall Thomas L. Pfarr, with only $15.59 in his office fund, has bills due this month amounting to $814.98, he informed County Commissioners in a letter asking funds for the remainder of the year. He reminded the Commissioners he had turned back an automobile they provided for him.

Chairman C. C. McGovern commented:

"This fellow seems to be against us like he was against the old administration. I worked hard and once got him office quarters in a public building, free of rent. He moved back into an office building and is paying his own rent now. We then got him a nice red automobile to travel to the fires. He turned it back. I guess he must be going to fires in taxicabs.

"I think he is a great asset to the county. He has a tier in the Western Penitentiary filled with men charged with arson. He's all right, but I don't know what he has against us."

On McGovern's suggestion the request was tabled.

Shriners Donate Food to Children

Santa Claus paid an unexpected visit yesterday to the Volunteers of America Day Nursery, 500 West North avenue, where daily 150 children are cared for. The Santa Claus was James W. Barber, recorder of the Shrine, and he came from Syria Temple with a truckload of food.

Insull Extradition Hearings Scheduled

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Hearings in extradition proceedings against Samuel Insull will begin next Tuesday, it was decided today by Vice President Alexander Georgacopoulos, of the Court of Appeals, after an interview with Public Attorney Riganacos.

COAL RATE CUT FORECAST FOR PA. MINES

A Christmas gift in the form of reduced freight rates on coal shipments within the state and eastward was in prospect for Western Pennsylvania coal producers today.

The Public Service Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission have before them recommendations of their examiners that rates be reduced, and representatives of the coal industry here said there was every likelihood the lower rates would be put into effect.

The report of the examiners climaxes a two-year fight of coal shippers against opposition of the railroads for a reduction. The report to the Public Service Commission states the case affects the future of the miners and their families, and the stability of the mining towns throughout western and central Pennsylvania.

The biggest reduction recommended for shipments within the state is 52 cents a gross ton on coal shipped to Philadelphia for trans-shipment. The rate to Harrisburg would be reduced 33 cents a gross ton.

The I. C. C. examiner recommended all-rail rates to New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore be lowered and rates on trans-shipments by vessel to those points be permitted to stand at their present level.

The action of the Public Service Commission examiner in recommending reductions on intra-state rates is similar to that of the Ohio Utilities Commission in reducing rates on shipments within Ohio. The Western Pennsylvania coal producers are fighting the lowered Ohio rates on the ground they militate against the Pennsylvania shippers. A hearing on this case is to be resumed January 3, probably at Washington.

Attorney Shulgold at the luncheon meeting of Downtown Post No. 59, American Legion, with the unexpected "door prize," suddenly turned loose and offered to the captor. COUNTY CHECKS INSURANCE

Records of insurance premiums paid by the county and the amount of claims collected are to be scanned by auditors, with a view to eliminating many policies and substituting a liability fund.

The Commissioners told M. C. Conick to learn from the records how much has been paid the county in accidents, compensation, fires of other forms of insurance.

Chairman C. C. McGovern said:

"Some of these insurance and casualty companies were organized by a bunch of politicians who saw there was good money in it. They rely almost entirely on the business they get from the county. I believe we could set up a fund each year, based on the averages paid out in previous years, take care of any losses and still save money by not paying out the large amounts in premiums."

Rides Runaway Dynamite Truck To Safety

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—When riding a runaway truck, loaded with dynamite, stick to the seat.

This was the advice given by George Ross today who is alive and well while his companion, James Kouker, who leaped as the heavy vehicle got out of control yesterday, is in a hospital.

DUQUESNE CUTS LIGHTING COSTS

Duquesne City Council last night rejected the $42,000 three-year light contract of the Duquesne Light Company and agreed not to spend more than $9,200 for street lighting in 1933. Council intimated the next move was up to the light company.

Under the plan approved by Council, the lighting will be reduced 75 per cent, replacing 1,000-watt bulbs with 250's, and 250's with 100's. Smaller lamps will be reduced in proportion.

The three-year contract offered by the light company would reduce candlepower 50 per cent, but Council demanded further reductions and refused to sign a contract for more than a year.

'Technocrats' Foes Of Communism

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Technocrats engaged at Columbia University in the studies that supply data showing radical changes must be made in the political and economic form of western governments, do not, however, advocate any specific type of change whatever.

Prof. Walter Rautenstrauch, of the university's industrial engineering department, announced today in an interview at the Engineers' Club:

"We are merely supplying scientific data for the use of sociologists and economists.

"Most of the technocrats are wholly opposed to the tenets of communism or socialism."

He was asked:

"Are you not, however, proving with your data and tables that much of the abuses charged against capitalism by Socialists and Communists are existent?"

He replied:

"Very possibly. But we are not proving these abuses as partisans of any present forms of government.

"To the economists we say: There has been a very rapid substitution of kilowatt hours for man-hours in the United States. The daily labor of man ceases to be an important factor in production.

"Do these conditions indicate the need for social changes, economic changes? That's the question we pose for the economist and sociologist. We do not attempt to answer the question ourselves. We are merely technologists."

COX CHRISTMAS NEEDS HEAVY

Father Cox wasn't in a particularly happy mood yesterday. Everywhere he looked in the shadow of Old St. Patrick's reaching into many surrounding blocks there was destitution on the eve of Christmas, and little in hand with which to relieve it. He will give Christmas baskets of food as far as his resources will permit. He still needs donations for this and will appreciate everything brought to him between now and Saturday noon. He wants more food.

The supplies donated by the public at the recent Warner Theater benefit will be welcomed by many families, but there is far from enough to meet actual urgent demands.

Father Cox is gratified with the response to his appeal for Christmas cards in the shape of Sun-Telegraph home delivery order blanks. Every blank printed on this page that comes in brings a liberal cash commission to his unemployment relief fund.

Marines' Recruiting Station Stays Here

The recruiting station here will be among the few in the country maintained as the Marine Corps headquarters prepares for the prospective personnel reduction recommended to Congress by President Hoover.

Twenty stations have been ordered closed. The only men now being accepted are former Marines, who may re-enlist within three months from date of discharge, and members of class three of the Fleet Marine Corps Reserve.

Imprisoned Banker Faces New Charges

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Andrew J. Horvatt, former banker now serving a sentence in Auburn Prison, and John Scerba are defendants in a new action brought by the State Bank of Binghamton.

Horvatt was served with a summons in a $300,000 suit instituted by the bank to recover money allegedly due it from Horvatt, who was accused of utilizing bank funds in illegal liquor operations in Binghamton and nearby regions.

STORE LOOTED, TRIO ARRESTED

Thefts from the Joseph Horne Company store were reported solved today with the arrest of a Negro employe, his wife and stepson. City detectives said the store had been robbed of merchandise valued at $25,000 in the last two years.

Wallack Mack, 52, a porter, took silk dresses, lingerie, stockings and other finery, hiding them under his clothes, the sleuths said.

Mercer Gives 12 Christmas Pardons

MERCER, Pa., Dec. 22.—Santa Claus arrived early at the Mercer County Jail. His gift was a release to 11 men and one woman serving sentences for minor offenses. Sheriff Frank Fair obtained permission from Judge J. A. McLaughry and justices of the peace to release the prisoners so they could go home for the holidays.

Stowe Township Surcharges Voided

Judge Harry H. Rowand has dismissed surcharges made by auditors of Stowe Township against the township commissioners, relieving them of liability. An appeal was taken by Howard E. Millard and others from the auditor's report. The principal item was for $943, together with several smaller charges.

Nebraska Towns Give Free Light As Yule Gift

POTTER, Neb., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Potter and Dix—both served by the Potter municipal light plant—will receive free electric power this month as a Christmas gift from the village board of trustees. The concession applies to every consumer, regardless of whether his account were paid to date. Lodge Pole made a similar offer last week but required that all accounts be paid in full.

SHOE COMPANY OPENING STORE

The newest link in the national chain of Regal Shoe Company stores will be opened at 214 Fifth avenue tomorrow, officials of the company announced today. It will be in almost the exact site of the first Regal store opened in Pittsburgh many years ago.

The new store will be equipped with the Resco foot-measuring system, which automatically measures and records the length and width of both feet under the standing weight of the body. A demonstration will be given persons attending the store opening. Men's shoes only will be handled at this shop.

Florist Asks Court To Change His Name

Morris Washbutsky, 5502 Kamin street, a florist, has filed a court petition requesting that his name be changed to Morry Wess. Hearing on his application has been set for February 21.

LOST HIS LUCK WITH MONKEY

Sam Rosenberg, alias Rosa, would never have believed that a monkey meant good luck until he traded it for a parrot. He is en route to Philadelphia's jail with Detective Thomas P. Mellon and a warrant charging non-support of Mrs. Rosenberg and four little Rosenbergs, and without parrot, handorgan or monkey.

Sam had a reputation in the Quaker City as an organgrinder, and his monkey was a caution. Then Sam came to Pittsburgh, he said, checked his organ at the Pennsylvania Station and traded the monkey for a parrot. The landlady at 1313 Hazel street, where County Detectives Charles Stewart and John Duderstadt found him, kept the parrot. Sam said:

"That parrot brought in no money at all."

Loses Shoes, Gun As Holdup Fails

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 22.—A young and would-be robber who confronted A. Coby, apartment house manager, with an order to "stick 'em up," found banditry a losing game. When Coby gave battle the bandit fled, leaving behind him—

Eighth Ward Relief Group Maps Work

To aid needy families, the Eighth Ward Community Relief Committee has reorganized for the year. The committee will give out relief baskets each Saturday. It asks for reports on needy cases in the ward.

WOMAN'S GIFT PROVIDES TOYS

The Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, through a contribution of Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson, will provide toys for approximately 1,000 poor children this Christmas. The toys, of all varieties, purchased by Mrs. Clemson, will be packed in stockings tomorrow by society and clubwomen of the city, at the main building of the association, 428 Duquesne way.

Well-to-do families are being asked to donate automobiles for the distribution of the gifts, and, it is hoped, all will be in the hands of the recipients before Christmas Day.

Harvard Grid Fans Prove Hearty Eaters

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Football crowds at the Harvard Stadium were small this year, but apparently they were heavy eaters. Proceeds at the lunch stands were so heavy that more than $2,500 was distributed among the 50 students who worked at the counters. The money was given as a bonus in addition to regular wages.

Plumber Steals Gas For His Girl Friend

CINCINNATI, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A plumber, Max Plotkin, 26, was entirely too handy with his tools. He was fined $50 and given a suspended 30-day jail sentence on a charge he swapped gas pipes in the apartment building where a woman friend lived.

Goodwill Industries Giving Two Parties

A party was scheduled this afternoon and another will be held tonight at the Pittsburgh Goodwill Industries, Liberty avenue and Twenty-eighth street. The first is for girls under 12. The other is a presentation of two plays by the Mother's Club and by the Goodwill Young Women's Club, for mothers and younger women, at 7 p. m. All guests will receive gifts.

Artist Pleads Own Case in Suit Appeal

Seeking a new trial against advice of his attorney, G. W. Aland, an artist, of Black street, appeared as his own counsel in Common Pleas Court yesterday in his $25,000 damage suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company. A verdict in favor of the railways was rendered several weeks ago. Aland claimed his hand was injured in 1928 when caught in a closing trolley door.

Senate Receives Postmaster Names

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The President has sent to the Senate for confirmation these names for Western Pennsylvania postmasterships: Cresson, John F. Parrish; Donora, William W. Weise; Du Bois, Luther J. Lukehart; Knox, Mary G. Bowser; North East, Ralph B. McCord; New Sheffield, Jennett W. Todd; Renfrew, Clarence S. Sutton; South Fork, Charles D. Gramling.

Adams Urges Deer Season for Archers

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Deer hunting with bow and arrow is great sport, in the opinion of Maj. Lynn G. Adams, head of the Pennsylvania State Police, but he feels it will never get anywhere as long as gunners armed with rifles roam the woods.

The gun-equipped hunter offers too much competition for the archer, Adams declares, and he says he would like to see a special bow-and-arrow deer season preceding the regular season.

How to Guard against the FLU

Every Sun-Telegraph reader is urged to heed these precautions

The flu epidemic has reached this community. The health authorities are doing their part, but every individual must be on guard.

Keep your medicine chest supplied with the sensible aids to health; any sickness weakens the system and lowers your resistance to germs.

Every household should have at least one hot water bag, in good condition, or an electric pad; and a fever thermometer. Sleep in airy rooms, with ample covering. Avoid an overheated house during the day; dress warmly when you go out. Beware of overcrowded cars, poorly ventilated public meeting places, stuffy telephone booths. Flu is contagious! Breathe through the nose. Keep the system alkaline, the bowels in good order; Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will help you do both. If you have any symptom of a cold, take Bayer Aspirin according to directions. Don't lose even five minutes! Genuine Bayer Aspirin can't harm you, but a common cold is dangerous at a time like this.

Eat plain foods, get enough rest, and don't over-do. Take these extra precautions to keep in sound physical condition, so your system will have normal resistance against germs.

At any sign of actual flu, call a doctor at once. Do not try to treat yourself for influenza!

Trig Ensemble
Pattern 2429
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

by Anne Adams

Boleros will be high in fashion this spring. Here a perfectly cut bolero tops an enormously chic frock, creating a stunning ensemble.

The frock itself is a dream, boasting a most becoming pointed yoke and smart skirt godets. Pockets may be omitted, but they are the vogue in Paris. Your frock and jacket may be in one color, or you could use contrast, to wear each garment with others in your wardrobe.

Pattern 2429 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards 39-inch fabric and 1⅛ yards contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for this pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

The choice of a smart, sensible and economical wardrobe becomes very simple with the aid of THE ANNE ADAMS PATTERN CATALOG. BATHHOUSE JOB COST STUDIED

County Commissioners have asked the solicitors for advice as to whether the county has a legal claim against the J. P. Ramella Contracting Company to compel return of $2,339.13 paid for extra work in building the South Park bath house.

M. C. Conick, auditor, reported the county paid the contractor $67,800 and an additional $4,938.25 for extras. Some of the extra charge was for the replacing of the bathhouse floor, as the one placed by the contractor was changed by county engineers. Conick believes the additional cost should have been covered by the contractor's maintenance bond.

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 22.—(Universal.)—One of the largest Indian cities of the southwest—inhabited by 10,000 "pit house" dwellers in the days of ancient Rome—was discovered 27 miles east of here by Frank Landon, government employe, he reported yesterday.

Convicted, Gets Time For New Trial Plea

Irwin Short, Negro, 26, of Ben Avon, was free today on his recognizance, following his conviction of involuntary manslaughter before Visiting Judge J. A. McLaughry, of Mercer County. Short was granted four days to prepare a motion for a new trial.

It was testified an automobile driven by Short skidded on the wet Ohio River boulevard May 14 and hit another car, fatally injuring Theodore A. Devine, 53, of 300 Cleveland avenue, Avalon. Judge McLaughry, in releasing Short without bail, indicated a belief that an acquittal verdict might have been returned.

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Advice of Friends Often Brings Unhappiness

Should a girl decide things for herself—?

Or should she keep herself in a stew, running from this person to that, asking them to decide for her?

Dear Elsie—

I have a problem that I cannot seem to figure out, and I would certainly appreciate your advice or your opinion of this situation.

I was married for nine years to a fine young man. Two years ago I divorced him, as he had stepped out on me and neglected me, off and on, all through our married life. Neither of us wanted a divorce, but I told him that if he didn't settle down and be a man I would get one, and I did.

It almost killed him—and me, too, though I didn't let on to him. For the last two years he has seemed to be, and acted like, a different person. He has been more considerate of me when I have seen him, and he has settled down in business. I believe he is really trying to be something.

He says he loves me more than ever, and I know I still love him. I would like to forget the past and go back to him, but my friends say such things can't be done.

TELEPHONES HER

But I still feel in my heart that if two people love each other enough they can succeed, even after a failure like ours. He has lots of good qualities, but I think we married at a time when he couldn't shoulder responsibilities.

Now both of us have learned plenty. We have been going with other people, and don't see each other for weeks at a time. Then, all of a sudden, he rings me up, and we both know that it's useless to keep on pretending, as there will never be anyone else for either of us.

We're both 36 years old now, and not children. So, Elsie, please tell us what you think

BILLY

So that's your story. I wonder if you're proud of it, now that you see it in print.

The man has grown up, turned into a responsible citizen who treats you right. He loves you, and you love him, and you admit yourself that "there can be no one else for either of you"—yet you haven't the backbone to square around and decide for yourself whether to make a new start with him or not, because someone else "says it can't be done."

SETTLE OWN AFFAIRS

You can do anything, my dear, if you'll use your head and quit listening to croakers who can't, after all, really know anything about what is in your heart, and couldn't live your life for you if they did.

Whether you go back to him or not, and whether that going back will be successful or not, is up to you and him. If you listen to every outsider, it won't be. But if he has changed, as you say he has; if you love each other; if you've both learned enough to give each other a break, why should you hesitate?

Why should you listen to any one else's notions? It's your heart that is hungry; your life that is lonely. If you think you can go back and make a go of it, go to it!

As a matter of fact, my dear, I suspect that too much listening to "friends" on your part was just as much responsible for your divorce in the first place, as was your husband's stepping out.

So if you do decide to go back to him, settle your affairs for yourself, without benefit of the neighbors or your friends.

MRS. WEDD ALWAYS DECLARES THAT SHE NEVER GAVE ANY YOUNG MAN THE LEAST ENCOURAGEMENT BUT HAD A DOZEN PROPOSALS OF MARRIAGE!
I DON'T BELIEVE IT!
I COULD HAVE MARRIED A RICHER, HANDSOMER MAN, BUT THE TENTH TIME MR WEDD PROPOSED I JUST DIDN'T HAVE THE HEART TO SAY "NO" - AGAIN!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Few wives will ever admit that they made the least effort to capture their husbands.

To hear them tell of their romance, it was always a case of love at first sight, and endless pursuit and proposals before they would say "yes."

This legend should be censored, for the sake of the trusting and believing girls, who then give no young man they know the least encouragement. They are waiting for the young men to do all the endless pursuing and proposing wives tell about.

Don't be reluctant to show a certain amount of approval and encouragement to a young man you like—all wives did!

Madge and Lillian Seek Copy of Private Code

I could only stare silently at Lillian, so thunderstruck was I at her revelation that Marion had concealed a code in the letter which she had sent to her mother by the hands of the men who had kidnaped her and Carolyn.

"I don't wonder you're stumped," Lillian said, sensing my bewilderment. "For a few minutes I was on a dead-end street myself. You see it's been years since the time, during convalescence from an illness, that Marion decided that she wished to make up an elaborate code which she could send to me if ever she were kidnaped and held for ransom.

"I never have thought of it since, but she evidently has remembered it in its entirety all these years. She must have your memory, instead of mine, even though she is no blood kin of yours."

"Being an imaginative youngster," I said, "she probably has rehearsed it many times since then, while you've never thought of it again. But how can you be sure that it is this code?"

She countered with a question.

"Did you notice anything queer about this note?"

"Yes, indeed, I did," I answered promptly. "In fact, I had thought it was a forgery because of several mistakes in English and spelling and several flamboyant expressions that I knew Marion would never use, especially her calling you 'Momsy.'"

CODE FORGOTTEN

"That's the thing which made me think of the code," she said. "I remember that much, that she said if ever I received a letter from her beginning 'Dear Momsy,' I was to know that she was in some sort of a jam and that she would tell me things in code that she didn't want anybody else to know.

"That was to be the signal and I remember now that certain words were to be misspelled, among them 'business' and 'separate'—I suppose because I had drilled her on those two words. But for the life of me I can't remember what the different words and phrases mean. Oh, if I only had your memory!"

"But haven't you the book put away somewhere?" I asked tensely. "You never destroy anything, and we have the whole day before us."

She thought for several seconds, tapping the knuckles of one hand against the other.

"If it's anywhere—and I never destroyed it, I'm sure—it's in one of the boxes stored in the attic at the farmhouse; but, in which one I have no idea."

"Then that's Katherine's hard luck," I said briskly, putting as much optimism into my voice as I could.

"Oh, you mean?" she said.

"That you get on a telephone immediately, describe the book to Katherine and set her to hunting it. The minute she finds it—wait; let's get Mary in. I have a scheme that will depend partly upon her."

PLANS OUTLINED

"I believe you've got it," she returned excitedly, her keen perceptions fathoming my purpose. But I was already at the door, to return a minute later with Mary, whom I had beckoned from the sitting room of the Brixton suite.

"Now then," I said to Lillian, as I motioned Mary to a chair, "I've told Mary about the code letter, and here's the scheme. Do you know where to get hold of Noel, Mary?"

"Yes, I can telephone him right away if you want him for anything. He'll drop anything and get busy, I know."

"Then I turned to Lillian. As soon as Katherine finds the book you describe, have her get ready to send it toward New York by Jerry Ticer, or any other safe messenger. Have Noel start immediately from New York over Queensboro Bridge and Jericho Turnpike. When he gets to Flushing, have him telephone Katherine. If she already has found the book, let him agree with her where along that Middle Island road her messenger will wait for him.

"As soon as Mary has telephoned Noel, she will start for New York, and just before she gets to the Holland tunnel she will telephone Katherine, and find out where she can meet Noel in order to get the book back here in the quickest possible time."

-:- Hints for the Household -:-

Black silk garments which are beginning to look shabby may be renovated by sponging with clear, strong coffee and ironing on the wrong side.

Maidenhair fern can be kept fresh for a week if, when it is first picked, the ends of the stalks are sealed with sealing wax.

Borax in the rinsing water will renew the gloss on sateen, and one tablespoonful of borax to a pint of water boiled in a kettle will remove all fur.

Contract Bridge -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Sins of Experts

Experts, like more common mortals, sometimes bid too much, and as a result pay a penalty instead of accepting one from their opponents.

One of the popular games at Crockford's Club, New York, has as frequent players in it Mr. Harold S. Vanderbilt, who is known as "the father of Contract," and Mr. Douglas Paige, who on more than one occasion has been Mr. Vanderbilt's teammate in the classic contest for the Vanderbilt Cup, the emblem of Bridge supremacy at team-of-four play. In a recent game, these two ancient teammates were pitted against each other, Mr. Vanderbilt having as his partner Mr. Raymond Balfe, while Mr. Paige had Mr. Willard Karn.

Neither side was vulnerable, and Mr. Vanderbilt, sitting South, dealt this hand:

Mr. Balfe
♠ A 9 4
♡ 9 6 2
◇ 7 4
♣ A K 9 7 4

Mr. Paige
♡ A K J 5 4
◇ A K 10 6 5 3 2
♣ 3

North-East-South-West

Mr. Karn
♠ K J 8
♡ Q 10 7 3
◇ Q 9
♣ J 8 5 2

Mr. Vanderbilt
♠ Q 10 7 6 5 3 2
♡ 6
◇ J 8
♣ Q 10 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠ (1)	2 ♠ (2)	Double (3)	Redouble (4)
Pass	3 ◇ (5)	4 ♣	4 ♡ (6)
Pass	5 ♣ (7)	5 ♠	Double
Pass	6 ◇	6 ♠	Double
Pass	7 ◇ (8)	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—A First Hand psychic by the author of the Club Convention. While probably unsound, it did create a very interesting series of bids.

2—The logical and correct call.

3—With Mr. Balfe's holding, the Double is probably as good a bid as he has, to disclose strength to his partner.

4—An equally brilliant call by Mr. Karn. While not impressive, Mr. Karn's holdings are by no means insignificant opposite Mr. Paige's strong bid.

5—Correctly bidding diamonds rather than hearts because of the greater length and the certainty of being forced on an early round.

6—The correct response.

7—A little bit of camouflage, with the hope of preventing a club lead.

8—Mr. Paige afterward admitted that he should have either passed the Double of six spades or bid seven hearts. Had he bid seven hearts, Mr. Vanderbilt would have had a hard choice in making an Opening lead.

Mr. Balfe opened the club King, which held, and Mr. Paige then won the remaining tricks. The contract of seven diamonds could not have been made, however, against any opening, as there was no place on which to discard the losing club. Played at hearts, however, there might have been a chance. The hand could have been made if Mr. Vanderbilt had failed to guess the correct lead.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

Question—What should the Responding Hand bid with the following holding after an opening bid of one diamond and an overcall of one spade:

♠ 6 4 3 2 ♡ A K 5 ◇ 4 3 2 ♣ A K

Answer—Two diamonds. The hand is much too strong to pass, contains no biddable suit or spade stopper, and, therefore, a raise of partner's diamond bid is the best bid that the hand offers, despite the lack of adequate trump support.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Correct Signature

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Will you please inform me of the correct way for a young girl to sign a business letter? I have always signed my name L. Barnes, not writing out my first name fully. Is this wrong?

2—Will you inform me whether it is correct for me to send a Christmas gift, such as a wallet or tie, to a gentleman business acquaintance, who had done me a very good "turn?" I wish to show my appreciation. I have already written him a letter of thanks. B.

1—Yes, signing your name with the first name abbreviated so that the receiver-of-the-letter would not know how to address an answer to you, is, obviously, confusing. It's maddening ... I'm sure that you will agree ... for a person who has to answer a letter not to be sure how to address the answer. L. BARNES for a signature certainly would make me "wonder" how my answer should be addressed. This form of signature seems to me to be going out of one's way to make a signature "uncertain." Don't you really agree with this, when you analyze it?

2—I'd rather have you send this kind of gift at some time other than at Christmas time. Since the point of your gift has nothing to do with Christmas, why not wait and send the gift later, when it will register "appreciation" rather than "Christmas?"

Gifts for a Girl

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Can I give the girl I go with a box of handkerchiefs, a bottle of perfume, a ring or a wrist watch for Christmas?

THANKFUL READER.

The box of handkerchiefs and the bottle of perfume would be appropriate, but, unless you are engaged to her, the ring and wrist watch wouldn't be appropriate. A man shouldn't give a girl such consequential presents unless he is engaged to her.

The Beauty Box

Treat frowns to a feast of massage cream. Tap briskly with the finger tips. Rub finger ends in tiny circles, working from the lower end of the line upward. Placing first fingers of both hands across the line smooth briskly in opposite directions.

Fresh air and pure water are two cheap beautifiers, not properly appreciated by the grand army of beauty-woe fighters. Six glasses of water a day make for good digestion and internal cleanliness. The morning walk at a brisk pace gives the lungs an airing, stimulates circulation, produces a pleasant sense of fatigue, soothes jumpy nerves, chases away worry bugs. Also, it is a complexion treatment of the first order.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Hope for Club Foot Sufferers

It is a sad misfortune to be born with a club foot. But children so afflicted are no longer doomed as they used to be. When the condition is recognized in its early stages cure is possible. In more advanced cases complete disability can be prevented. It is neglect of the deformity that is dangerous.

Dr. Copeland

Three theories are put forth as to the cause of this defect. The first of these is that there is involvement of certain nerves of the foot. There is the mechanical theory, the belief that pressure during birth causes the deformity. The third view is that it comes from infantile paralysis or some other infection.

In "talipes," which is the medical name for club foot, the foot is dropped in such a manner as to make it resemble a club. In congenital cases, the affliction usually involves both feet.

Congenital club foot should be treated in infancy. Then it is often possible to correct the deformity without an operation. Relief comes from manipulation. The foot is restored to its normal position and kept there by plaster of paris bandages.

Other cases of club foot can be overcome only by operation. In this procedure, the tendon which is shortened and causing the deformity, is cut. It is a simple operation and need cause no alarm.

After "tenotomy," which is the name of the operation, the affected foot is placed in a plaster of paris bandage. This immediate treatment is followed by supervised exercises and massages. These are continued until the deformity is entirely corrected.

A similar operation has been successfully used of late in many cases of club foot caused by infantile paralysis. It differs in one respect. In paralytic cases, the tendon is cut and attached to a healthy and unparalyzed muscle. By this procedure the paralysis is overcome and the deformity disappears.

Let me warn against placing too much faith in the so-called "club foot shoe." It is only of value in mild cases. In most instances it is uncomfortable and does not cure the underlying deformitory.

Society is more and more indebted to the outstanding achievements of modern surgery. What is being done is a blessing to humanity. We should take advantage of every opportunity offered to remedy club foot and other physical deformities. Every child has a right to a straight and strong body. Never neglect deformities which will humiliate and make your child unhappy throughout his life.

A careful examination of a child at birth will reveal any abnormality that may be present. If club foot is found necessary measures for correction should be taken at once. Bear in mind that early diagnosis and early treatment are essential to a successful and complete cure.

SOX DEALS LACK ONLY THIRD-SACKER

IF YOU THINK the player trading between the St. Louis and Cincinnati National League clubs has been heavy during the last year, how about what has been going on between the Chicago and Boston clubs in the American League? Possibly he wasn't doing them any great favor is the suggestion that offers itself when you consider the type of players involved, but it is a fact that within nine months, with the exception only of a third baseman, J. Louis Comiskey has handed over to the Red Sox a whole ball club.

J. Louis Comiskey

Here's the almost complete lineup shifted from Chicago to Boston: Catcher, Bennett Tate; pitcher, Bob Weiland; first base, Johnny Watwood; second base, Urban Hodapp; shortstop, Gregory Mulleavy; outfielders, Smead Jolley, Bob Fothergill and Bob Seeds. Comiskey was a little short on third basemen himself, as he had to go out and get Jimmy Dykes for the position. Anyhow, perhaps Marty McManus wasn't overly eager to take on another third sacker, as it leaves a job open for himself as playing manager.

THE ELUSIVENISS OF major league pennants, how you may fail year after year through several baseball generations at the task of winning a flag, no matter how hard you keep on trying, is demonstrated very clearly in the record of the Detroit club.

The Tigers have not finished first in 23 years. They won in 1907-08-09, lost the world series in all three seasons, and have never tasted pennant succes since. In the meantime, with the solitary exception of the St. Lois Americans, every other outfit in both circuits has captured one or more championships.

DETROIT HAS SPENT a fortune to get a winner and has developed many brilliant players, but always, before the last remaining hole or two in the tray could be bolstered up to pennant requirements, some other part of the club started to crumble.

And yet, during all that time, Frank Navin has made fewer changes in manages than any other club owner except those in control of the A's, Giants and Dodgers. Bucky Harris is only the fourth Tiger pilot since pennant days, preceded by Hughey Jennings, Ty Cobb and GeorgeMoriarty.

IT IS NOT aly in the college division of football that the naming of all-star teams draws criticism from scribes and fans in a section where it s thought a deserving player has been slighted. There is a differece of opinion in the professional field, too, and the central figure n the principal protest is none other than Cliff Battles, former catain and star halfback at West Virginia Wesleyan, and this yar a brilliant performer for the Baton pro team in the National League. Pittsburgh fans know how good Battles was as a college player. He was a whole team in himself. Evidently he kept it up as a pro, for Boston footbal men take exception to the action of the National League coaches in giving Battles only honorable mention in the section of an all-star team for 1932 whil picking Red Grange and others ahead f him.

Cliff Battles

IT CANNOT BE said that the Boston critics are motivate merely by a feeling that their city nd team have been slighted, inasmuch as Glenn Edwards, tackle on the same eleven, was picked in the all-star lineup. The Hub men say that Edwards, besides being out of the first few games, was spotty in his performances, and that Battles was far more brilliant and consistent.

"Battles was th one who made the Boston attack go," Bob Dunbar writes in the Boston Herald. "He was believed to be one of the outstanding backs f the pro circuit, yet honorable mention is his sole reward, while Red Grange is picked ahead of him. In another year, however, we feel that Battles will receive just recognition, provided he continues the braid of football he played this last season."

THE DEATH IN Erie of the widow of Louie Bierbauer, second baseman for thePittsburgh National League club from 1891 to 1896, recalls the origi of the local club's nickname of Pirates. It was the coming of Bierbuer to this city that brought about that title.

In the yea of the Brotherhood revolt, 1890, Louie jumped the Philadelphia Athletics, of the American Association, to play with Brooklyn in the Players' League. When the Players' League broke up after one eason, all players were ordered to return to the clubs they had jumped.

THE ATHLETICS HAD disbanded, but the American Association claimed all the players of that club with a couple of exceptions. Though an oversight, the names of Bierbauer and Harry Stovey wee not placed on the list of players claimed, whereupon the Pittsburgh Nationals grabbed Bierbauer and the Boston Nationals took Stovey. When the A. A. protested and claimed first right to tie two players, the matter was submitted to a board of arbitration, which upheld the action of the Pittsburgh and Boston clubs. Withdrawing immediately from the National agreement and starting another war that lasted a year, the Association denounced tie signing of Bierbauer by Pittsburgh as "piratical." The local club was at once dubbed the Pirates, and the name has stuck ever since.

ADDING A NEW feature to the current flock of "all" teams in football, in all-Slovak eleven of star college players has been selected that probably could hold its own with any of them. The backfield is made up of Vidal, of Army, quarterback; Perina, of Penn, and Lukats, of Notre Dame, halfbacks; Banas, of Notre Dame, fullback.

Seven different colleges are represented in the seven places in the line. The ends are Skladany, of Pitt, and Petosky, of Michigan; the tackles are Slavik, of Santa Clara, and Husar, of Purdue; the guards are Pivarnik, of Notre Dame, and Kabat, of Wisconsin, and the center is Gracey, of Vanderbilt.

A PITTSBURGHER RECOGNIZES an old schoolmate in the present director of athletics at the University of Arizona, who has been a big factor in having traveling football teams stop at Tucson for workouts, and who will endeavor to make things pleasant for the Pitt Panthers during their stay of 10 days.

Dave Kerr

"I was surprised and delighted," writes S. C. Stebbins, "to find the name of a former high school classmate mentioned in The Sun-Telegraph—none other than Fritz McKale, director of athletics at the University of Arizona We used to attend Lansing (Mich.) High School together, and Fritz was one of the most popular boys in the school."

DAVE KERR, former professional basketball star and one of the best posted men in the country on the floor game, during a Pittsburgh visit reported that pro basketball in the East is represented by two circuits in the absence of the American League, which will not function this season. The Metropolitan League, located principally in the New York ad Jersey sectors, is following the American League rules and idas, while the Eastern loop, with teams in Eastern Pennsylvania and Western New York, is stringing along with the time-honored standard National code, or two-hand dribble.

CHAMPION SETS TOURNEY HIGH RUN MARK

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—With Ralph Greenleaf again perched on the champion's throne the national pocket billiard championship reached its final stage today. The only remaining question was whether Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland, a former titleholder who wasn't eliminated from the race for this year's crown until last night, would take second place all alone, or would enter a three-way tie with Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia, and Jimmy Caras, of Wilmington, Del.

The concluding match of the tournament tonight sends Rudolph against Greenleaf in what might have been a battle for the championship but for the skill of Ponzi.

PONZI STOPS RUDOLPH

The chubby Philadelphian outlasted Rudolph on a duel of safeties and scratches last night and finally defeated him, 125 to 78, in 28 innings to clinch the title for Greenleaf. The defending champion won his eighth straight triumph in the afternoon match, turning back Pasquale Natalie, of Chicago, 125 to 57, in 18 innings, and finished up his quest for his eleventh title with the tournament record run of 106.

The standings:

Player.	Won.	Lost.	HR.	BO.
Greenleaf	8	0	106	7
Rudolph	6	2	97	8
Caras	6	3	65	11
Ponzi	6	3	73	4
Natalie	5	4	57	12

FINAL GRUBER RITES HELD

The last chapter in the upright life of John H. Gruber was petitioned and chanted in prayer at his parish church this morning. Pittsburgh's dean of sports writers, the Pittsburgh Pirates' official scorer for 40 years, and a famous authority on the subject of sports, was laid to rest in the North Side Catholic Cemetery after a requiem high mass had been sung over his body in St. Athanasius' Church, West View.

The Rev. Father August A. Vogt, pastor of St. Anthanasius' Church and the spiritual adviser of the veteran journalist for many years, was celebrant of the requiem high mass. Rev. Vogt was assisted by the Rev. Father August H. Schoppol, deacon, and the Rev. Father Joseph M. Ganter, sub-deacon.

John's widow, his children and the other members of his immediate family occupied the front seats of the church. A boys' choir, made up of the grade school students of St. Athanasius' School, chanted the requiem responses and added an impressive note to the solemn occasion. Friends of the family, including men who worked with the departed writer, also were in the place of worship.

John's pallbearers, men of the same profession which he followed, were as follows: Edward F. Balinger, James J. Long, Charls J. Doyle, John L. Hernon, Havey J. Boyle and Fred S. Werterbach, all members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, of which the departed writer was a charter member.

The same three priests who officiated at the services in the church also were at the grave to perform the burial rites.

NEW POSITION FOR TILDEN

Big Bill Tilden, for years the dominating figure in world tennis, and the first of the big names in the sport to go in for professional exhibitions, has taken a new job. According to word received today by P. U. Bouterse, manager of the local store of the organization, Tilden has joined Sears, Roebuck & Co., as consultant in the designing and manufacture of tennis equipment.

Tilden's contract is for five years and also calls for him to make personal appearances in the company's stores in various cities to give talks on tennis and advise young players.

Commission Asked To Vacate Title

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—James J. Johnston, boxing director at Madison Square Garden, announced today he would ask the New York State Athletic Commission to vacate Jackie Fields' welterweight championship here unless Fields signs to meet Jimmy McLarnin by February 1. Johnston plans an elimination tournament, the winner to meet McLarnin.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE WIZARD OF WICHITA—For eight years Lloyd A. Calkins, of Wichita, Kan., has not missed a day in his office at 100 South Topeka street, although he is hopelessly paralyzed and unable to even lift an arm. By bracing his right arm, he is barely able to wield a pen, so he operates his business by telephone, using a specially constructed apparatus to hold the receiver to his ear. Calkins' dauntless spirit is best exemplified by his own maxim that "it is up to each one to make the best of his situation, and where there is a will there is a way."

TOMORROW—THE MIRACULOUS THORN.

A'S PILOT 70 TOMORROW

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Here's how—and why—Connie Mack, Philadelphia Athletics' manager, who will be 70 tomorrow, keeps active:

"I sleep nine hours and often lie down and relax a half hour before a game.

"I exercise moderately, chiefly playing golf.

"I don't worry, especially about my age."

Ready to observe his arrival at the three-score-and-ten mark, Connie sees only bright spots ahead for baseball, and himself, and thinks he has a pretty good chance of winning his tenth pennant in 1933.

Incurably optimistic, even after 50 years of unparalleled ups and downs on baseball's ladder, the oldest active man in the national pastime said, in effect, today:

"Don't sell baseball short; it's getting bigger and bigger and better and better."

"I think we are coming into the clear, not only in baseball, but in other lines of business. I see the light ahead."

BABE DIDRIKSON TURNS PRO

BEAUMONT, Tex., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, 19-year-old Olympic star suspended by the Amateur Athletic Union 10 days ago because of the appearance of her name and picture in a motor car advertisement, announced last night she had turned professional.

Arriving at her home here from Dallas, Miss Didrikson said she had accepted several offers to play for pay.

She said matrimony was not under consideration, "at least for the present."

Miss Didrikson wired L. De Benedetti, secretary of the Southern A. A., U., at New Orleans, telling him of her plans. She said:

"It is true that I have resigned my position in Dallas and that I am considering the acceptance of not one but several of the numerous offers that have been made to me.

"The action of the Southern A. A. U. in disqualifying me for further participation in amateur athletics—athletics being the thing I am most interested in and care for most—virtually made this decision for me. Several leading sports writers, friends made at the Olympic games, have advised me that the A. A. U. would have to reverse their decision eventually, but I have never played a waiting game. The A. A. U. has simply been too slow.

"So I bid adieu, for the time being at least, to amatur sports and athletics with no feeling of animosity and with no sense of grievance against anybody—not even the A. A. U., even if the facts already clearly indicate the contrary. I suppose the A. A. U. is convinced that it is right, and it is entitled to its opinion."

A. A. U. HEAD SILENT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Lawrence Di Benedetto, registration chairman of the Southern A. A. U., today declined to comment upon the decision of Mildred (Babe Didrikson to become a professional athlete. He indicated, however, he might have an announcement to make later in the day.

President's Job Proves Jinx To Coaches

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Unless the members of the Football Coaches' Association are strong believers in coincidence they may have some trouble finding one of their number hardy enough to accept the presidency for 1933.

"Beware the Coaches' Association offering you the presidency if you want to hold your present job" is the slogan of several would-be victims, pointing to the record, which shows that no fewer than five presidents lost their coaching jobs while holding that office.

The list includes William (Bill) Roper, former Princeton coach; Hugo Bezdek, former Penn State coach; Dr. John Wilce, of Ohio State; John F. (Chick) Meehan, then of New York University, and Dr. Marvin (Mal) Stevens, the incumbent who has just resigned at Yale.

Geneva Defeated By Rider Quintet

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 22.—Geneva College's varsity basketballers meet John Marshall College tonight in the final game of their annual Eastern trip, hoping to land a victory and a 50-50 break for the trip.

The Covenanters dropped their second game in a row here last night, losing to the Rider College tossers, 40 to 31. The shooting of Bousenberry and Buck Russo was too accurate for the Covenanters. Beitsch, freshman center, led Geneva's scoring with seven points. Rider led by 31 to 18 at the half. The lineup:

GILBERT AFTER WIN RECORD

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 22.—Jockey Johnny Gilbert not only appears certain to give Hank Mills a right merry facing in their duel for premier riding honors for 1932, but the Pittsburg, Kan., jockey has become the first American rider to bring home 200 winners in a season since 1927.

Yesterday, Gilbert scored a triple here at Jefferson Park, and a remarkable exhibition of riding that put his mounts in the money in six of the seven races.

Gilbert left his rival farther behind as he increased his year's total to 201 winners and his lead over Mills to seven. The Colorado youngster won two events, but he couldn't keep up with Gilbert, who, in addition to his triple, brought three mounts home in third place.

Skate Season Opens At Garden Tonight

Duquesne Garden will be thrown open for the 1932-33 ice-skating season at 8 o'clock tonight. Hereafter skating sessions will be held at 2 o'clock each afternoon and 8 o'clock each night, Sunday excepted. As heretofore, a special session for children will be billed at 10 o'clock each Saturday morning.

The Garden, recently taken over by the Harris Enterprises, Inc., has been completely renovated and redecorated.

Bobby McLean and Ben Osickey, internationally renowned skaters, will appear at the Garden for a series of races, beginning next Monday night. They will compete each night next week, and will wind up their stay here Saturday.

CHESS MATCH CARDED

The University of Pittsburgh chess team will engage the Y. M. H. A. players in a journey tomorrow night at 640 Maryland avenue. Play will begin at 8 o'clock. This will be the last local meet for the Pitt team before traveling to New York to play in the intercollegiate championships, December 27 to 30.

PANTHERS MAY MOVE ON TO CALIFORNIA

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 22.—Their plans for a long, hard workout wrecked by the first heavy snowfall to blanket Tucson in the last 12 years (according to the local boys), Coach Jock Sutherland and his Pitt football squad today were contemplating quitting this city of alleged fine weather conditions for California.

When the boys rolled into this city last night and established headquarters at the El Conquastador Hotel, they were prepared to remain here until December 31. The heavy snow, however, forced Coach Sutherland to cancel the scrimmage scheduled for this morning, and to substitute limbering up exercises and an indifferent signal practice on an extremely slushy field in the afternoon.

TROJAN PLAYS STUDIED

Following the unsatisfactory drill, the Panthers were taken to a local movie theater, where action pictures of the University of Southern California-Notre Dame game were shown and studied. Southern California, incidentally, is to be the Pitt foe in the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, Cal., on January 2.

The local weather man has promised sunshine for tomrrow. In the event the prediction of the weather man proves wrong, the Panthers probably will spend no more time here, but will move on to the outskirts of Pasadena, where Jock proposes to establish a "hideaway" training camp.

The Pitt party appears to be "jinxed." The Panthers came here from Dallas, where they ran into a snowfall such as that city seldom has known.

INDIANS WATCH PLAYERS

The Indian declined to comment upon the apparent silliness of Bill Kern directing his charges through a brisk session of leap frog but several other loungers were more free, and only the fact that the train started to pull out, prevented a good argument between the critics and Capt. Paul Reider.

Sutherland expects to hold but one drill a day, but whether this will come in the morning or afternoon has not been decided. Golf and tennis are expected to occupy the athletes' spare moments, and in all probability bus trips to nearby points of interest will be taken.

There is little likelihood of the Panthers holding anything but dummy scrimmages.

The entire team, with the exception of Capt. Reider, is in excellent shape. Reider injured a leg in the Carnegie Tech game and has been in poor condition since. Joe Tormey, center, nursing a cold when he left the East, has fully recovered.

Sutherland said the workouts here would be strictly secret after today. Jock added:

"I don't want any California newspapermen snooping around and finding out what we have."

Today the players will witness a play-by-play motion picture of the Notre Dame-Southern California game at a Tucson theater. Informed that the film would be rerun as many times as he liked, Sutherland smiled.

JONES PLANS ATTACK

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Either Coach Howard Jones is temporarily satisfied with his Southern California team's defense in preparation for the Pittsburgh game January 2 or he has run out of ideas on what the Panthers might spring in the Rose Bowl classic.

Troy's head man gave defensive work almost no attention in yesterday's practice session, but instead concentrated on improvement of his running attack. A hard dummy scrimmage was the order of the workout.

By comparison, the 1932 Trojans have lacked the power of the aggregations of the two previous years, although Coach Jones has been inclined to believe they have proved themselves as a smarter eleven than the teams of the past.

Yesterday's practice brought the total hours put in on grid chores to somewhat over 200 with Dr. Walter B. Fieseler, squad physician, on hand to keep check on the condition of the players.

SQUAD IN TRIM

Except for a few minor hurts, the squad of 37 has been in good shape since before the Notre Dame game, with no traces of influenza, bad ankles or knees.

Bob Erskine has had a sore rib since the encounter with the Ramblers, but was an active participant in the workout.

HERB JAMES DIES

Herb James, former minor league and sandlot catcher, died yesterday at his home, 4052 Vinceton street, West View, a victim of pneumonia. For many years James was the outstanding sandlot catcher of this district. James played for the Bellevue club and several seasons as a minor leaguer.

HACK WILSON ILL

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 22—(AP.)—Hack Wilson, outfielder for the Brooklyn baseball team, is confined to his home here by order of his physician, who said the baseball player's continued cold threatened to develop into influenza. Wilson has been indisposed for several days.

FIGHT RESULTS

MT. LEBANON BOOTERS TO TEST LAWRENCEVILLE TEAM

FIREMEN MAY UPSET STRIP ELEVEN

By TOM BIRKS

Headed by the Mt. Lebanon-Lawrenceville battle scheduled for Leslie Park, four interesting games are booked in the Central District Soccer League Saturday afternoon.

The Firemen will provide one hurdle the Strip booters must overcome if they wish to win the Central circuit flag, and this is the most formidable one the Lawrenceville team has to face in the homestretch.

Many fans felt that Mt. Lebanon would win the league honors, but suspensions handed out by the governing body early in the season hurt the team's chances.

Saturday also finds the German Sport Club traveling to Swissvale to clash with Westinghouse, but since Lawrenceville defeated the Sport Club last Saturday, some of the edge has been taken off this contest.

Clan Douglas goes to McKeesport, and the Clansmen probably will come home with the bacon. The fourth game finds Union Switch, defending champion, making the trip to Ambridge.

With the American-born players clashing with the foreign players at South Park on Monday, all of the games in the Keystone League Sunday have been called off.

The only games scheduled on Sunday will be Panhandle loop affairs. However, the fans will await Monday's classic for their holiday entertainment. The convention fund of the local governing body will benefit from the game, and fans should see a great battle. The foreign-born players hope to avenge that defeat of last season.

The J. J. Doyles and Broadway Mounts, two of the four claimants of the Lightweight Conference football championship, will attempt to clarify the present muddled situation by clashing at Greenlee Field Monday afternoon. The victors will claim the title unless challenged by either or both of the other title contenders, provided they do not meet in an elimination game.

The Rox Rangers and the J. J. Veronas are other teams having a claim in for the crown.

MEEHAN BACK AT MANHATTAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—John F. (Chick) Meehan, who said he was through with "big time" football forever when he resigned as head coach at New York University last year, has been re-appointed general athletic supervisor and head football coach at Manhattan College for another year.

Announcement of his retention at the Catholic College was made by Brother Anselm, athletic director yesterday, to quiet rumors that Meehan was considering other offers. He had been mentioned as a possible successor of Maj. Frank L. Cavanaugh at Fordham.

Phelan to Confer On Contract Today

SEATTLE, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Coach Phelan is "entirely satisfied" with the salary offered him to remain as University of Washington football coach for the next three years, but has declined to sign a contract because of his dissatisfaction with the handling of athletic affairs.

Planning to take a train for the East last night, at the last moment he cancelled his reservation. He will renew his discussion with university officials today.

His present three-year contract will expire next June. The new contract was unofficially reported to call for a $10,000 salary.

Allegheny Grid Card Announced

The season will get under way with the Edinboro game, September 30, and close with the Bethany game, November 18. The card follows:

September 30—Edinboro, away; October 7—Springfield, home; October 14—open; October 21—Dickinson, away; October 28—Marietta, home (homecoming); November 4—Oberlin, away; November 11—Thiel, home; November 18—Bethany, home.

Southworth Signs As Giant Coach

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Billy Southworth, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, and the Cardinal farms at Rochester and Columbus, has signed on as coach with the New York Giants for the 1933 season.

Tom Clark, former major league catcher, also has signed as coach for another year. Southworth, former Giant outfielder,

GENE TUNNEY TELLS STORY OF LIFE

Future champion discovers worrying before fight is foolish—also that keeping calm is important factor in fight

By GENE TUNNEY

Retired Heavyweight Champion

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

Gene Tunney

While I had never seen Whitey Allen, everybody told me I must be careful of his right hand, it was terribly dangerous. I began thinking of this fellow's terrific right-hand punch and fretting about it. It was considerably magnified in my imagination, I know. I worried about this, which seems one of the most important matches of my career, than I ever worried before or since.

New Years Day being one of the holy days of the Catholic Church, I went to hear mass. During the services, instead of concentrating on the sacrifice of the mass, my imagination had me visualizing myself prone on the canvas after having been hit by Whitey Allen's right-hand punch. I could not obliterate this mental picture. It stayed with me all morning and up to the time I left home to go to the club.

Eddie O'Brien called to pick me up and accompany me to the fight. I asked him to take my bag and please go ahead—I would follow. Eddie looked at me in bewilderment, but followed my wishes without questioning. I wanted to be alone awhile to try to figure out why I was worrying. Though I was able to overcome most of the fear during the hour's ride to the club in Bayonne, I still went into the ring with a very healthy respect for Mr. Allen's right hand.

WHIPS WHITEY ALLEN

This was new to me. In the A. E. F. matches we always walked to the center of the ring with our hands extended in the gesture of a shake.

I left my corner rather cautiously, and, as soon as I got within hitting distance, Allen threw a furious straight right at my jaw. Seeing it come, I dropped my head under it and at the same time whipped up a short left uppercut to his midriff. Then I understood Moore's strategy. Moore realized I was young, inexperienced and used to the Army regulations. He believed his plan of having Allen rush out and throw all his weight into his best punch would catch me unaware and probably knock me out.

EXPERIENCE VALUABLE

He came out for the second round with a rush, intent on the kill. He feinted this time with the straight right, and, as I started to drop my head, he turned it into a right uppercut. I saw his plan and stepped back. As his right hand swished up toward the lights over the ring, I countered with my own right, the first I had let go during the match. He sprawled on the canvas. I realized that the instruction Moore had given him when he went back to his corner after missing all these long straight rights was to feint with the straight right, and, as I ducked, to switch it into an uppercut and tear my head off. A cog slipped. My head was not there. Allen was counted out.

The experience I got from the incidents leading up to the Allen fight and the fight itself was invaluable. I made the observation then that the fight that caused me the most worry of any up to that point of my career was the one that turned out to be the easiest. I observed that worrying before a match was silly. Aside from the devitalizing effect that worry has on the mind and body, which should be sufficient reason to avoid it, it is a stupid waste of time.

QUIT WORRYING

I decided for the future that no matter how uncertain the outcome of a match might seem I would shut the doors of the mind to the possibility of defeat. This process of mental training I started the moment Whitey Allen was counted out. It took considerable application and cocentration to develop mental discipline to the stage that enabled me to go into the ring smiling and free from worry or fear against Jack Dempsey for the world heavyweight championship at the Sesquicentennial celebration in Philadelphia six years later.

Following the Allen match, I became somewhat of an attraction around New York, and, during the spring and summer of 1920, I had nine contests, all of which I won by the knockout route. The most important from a professional point of view was the knockout of Al Roberts in eight rounds in the Newark armory on February 2.

It is interesting to note here that one of these matches which, in the records, seems of the least importance, was probably one of the greatest performances of my career. It was a return match with my old A. E. F. opponent, K. O. Sullivan, at the Newark Armory.

HURT BY SULLIVAN

I have mentioned my fight with K. O. Sullivan in the A. E. F. tournament in an earlier chapter. I would like to recall to the reader's mind what I said, as to the proper way in my opinion to fight a southpaw. When the fight started, I followed that plan of trying to bring Sullivan's left hand out. I gave him several feints. He backed across the ring without responding until he reached a corner. The lights above the ring were really very poor. This is not offered as an alibi for being hit. At any rate, when Sullivan was backed against the ropes and could retreat no farther, he unleashed a terrific left swing—just the thing I had been feinting him to start.

Waiting for it, I failed to see it. It struck me square on the right point of the chin. It brushed off a half-inch of skin and beard. It knocked me completely around and hurled me against the ropes. I was terribly dazed. It was one of the hardest blows I had received up to that time.

WINS BY KNOCKOUT

Sullivan, realizing my condition, threw another wild swinging left, which I half blocked with my glove and cheek bone. We clinched. Slim Brennan, the referee, broke us. When we broke I was still against the ropes. Sullivan started another wild swing. I pulled outside of it. We clinched again. Brennan broke us. I was still dazed, but realized that I must get away from the ropes. I slowly maneuvered out toward the center of the ring. Unguardedly, Sullivan followed. Again the left hand was swung with violent effort. This time, instead of pulling outside, I slipped inside and let it whiz around the back of my neck. We clinched for a moment. My head was perfectly clear when Brennan stepped between us.

Sullivan, discovering that he was losing his "kill," became

VANITIES SEEK THIRD WIN TONIGHT

The Goldenson Vanities will be out to score their third straight victory at the South Side Market House tonight when they clash with the Struthers Boosters, of Struthers, O.

The Y. M. H. A. basketeers will present one of the best attractions of the season at the Y. M. H. A. tonight when the Favorite Knits, of Cleveland, are met. The Y. M. H. A. "B" team will clash with Etna Alumni in the preliminary.

In games last night, the J. J. Rooneys staged a second-half rally to defeat the Goslins in a West Penn League game, 39 to 34. Harden, former Aliquippa High School star, led in the scoring for the victors with 10 points. Lou Mertvosh was high scorer for the game with 11.

The Frank Ferris five won over Coraopolis, 40 to 35; Piet Pals upset the Park Club, 27 to 25; Bidwell downed Squirrel Hill, 29 to 14; Kingsley House whipped the Gahrings, 54 to 53; the North Siders upset Wilmerding Y., 48 to 40, and St. Michaels defeated St. Joseph, 36 to 34.

ARENA FIGHTS FOR ALABAMA KID BOUT

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor

Now what?

Nothing very much except that the Alabama Kid, Negro middleweight, of Dover, O., who was just another fistic nonentity insofar as Pittsburgh was concerned until he biffed Jimmy Belmont on the whiskers last week and won by a technical knockout in the sixth round at Dover, today finds himself a bone of contention between the two local fight clubs.

Motor Square Garden announced the Alabama Kid would meet Belmont in an eight-round semi-final return bout on its Christmas afternoon card, with Gorilla Jones and Tommy Freeman in the top spot.

RAYMOND TO PROTEST

When Law Raymond, the Arena matchmaker, read this, he hissed through his tooth and half, and oh-hoed:

"Oh, ho! So 'tis so, and things have come to this? Well, now, how about that little arrangement whereby the Alabama Kid fights the same Jimmy Belmont for me, come Friday night of next week? How about it, huh?"

He's going to ask the Boxing Commission about it this very day. And the Alabama Kid either will fight Jimmy Belmont at the Garden or he'll fight him at the Arena. Oh, if he gets himself involved in too many contracts, he won't fight here at all.

ARENA CARD COMPLETE

Everything is set for the Arena's show tomorrow night. Johnny (K. O.) Roberts will get in from Huntington, W. Va., today to sub for Dave Shade against Frankie Goosby in the 10-round windup, and, at 165 pounds, he should be in much better condition than the night he beat Sunny Jim McVey in his local debut. Roberts fights 'em from welterweights up to and including heavyweights. His manager, Bunny Buntach, says he can make even less than 160 pounds, but at 165 you have to feed him raw meat.

Charley Baxter boxes Eddie Hebner in the eight-round semi-final. Eddie Zivic and Jackie Coogan are in the second bout, and Johnny Durso and George Schlee in the opener, a return engagement.

Between Rounds

Local Pitt Fans Charter Special Car

A few reservations still remain for local football enthusiasts interested in making the trip to Pasadena to see the Pitt Panthers meet the University of South California Trojans in the Rose Bowl battle on January 2.

The Pitt Special is scheduled to leave Pittsburgh on Monday, December 26, at 11:35 p. m., and will arrive at Pasadena on December 30.

The return trip will be made with the Pitt squad, leaving Pasadena on January 4 and arriving in Pittsburgh on January 8. A day's stopover will be made at the Grand Canyon in Colorado.

Reservation may be made by calling Dr. W. D. McClelland, at Hemlock 0466.

Vangs, Artillery To Clash Saturday

The Vangs will battle the 176th Field Artillery riders in a Pittsburgh Polo League indoor battle in the Hunt Armory Saturday night, the winner to clamber out of last place in the league standing for Christmas.

The Vangs will play minus the services of two stars, George Vang and Howard Adams. Lieut. Clay, former West Point star, will ride in place of Vang, with Kline in Adams' position.

LOCAL COLLEGE FLOOR SQUADS MARK TIME

By JESS CARVER

The college basketballers in these parts are doing some swell marking of time as the well-known holiday season, with its Santa Claus, Christmas neckties, Christmas socks, New Years Day hangovers and Christmas bills rolls around. If it were not for Davis-Elkins and Geneva, both engaged in road trips, one hardly would know such a thing as basketball existed.

Considering the rigors of the jaunt, the Elkins Scarlet Hurricane has ben doing a pretty good job in the West. The Men of Henderson have won about as many game as they have lost, and in the contests in which they have been outpointed, they've made an issue of it all the way. Idle yesterday and today, the Hurricane returns to action against the University of Nevada tomorrow night at Reno, where Coach Henderson hopes his laddies will not be divorced from the form they've exhibited to date.

GENEVA BEATEN

Geneva hasfound the going exceedingly rough in the East. First St. Thomas dropped the Covenanters, and last night Rider College took 'em over. They can gain a 50-50 break for their four-game jaunt by winning tonight over John Marshall, if you count the game with the Windber independent team Monday night. Otherwise the best they'll be able to do will be one out of three against college opponents.

Meanwhile Coaches Davies Carlson and Iannum, of the local quintets at Duquesne, Pitt and Carnegie Tech, are not missing a trick in whipping their charges into condition for coming action. The Dukes till swing into action first, taking on Adrian here next Friday nigh, and the evening following Calson sends his Panthers back into action against Purdue.

Pitt's football party, at present quartered in Tucson, Ariz., prepping for the Rose Tourney game with Southen California, will be completed in a day or so when the ol' Panther himself prowls onto the scene. Earl Shipley, a senior in the Pitt dental school, the gent who rigs himself up in the Panther skin and goes through all that monkey business during the Pitt games, is en route to join the varsity squad. He'll show off in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

Fielding Averages Topple in the American League

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Fielding in the American League this year was pepped up a bit, the official records, published today, disclose. Three new fielding marks were set. A new team fielding record of .980, established by the Philadelphia Athletics, supplanted the mark held by the New York Yankees, which was .977. The Washington Senators also surpassed the old figure by fielding .979 collectively.

Max Bishop, the Athletics' second baseman, set up a mark of .988. He also held the previous record of .987. Bishop's teammate, Jimmy Dykes, since traded to the Chicago White Sox, set a new record for third basemen, with a new high of .980. Willie Kamm owned the previous record, which was .978.

Catcher Ray Hayworth, of the Detroit Tigers, handled 347 put-outs and 53 assists in 92 games before he made his first error of the season in the second game of August 29. The records:

STOCKS SLIDE UNDER FRESH SELLING

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The stock market ran into a fresh flurry of selling today, which depressed prices close to the lower resistance levels of the autumn trading range.

The list worked a little higher at the opening, but was soon unsettled by selling of the rails. Several issues in various groups were carried down 1 to 3 points. Selling abated somewhat by early afternoon, and there were fractional recoveries from the lowest.

Selling of the rails appeared to be of a special character, and was not accounted for by developments in the news. It was suggested in brokerage quarters that some of the selling may have been professional, inasmuch as the carrier issues have been hovering relatively closer to the lower resistance points of the autumn trading range than the industrials.

Such railroad news as has appeared in the past day or two has probably been more favorable than otherwise, including today's announcement of an extension for another nine months of the 10 per cent wage reduction which expires February 1.

Of course, several executives regarded this as inadequate. Some of the rail chiefs have been insisting that a further substantial wage reduction was essential to restoration of the railroads' credit standing. This week's carloadings statements of such roads as Pennsylvania and New York Central, have shown gains over the previous week, contrary to the usual seasonal trend.

Brokerage sentiment was mixed. Some had looked for a firmer market in response to the House's passage of the beer bill, and the railroad wage agreement, but the early stiffening of the list lasted only a few minutes. The bottling stocks ran into considerable profit taking, particularly Owens Illinois Glass. The action of the market in the past few days has tended to upset the plans of those speculators looking for a Christmas rally, although hopes were not entirely abandoned that a holiday upturn might yet be experienced.

TRADE BUYING AIDS COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Cotton futures opened steady, 1 higher to 1 lower with trading quiet and mostly in the form of near-month liquidation and on trade buying. January, 5.86; March, 6.00; May, 6.12; July, 6.22; October, 6.41.

There was a little selling through brokers with Liverpool and continental connections and offerings increased slightly after the call. Reactions in the stock market brought in some local selling or liquidation and by the end of the first half hour, January contracts were around 5.82c and May, 6.07c, or 4 to 5 points net lower.

Pre-holiday liquidation continued later in the morning, while there appeared to be a little more southern selling, and prices worked off to 5.75c for January and 6.00c for May, or about 10 to 11 points net lower. The market at midday was barely steady at these figures, although there was more trade buying on the decline.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 22.—Cotton, 1,000 bales, including 300 American. Spot in fair demand; prices 6 points lower. Quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 5.85; good middling, 5.55; strict middling, 5.30; middling, 5.15; strict low middling, 5.00; low middling, 4.85; strict good ordinary, 4.65; good ordinary, 4.35. Futures closed quiet, December, 4.87; January, 4.89; March, 4.92; May, 4.94; July, 4.95; October, 4.98.

GRAIN DECISION HITS BUFFALO

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The British decision that Canadian grain stored at United States ports and then sold to United Kingdom buyers cannot claim preferential treatment, strikes a blow to Buffalo as the greatest United States grain port.

Buffalo built its standing to a great extent through the storage during the winter months of millions of bushels of Canadian grain, which was shipped from Buffalo as a market was found for it.

The immediate effect of the ruling in London yesterday, however, was believed by grainmen here to have been discounted, as the ruling was not unexpected and much Canadian grain which normally would have been sent here was routed elsewhere or held at the head of the Great Lakes pending the decision on the test shipment.

DIVIDEND NEWS

N. Y. Title and Mortgage.

New York Title and Mortgage Company omitted the quarterly dividend due at this time. The last payment was 15 cents in September. Formerly the mortgage and real estate affiliate of the Bank of the Manhattan Company, the company was recently segregated and its shares distributed among the bank's stockholders.

Forbes Urges Dividends on Steel Shares

By B. C. FORBES

THE PREFERRED as well as the common shares of America's first billion-dollar corporation, United States Steel, have been declining disconcertingly. The reason? Wall street fears that the 7 per cent preferred dividend will be stopped next month.

Mr. Forbes

I WANT to plead with the very responsible financiers and industrialists constituting the directorate to avoid omitting the dividend, if humanly possible.

ALL AVAILABLE facts and figures indicate to the outsider that another quarterly payment could be made without jeopardizing the corporation.

America has been developed mainly through willingness of Americans to purchase stocks. Bonds, commonly speaking, can be sold only by going enterprises, by enterprises able to show a record of satisfactory earnings.

Risks are shouldered by buyers of shares, especially common shares. The Morgan-sponsored steel corporation has never once, in all its 31 years' history, passed or even reduced the 7 per cent paid on its preferred shares.

This dividend has been maintained at times when the corporation's surplus was very much smaller than it is today. It has been paid at times when the outlook for recovery was distinctly less encouraging than it is now.

It has been paid during years when the stock did not enjoy the high investment rating it has enjoyed during the last 15 years or more. It has been paid when the corporation had hundreds of millions of bonds outstanding, bonds which ranked, of course, ahead of the preferred stock.

JUDGE GARY, who headed the corporation for 26 years, repeatedly told me he was determined to build up so large a surplus that the common shares would constitute a thoroughly safe investment "for school teachers and people of that class."

But he trounced me once, when reduction of steel workers' wages was under consideration, for emphasizing the magnitude of the surplus and for drawing the conclusion that, consequently, the corporation was amply able to maintain wage rates.

SEVERAL READERS recently have cited the corporation's surplus as adequate reason for maintaining the preferred dividend. They apparently assume that the surplus figure represents hard cash. It doesn't. The surplus given in the latest balance sheet, at the end of last year, was $421,837,192.

But of this total only $75,000,000 consisted of cash and $69,000,000 of marketable securities, a total of $144,000,000. During the first nine months of this year the total deficit was half that amount.

I AM TOLD that the idea was voiced at the last dividend meeting, in October, when the full rate was declared, that, unless business distinctly improved, the payment would be entirely omitted next month.

So far-reaching, so serious, so discouraging would be the abolition of United States Steel preferred dividend be that the directors should go the limit to avoid inflicting such disaster upon the country.

It would blast faith in American stocks were the issue which constitutes virtually a first lien on the corporation to drop out of the investment class.

Judge Gary's dream of raising the common stock to a high investment level has, of course, been shattered. But the Steel preferred shares have long been regarded as a consrvative investment. Blast faith in it, and the faith of investors throughout this country would be gravely shaken.

IF THE directors do not feel warranted in paying the full 7 per cent quarterly disbursement, they should give most earnest consideration to paying a lower rate instead of paying nothing. Since the dividend is cumulative, dividend arrears would have to be paid later.

But many of those who own the shares, and have been taught to regard them as a thoroughly dependable investment, doubtless would be obliged to transfer their funds into income-bearing securities. And instead of obtaining $100 a share, they probably would receive only half that amount.

TOO MANY corporations and too many individuals in this country are acting on the theory that normal conditions will never, never return.

If common sense be exercised all round, there is no reason why normal conditions should not return. Nothing is more calculated to win back prosperity than the courageous exercise of faith rather than cowardly giving way to abject fear, to abject despair concerning the country's future.

THE U. S. STEEL Corporation's directors should be the last men in America to do anything which can possibly be avoided to aggravate fear and despair.

PITT'S VICTORY OVER RAMBLERS TOPS UPSETS

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

By GIB MARSH

When the game commissioners of the Keystone State compile the total kill of small game during the past season the bag of grouse will be surprisingly large. It is reported the hunters found grouse in generous numbers during November and the total kill was large in spite of the short shooting season of 12 days and the day's small bag limit of two birds. Those who invaded the interior wooded districts, where grouse were plentiful, killed their limit without much effort. It is gratifying to sportsmen that grouse are responding to the conservation methods now employed by the game commissioners.

During the recent deer hunting season, the hunters constantly routed grouse in bunches of from five to a dozen birds. They seemed abundant, and there is no doubt in the minds of the patrons of the grouse shooting sport that the present conservation plans, short shooting season and small day's bag limit are producing the results anticipated. It is felt these methods will harvest the same satisfactory results with ringneck pheasants and quail. The early reports indicate a heavy kill of ringneck pheasants during the recent season, even with the short 12-day shooting period. As ringneck pheasants respond to the same methods of production as domestic fowls, sportsmen may depend upon finding them plentiful in future seasons.

As usual, the kill of rabbits was large, according to reports, the total being several millions.

Indications favor a large kill of squirrels, while the total bag of waterfowl may be less than the average of past years. If the expected progress in the construction of the Pymatuning Dam is realized this spring, better waterfowl shooting may be experienced next fall.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Judging from the response to the Associated Press poll, 1932 was filled with one surprise after another for the nation's sports experts, but the biggest shock of all was Pittsburgh's 12-to-0 upset of Notre Dame at a time when the Ramblers were being widely hailed as another "wonder team."

The Panther conquest was voted the "surprise of the year" by 43 out of 142 responses to this feature of the second annual poll. Proof that the experts found it difficult all season to "dope" Notre Dame was revealed by the fact 15 other observers named the Ramblers' 21-0 victory over Army as the biggest upset. By the time Notre Dame got around to taking a beating from Southern California, the boys apparently were preserving an open mind on the outcome, for not a single vote was cast to include this result among the year's surprises.

CARR PROVIDES UPSET

Individually, the outstanding upsets of 1932 were credited to Bill Carr, who caused a series of tremors on the Pacific Coast in the summer by beating the great Ben Eastman in three record-smashing footraces. The element of surprise, of course, diminished after Carr's first victory at 440 yards in the intercollegiate championships, but the University of Pennsylvania star received 20 votes altogether and clinched second place in the balloting.

The New York Yankees, already acclaimed as the year's outstanding team in any sport, sprung the biggest baseball upset by taking four straight from the Chicago Cubs in the world series.

On the basis of the voting, the biggest Olympic surprises were Eddie Tolan's "double" in the sprints and the triumph of the Japanese men's swimming team over the United States.

VINES GETS VOTES

Ellsworth Vines' defeat of Henri Cochet in United States tennis final, 7.

One vote each for the following: Cubs' collapse in world series; resignation of John McGraw as manager of the Giants after 40 years; failure of St. Louis Cardinals to finish in first division; play of Arnold Herber for Green Bay Packers in pro football; elimination of Gene Venske and defeat of Frank Wykoff in Olympic trials; Ralph Hill's performance in nearly winning Olympic 5,000-meter race; Olin Dutra's finish, 88-85, in Metropolitan Open golf; Gene Sarazen's comeback in the last two rounds of United States Open golf; downfall of New York Giants; victory of Kerry Patch in Belmont Futurity; Army's 46-0 defeat of Harvard in football; Virginia, Van Wie's 310 and 8 victory over Glenna Collett Vare for national women's golf championship; Bates' scoreless tie with Yale; partial collapse of Philadelphia Athletics; Auburn's rise in Southern Conference football ranks.

Tunney Tells Life Story

cool and cautious. He realized he must shorten his swings. Putting both hands before his face, he shuffled in until he got within hitting distance. I was waiting. As he pulled his left hand down from his face to swing it at my jaw, I shot out from my chest a straight right hand that did not travel more than nine inches. It landed right between his eyes. It turned him completely around. With his back toward me, he dived head-first into the canvas. There he lay face down until he was carried to his corner, which was just one minute and a half after the contest had started.

LEARNS TO KEEP CALM

It is pertinent to remark here that one omniscient expert who reported the fight said:

This experience proved the necessity of always remaining calm, no matter what the crisis. By remaining calm and biding my time, sure defeat was turned into victory. It also proved to me that when in danger I was able of hitting hardest. This was later demonstrated in the seventh round of the Dempsey fight in Chicago, which I will describe in detail later.

How Tunney became a lumberjack to rebuild his hands that were badly hurt in a bout with Leo Houck and later worked as a laborer in Maine before boxing in a poor preliminary to the Dempsey-Carpentier fight in 1921, will be described by Gene tomorrow.

Doesn't Fear Nats, Yankee Pilot Says

BUFFALO, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—"I don't see where the Senators have improved themselves so much as to be really dangerous contenders for the pennant."

This was Joe McCarthy's reaction today to the recent Washington trades with St. Louis and Detroit. He made the statement upon his arrival home from a hunting trip, adding, with characteristic caution, that late September was the best time to decide whether a trade was beneficial or otherwise.

MARY FAITH

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XIII.

"I'll telephone Dr. Pomeroy tonight and ask him if he'll meet us in the chapel at 11 o'clock," his voice ran on, "And I'll ask the Maldons to come down. We're supposed to have a couple of witnesses, aren't we?"

Dr. Pomeroy was the rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, where she and Kim had always planned to be married. But who were the Maldons? She had never heard Kim mention them.

"Who are the Maldons, Kim?" she asked.

He thought for a minute or two.

"Why, I guess you haven't met them," he said at last. "I haven't known them so very long, myself, but they're pals of mine. Jack works down at our place. He and Claire have been married only two or three months. You'll like Claire, Mary Faith. She's a grand person."

Mary Faith stirred in his arms.

"I'd like to ask Jean Bartlett to the wedding. She's my best friend"—she was beginning when he stopped her.

"No. We're not going to have any of your friend Nesbit's office help around," he said firmly. "You're through with all that crowd, so forget them. I'm not going to tell even my mother about the wedding until it's all over . . . Now, let me tell you where I thought we'd spend our two weeks."

TO BORROW HOUSE

She settled back to listen.

"You remember that aunt of mine who lives down in Garrettsville, Mary Faith?"

"Aunt Ella Goad, you mean?" Mary Faith remembered Aunt Ella Goad very well. Having once seen Aunt Ella, you could never forget her.

She was a plump and pleasant person with a passion for moving pictures, library books, armchairs, and coffee and cake between meals. Mary Faith had always liked her, and she said so now.

"Well, she's come up to town to stay with my mother over the holidays," said Kim, "and I'm going to ask her to lend us her house down in Garrettsville for the next two weeks."

"Kim! Do you think she'll let us have it?" Mary Faith's eyes shone in the darkness. "Won't it be lovely if she does!—I can cook all the things you like to eat, and get your bath ready in the mornings and put the collar buttons in your shirt!—And you can build the fires and shovel the snow off the walks so that I can get out of the yard when I want to go to market——"

"I'll drive you there in the car so that you won't get your cute feet all cold and wet," Kim said. "I'm going to take doggone good care of my wife."

Synopsis

Mary Faith and Kimberley Farrell have been engaged for some time. Kim's attitude changes brusquely when his mother objects. The latter treats Mary Faith coldly and breaks the engagement. Heartbroken, Mary Faith returns to her office and holds her job. Mark Nesbit, her employer, taken ill, has Mary Faith driven to his country home daily for two weeks. He tells her of his love for her. She halts him, saying she will never love anyone as she did Kim. While in a jewelry store with Mark, selecting a Christmas ring for his sister, Mary Faith meets Kim with a girl. Next morning Kim calls at Mary Faith's boarding house. He assures her of his love and proposes immediate marriage. Mary Faith melts in his arms.

Now Go On

"All right, you take care of me then."

"I'm going to," Kim said, and he said it gravely as if he were making himself a solemn promise.

Mr. McClintock was playing checkers with Allie Brock when Mary Faith went back into the house an hour later. He sat facing the hall door and he saw her as she started up the stairs.

She turned her head and smiled at him. And he looked at her, blinking a little, as if he were looking at a sunrise.

Before she went to bed that night, Mary Faith washed her hair and "did" her nails. Then she packed two suitcases with things for her honeymoon and laid out her clothes for the next day. A hunter's-green suit trimmed with gray fox; a little green hat; pale gray stockings and slippers and handbag; a gray chiffon blouse.

It was 1 o'clock in the morning when she went to bed, and she was awake again at half past six. It was still dark, but the dawn wind blew in through the open windows and there was a line of silver in the sky above the housetops on the other side of River street.

SURPRISES LANDLADY

"My wedding day," she thought, taking a long, deep breath of it before she put down her windows. "This is the last time I'll ever get up in this room."

But there was no regret, no sadness, in the thought. She looked forward to her life with Kim with nothing but happiness in her heart.

The old house was like a tomb, as it always was on winter mornings, and she shivered as she ran down to the bathroom on the second floor. You had to get up at the crack of dawn if you wanted to take a morning bath at Mrs. Puckett's, for the "paying guests" all got up around 7 and fairly fought for the bathroom.

When Mary Faith, fresh as a flower, came out into the hall a half hour later, Mrs. Puckett, with her bath towel and a cake of pink soap in her hand, was waiting just outside the door.

"I hope you didn't use all the hot water, Mary Faith," she said. "What you up so early for?"

"I'm going down to the office to get all my things—and I want to get away from it before everybody arrives," Mary Faith answered. "Mrs. Puckett, I'm going to marry Kim Farrell this morning."

Mrs. Puckett stared at her from under her wrinkled eyelids for a long moment. Then she shook her head.

But when Mary Faith was halfway up the stairs she said something else.

"I hope you'll be happy," was what she said. "I hope you'll be happy. I pray for it, Mary Faith. . . . I certainly do."

The clock in Mark Nesbit's empty office was striking eight when Mary Faith walked into her own little room that morning.

She had brought her hat box—a round leather affair—with her and into it she packed the contents of her desk drawer. An oil-silk bag in which she kept her soap and nail-brush and tooth brush. Two clean face towels that belonged to Mrs. Puckett. A library book. A bank book and a check book. A dime savings bank. A pair of rubbers and a folding umbrella. A pasteboard box filled with old letters and receipts. A box of writing paper and correspondence cards.

"What do you think you're doing, Mary Faith?" His eyes seemed to take her in, point by point. The green hat, the expensive fur-trimmed suit, the gray slippers with their cut-steel buckles.

"I'm leaving," said Mary Faith.

"I'm leaving," said Mary Faith.

QUICKEST WAY TO KNOCK A COLD

Millions Say of This Proved Way You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system and you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. Results will surprise you. Costs only a few cents.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Today and tomorrow, even though the youngsters of Pittsburgh are still in school, it's a safe bet to say that not much readin', writin and 'rithmetic will be taught by the teachers or learned by the pupils.

No, sir! The most important thing right now in any youngster's mind is Christmas and what Santa is going to leave under the tree.

One youngster said:

"Gee, it's been a tough year for my Dad, and I wrote Santa a letter and told him all I wanted for Christmas was a job for my Daddy."

Every grownup who heard this youngster said a little prayer that Santa received his letter.

UNSELFISH LAD

Another little fellow who was talking to John Morin, Jr., manager of the Plaza Theater, said:

"I told Santa the other day that I would like him to bring me an electric train, a Boy Scout bugle, a Boy Scout flashlight, one of those big white dirigibles, a marble game, some candy and a doll."

John said:

"That's a lot of things to ask for. If you don't receive them all, what would you like best?"

The youngster thought about this for some time and finally said:

"Well, Mr. Morin, I'll take the doll."

This brought a laugh to Mr. Morin, and thinking that the youngster, being a boy and much too big to play with a doll, asked him why the doll.

He replied:

"My little sister has been sick in bed for a long time and I know that she would get a lot of joy with a doll to keep her company during the day when I'm at school, so I guess that if Santa brings me a doll I'll be perfectly satisfied."

PLAYS SANTA

Johnny sent the young man into the theater to watch the picture and went across the street and bought the youngster a doll for his sister, knowing that it would be impossible for Santa to grant the little fellow all his requests and knowing that the chances of the little fellow receiving the doll for his sister were very slim.

When the "kiddie" left the theater carrying a package almost as big as himself, he had promised Mr. Morin that he would hide it away and let his sister open it herself Christmas morning.

TO GET STOCKINGS

Now just a few words about the big Christmas parties which are to be held at the Junior Komic Club meetings Saturday. The doors of the theaters will open at their regular time and just as soon as all the youngsters have taken their seats the distribution of the stockings will begin.

Santa Claus will be there and will give out the stockings and each of the theaters will have a decorated and lighted tree on the stage. As Santa calls out the youngsters' names they will come to the stage and shake hands with Santa and he will wish each of them a Merry Christmas and present them with their stockings which have been filled by him with candy, nuts, fruit and toys.

In addition to all of the stockings being returned to the members, special Christmas shows will be presented at each of the theaters.

Manager Harry Thomas of the Schenley Theater, will spend Saturday morning delivering Christmas baskets, using the canned goods that he received from the members of the club at the special canned goods matinee which they attended a couple of weeks ago.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Belmar: Sylvia Abromovitz, Edward Salsgiver, Sidonia Kleinman, William Bradnick, Anna DeCocco, Anna Austerlitz.

Etna-Harris: Ralph Kessler.

Rowland: Dorthy Wood Donald Heath, Donald Candy, Pennington Croker, Ray Evans.

No More Blue Ribbons

The life of a household pet is certainly homelike in New York. He spends his time barking through bars at freight agents and lives and dies in Madison Square Garden.

They just closed a show for foyer turtles and living room macaws. There is a pet for every section of the home. A cricket in the fireplace, a Great Dane in the kitchenette and two chickens in every pot.

In October the garden was full of prize dogs with their ears clipped like table celery. In November the cats moved in on a popular wave of public opinion. This month it is more democratic. They have lions, camels and goldfish.

How would you like to have a brown bear, a ring-tailed chimpanzee and a jaguar loose in a small apartment? We would just as soon play contract bridge with a Chinese bandit in a bass drum.

Pretty soon the judges will have to decide just what constitutes a household pet. They're getting bigger and fiercer and they don't seem to realize that you can force political reforms by hunger strikes. They'll bite anything that moves and they'll scratch anything that stands still.

The only safe way to come home these days is to stand on the door mat and bang away with a double-barreled shotgun through the keyhole. When the growling stops you can enter.

The queerer the pet the more chance of its getting a blue ribbon. The judges will agree that it is the finest example of its species they have ever seen for the first time.

And the quicker they give it a blue ribbon the faster you will take it home again. They keep them in cages in pet shows. But at home they run around loose.

In the old days all we had were pug dogs and alley cats. Now, they organize expeditions to Africa to bring back animals whose eyes are bigger than their stomachs and whose stomachs are bigger than you.

It's competition that did it. Everybody wants a blue ribbon. We suggest postponing the 1933 pet shows and allowing the American home to resume its normal vegetarian dimensions.

"Postmaster General Brown will be the busiest Republican after March 4. His job will be to repair the broken down party machine, with the aid of thousands of ousted G. O. P. postmasters."—News item.

You needn't shed tears for Postmaster Brown
He appears to be out, but he isn't quite down,
He's not unemployed after March, '33,
His job is a large one; he hasta keep busy
Proving to voters how utterly dizzy
They were when they went to the polls, you'll remember,
He hasta sow seeds of deep discontent
With every new move of the new government—
To nip every bud of deep satisfaction
And get, if he can, a bitter reaction,
While thousands of outa-work postmasters help
They'll mutter and mumble a dirge as they wait
Through four long lean years—or possibly eight.

Visiting Judges Curbed

The Supreme Court Has Placed a Wise Check on What Has Become a Bad Practice.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court struck a needed blow at a bad practice yesterday when it ruled that Common Pleas Court Judges shall not serve in other districts unless they have disposed of all cases ready for disposal in their own court.

The practice of calling in visiting judges originated in creditable motives. But it has led to abuses.

The visiting judges receive $30 a day and traveling expenses in addition to the regular salaries paid them for their service in their home districts. This handsome emolument has made them eager to accept calls from other counties, and some of them, the Supreme Court ruling suggests, may have neglected their home work to go "visiting."

It has been charged that some of our local judges have taken advantage of the ease with which visiting judges can be procured to go on protracted vacations in the summer, and to recuperate slowly and pleasantly from illnesses.

It has also been convenient for the local judges to call in jurists from the outside to pass on cases such as election crimes in which the Allegheny County judges did not care to assume responsibility because of the possible effect on their own political fortunes. Most of the election fraud cases in Allegheny County which grew out of the elections last year were tried by out-of-town judges. They showed leniency to the crooks, but cannot be held to account by the Allegheny County voters because they will not come before the voters of this county for re-election.

In 13 months recently the state paid $29,332.39 for the services of visiting judges in Allegheny County. Judge William T. Darr, of Jefferson County, was on the bench of this county during parts of 11 months, and received $3,157.60 in addition to his $9,000 salary. Judge O. Clare Kent, of Crawford County, received $3,192.24 for work here, in addition to his home county pay. In all 30 visiting judges served in Allegheny County during that period.

The Supreme Court's ruling is to be hailed as heralding the abolition of the evils of the system.

The Bridge Toll Plan

New Spans May Properly Be Financed Thus, But No Charge Should Be Levied On Old Structures.

It is proposed to build a bridge over the Monongahela at Homestead and one over the Allegheny at Aspinwall through loans to be obtained from the Reconstruction Finance Corportion. Such loans are granted only for self-liquidating public works, and to make the bridges self-liquidating it is proposed to charge toll.

We had hoped that we were forever through with toll bridges in Allegheny County; but if the proposed spans are needed as badly as is asserted and they cannot be obtained in any other way without imposing an unbearable burden on the taxpayers, the toll plan is justifiable.

Far different, however, is the proposal sponsored by County Commissioner C. M. Barr that tolls shall be charged on existing bridges. The citizens authorized some of them with the understanding that they would be free. Many persons have bought property and built homes on that understanding. They have to use the bridges in going to and from their work, and if a charge of as little as five cents were to be imposed for driving an automobile across a bridge it would work a hardship.

A vigorous protest should be made to the County Commissioners against any toll on old bridges. The plan should be nipped in the bud.

An Unwise Proposal

The President's Recommendation to Reduce the Marine Corps Strength Should Be Rejected.

Manifold and mandatory are the reasons why Congress should unhesitatingly reject the budget recommendation of the retiring President to reduce the authorized strength of the Marine Corps to 13,600 men.

This reduction would require the elimination of 1,700 men and would reverse the established naval policy of the government which fixes the permanent strength of the Marine Corps as one-fifth of the enlisted strength of the Navy.

To subject the Marine Corps to a reduction at this time to 13,600 men would leave no units to carry out the primary mission of the corps as an auxiliary to the fleet.

And the units remaining, should Congress order this reduction, would not be large enough to provide for an expeditionary unit of any kind.

Congress wisely refused at the last session to reduce the strength of the Regular Army or the Navy and the reasons for this refusal apply with equal force to any further reduction in the strength of the Marine Corps.

To cut the Marine Corps by eliminating 1,700 men would increase unemployment when Congress ought to be creating new employment. It would weaken the national defense when Congress ought to be strengthening the national defense on land and sea and in the air.

As soon as the fiscal condition of the government will warrant, naval policy requires that Congress increase the enlisted strength of the Marine Corps to 16,000 men. Such a force is essential if the corps, in a national emergency, is to be prepared to expand, train and equip a force large enough to enable the Marines to perform their mission with the Navy.

In view of the fact that the new administration is pledged by the President-elect and by the platform upon which Gov. Roosevelt was elected President to provide and maintain an effective Navy, the leaders of the Democratic House should begin the fulfillment of this pledge at the present session by refusing to reduce the Marine Corps by a single man.

Metals Still Lead

Iron and Steel Are Ahead of All Other Pennsylvania Industries in the Value of the Output

In view of the cataclysm that business has experienced, the production report of Pennsylvania industries for last year, just issued by Secretary of Internal Affairs Philip H. Dewey, is of unusual interest.

Many of our iron and steel mills have been closed or have been operating at a low percentage of capacity; but it is cheering to learn that metals and metal products still lead all other industries in the value of the output. The metal trades last year did $1,546,987,800 worth of business in Pennsylvania, and, while that falls far short of the $2,701,954,800 figure of the year before, it is not by any means to be sneezed at.

The textile industry was second, with an output valued at $776,280,700; food products were third, with a value of $520,818,800, and mining was fourth, with an output valued at $466,216,100. Although they show sharp recessions, these figures continue impressive.

But the iron and steel industry is our greatest cause for pride.

Clothes—And Civilization

The Japanese, judging from all rotogravure pictures, appear to be discarding their picturesque, comfortable, graceful native costume for what they regard as our "more civilized" garb—the trousers, tailored coat and stiff hat.

* * *

* * *

Why do men always start any movement toward "higher civilization" or progress by changing their clothes? What has the outer garment to do with the spiritual or intellectual development of the human race?

The first thing a missionary wants to do for the higher education and salvation of the savage is to put him in a petticoat. THAT makes him "civilized" and turns him into an intelligent citizen.

* * *

Kemal Pasha's first step toward regenerating and reforming the warlike Turk was to ban the charming and uncomfortable fez from Turkey and put all his subjects in high silk hats and hard-boiled derbies. Modern trousers and cut-throat linen collars soon followed.

* * *

Just what IS the symbolism of trousers? And what is the charm of a derby hat, which resembles nothing so much as an inverted coffin? What softening and refining effect has a silk top-hat on a man's savage nature?

* * *

Why did King Amnullah risk his throne and lose it just for the privilege of wearing suspenders, socks that have to be hooked on with garters and a boiled shirt?

* * *

What is so "civilized" about modern European and American clothes? Modern MEN'S clothes, I mean.

* * *

Where is the "reason and the higher intelligence" in dressing in 47 pieces, instead of ONE garment?

* * *

Can you work out any logical clue to the significance of and reason for a garment like the waistcoat? I can't! Can you think of any part of the anatomy that it covers or adorns, which could not be covered by a coat and shirt?

* * *

No! Like the appendix, the tonsils and the two extra large legs on the rooster in the old joke, it was just put in "to make it difficult" for a man to dress, and difficult for you to look at him.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Gang intimidation, approaching open warfare among speakeasy restaurants, has the Tenderloin edgy. The underworld whispers that one of the leading entrepreneurs was ordered to withdraw from one highly successful cabaret, and to start a rival place up the street. He did.

The threat was sheathed in gangdom's ominous snapper: "If you don't, it will be just too bad!" The most ornate evening bazars are controlled by the big shots, one of whom operates from prison. To remain unmolested by raiders, one must swing with the mob. Or else—

Such tony spots cater solely to a class patronage. None of their guild is permitted at tables. So cleverly is the ownership camouflaged, managers often are surprised to learn, after raids, that they were working for guerrillas. Real owners spend time "putting in the fix" to stave off prosecutions.

Most speakeasy raids, as a wag puts it, are merely tilting gin-mills—a temporary closing. An engraved invitation to one, recently re-opening, voices, in a crude slug, prohibition contempt. In a corner, in heavy block letters and in significant quotation marks, is: "REFURNISHED."

* * *

The Grand Central's long oyster bar serves more of that specialty than any other place on the globe. During season, it disposes of 50 barrels a day. Humanity is woven in every shade at the oyster bar, from the shirt-sleeved freight handler to the professional plutocrat who inquires: "How are the bivalve mollusks today?" President Hoover has been a patron. So has Vincent Astor, who is fond of stews.

* * *

Living inland, the traditional red and green sign of the R meant oysters in square tins only at Hud Faudree's and Cooney Schreck's. To this day, oysters on the half shell do not mean as much as they did tinned, in our insular burg. An unsung philosopher once chronicled: "An oyster stew, a glass of light beer and a corncob pipe will keep eyes blue to any weather."

* * *

Aside from E. Berry Wall, no figure will be missed by Americans idling on Paris boulevards more than the late Boni de Castellane. He was passionately fond of Bostons, and invariably dropped around to see mine when I came to town. The last two years, I did not see him. He had been shunted to an invalid's chair alongside of which his Boston faithfully trotted. He spoke unaccented English and adored New York cooking. "France serves no better meal," he once told me, "than one I had at old Delmonico's."

A bad-mannered movie star, in a recent round of first night vacationing from Hollywood, does not know how nearly she came to being asked to leave a certain Saturday night premiere—at the request of the management. Her frenzy for exploiting an overriding ego—frisking through aisles, waving to imaginary friends and talking to neighbors during the play—so disrupted things, performers threatened bolt. A note had been written when the lady finally became conscious of surrounding frowns and subsided.

* * *

At this same premiere, an ill-timed stumble, sliding a Tyrolean Romeo down a papier mache mountain into a footlight gulley, marred what might have been an auspicious introduction for Francis Lederer, highly tom-tommed from European triumphs. Visitors to Berlin will remember him as Franz Lederer of the "Wunder Bar," three years ago.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I'm strong for the Younger Generation.

They make me mad enough, at times, to chew the gas range, what with their snootiness, their laziness, their callous selfishness and cockeyed conceit. And yet I believe they're the hope of the world. It we're to be saved at all, the kids will have to do it—for they alone have the courage to defy the Status Quo.

Yes, I know; we older ones have to foot the bills for their defiance. And they waste many a good dollar and raise Cain with our comfort. Which is possibly the best thing that could happen to us; for, between their Cain-raising and our bill-paying, things do get changed for the better.

What started this? Holmes M. Alexander, Princeton, 1928. Holmes doesn't admire our present world, and broadcasts the fact with plenty of enthusiasm through December "Scribner's." Three years ago he left college, an idealist, ready to lick his weight in wildcats. Now, with the wildcats still unlicked, he is a wiser and a madder young man. But he still believes that one certain thing will set this sad world right. And what is that? Listen:

"There is a message that ought to be passed on to the rising generation. It is this: that what the country needs is not their idealism but their skepticism. I do not qualify that term. I mean a jeering, leering, sneering skepticism, and enough of it to dilute somewhat the far-flung gullibility of the masses."

For, as Holmes proceeds to point out, the masses suffer because the masses are fooled. And the masses are fooled because they believe too easily.

Don't accept anything because your father accepted it. His times were his times; but your times are your times. The thing that served him may not serve you.

Don't agree to anything because it's supposed to be "the right thing to do." Nothing is the right thing to do unless it really promotes human health and happiness.

Don't endure anything until you are fully assured that the sacrifice is both necessary and worth your while.

Doubt and question, jeer and sneer—and raise Cain generally, until you really know your own mind. And insist on knowing your own mind, whatever the cost. Don't be afraid to be unpopular. Don't be afraid to seem ridiculous. You're bound to meet both conditions if you insist on living an honest life. But an honest life is worth anything it costs.

So dare to doubt! Dare to rebel! Dare to demand the best there is. Refuse a substitute!

If Youth didn't feel that way and act that way the world would have gone to pot long since. The restlessness, the discontent, the selfishness and rebellion of the young ones—these qualities are the hope of humanity.

And yet, there's one thing Youth doesn't know, and can only learn through the long, painful grind of experience. It's a great and necessary thing to Doubt. But it's an even greater and more necessary thing to Believe.

Doubt, and Demand something better—but also Believe that we have the makings of something better in our souls and systems. Defy the things that are; but also have faith in the things that can be.

The Fury of those who are young and eager; the Faith of those who are old and tired—between them, they save the world.

Reminders of the Past; Was France Deceived?

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The dreadful American press, and the dreadful American politicians, have shown a pleasing restraint in the matter of the debt defaulters. Nothing has been done or said on this side of the water to increase the ministerial difficulties in France.

The debate in Congress has been postponed; the speeches prepared have been put aside temporarily; and America waits to learn the present disposition in Paris. Whatever the President says in his message on the debts does not matter much, since Congress will not permit an administration so soon to pass from all responsibility to commit the administration soon to assume it. Until France makes the payment on which she defaulted last week, there is nothing to discuss with her. Whenever she sees fit to meet her obligation, she may resume or open negotiations on revisions. There is a present hope that she will reverse her action of last week.

Meanwhile, M. Laval, in an explanatory statement, makes the point that the discontinuance of reparations without a discontinuance of debt payments will give Germany an advantage over France in the commercial competition or race of the future. He observes that, under this arrangement, German industry and business, free from their burden, will have an advantage in the race over France and the other debtor nations where business and industry will have the handicap of carrying the load.

That is interesting to America. If German industry is relieved of its handicap, and the industry of all the debtor nations are relieved of their handicaps, and all the handicaps of all the nations are put on American industry, it would seem reasonable to conclude that American industry would be in a rather bad position for the race. All of which follows from M. Laval's argument.

Belgium 'Owes Nothing'! Does She Forget!

* * *

If France reverses herself it is probable that Belgium will follow her example. It is interesting to note that Belgium followed France rather than England. The connection between these two nations has been close since before the World War. There are reasons, too numerous to mention, why Belgium should have a friendly feeling for the United States.

Many of us remember so well the unprecedented generosity of America when Belgium was suffering. I remember hearing Mme. Vandervelde, wife of a Belgium minister of state, in her opening appeal for American money in Washington. The diplomats of the allied nations sat in the front row in the church where she spoke. A woman of rare charm and beauty, she impressed me at the time as a consummate actress. She ascended the rostrum an impressive figure in black. There was not a touch of color anywhere. She walked slowly, with sorrowful and tragic expression, to the center. Indeed, she seemed the very embodiment of the Belgium tragedy. She told her story of the hunger, privation, suffering of her people in soft tones, and every word seemed to carry a sigh. She made a profound impression.

I have just been rereading the volume of reminiscences she wrote called "Monarchs and Millionaires." Several chapters are devoted to the American journey and she writes of the easy generosity of the Americans, and seems almost amused at the enthusiasm with which they poured money into her lap. When she returned to Belgium she carried more than $300,000 in contributions; and, that, of course, does not even approach the vast sums we contributed at the time. School children joined the "millionaires," and from coast to coast gave their dimes and nickels out of sympathy for the children of Belgium.

It is impossible to believe, under the circumstances, that there is no appreciation in that country; impossible to accept the assertion of a Belgian statesman, that his country "owes nothing to the United States," as expressive of the sentiment of the people. And we gave more than money.

U. S. Made Poland, Yet Poland Defaults

Most of us prefer to think that there is an understanding between France and Belgium, and that the latter would prefer to join France now in a reconsideration of the action no one now thinks wise or long-headed.

And so with Poland. To no country on earth is Poland so much indebted as to the United States. It was Woodrow Wilson's sensational speech to the Senate, long before we entered the war, which made the claims of Poland to nationality and self-determination one of the issues of the war. From the moment that speech was made, no one doubted seriously that the success of the allies would mean Polish nationality and independence. That is the reason there is an imposing statue of Woodrow Wilson in Warsaw.

But Poland feels, whether justly or not, that she must be heavily armed against prospective foes. She still has her troubles with Germany because of the "corridor," and just beyond lies brooding Russia. To maintain the heavy armament she does she had to ask loans, and France had the money to loan. Along with the loan went some such relationship as that between France and Belgium.

Did Someone Deceive Paris!

And yet it is impossible to believe that France does not really feel that somehow she has been betrayed in the matter of the debts by the United States. Impossible to believe she did not understand, when the moratorium was asked, that it meant another scaling down, if not an actual transfer of the debts to this country. In no other way is it possible to account for the bitterness in France.

It will be interesting to know how she got that impression. She certainly got it from no one with authority and power to act. We have in this country a private minority group, which, in season and out of season, has been demanding the sacrifice of the American people in the matter of the debts. Have these been taken too seriously in Paris? We have certain banking groups here, assumed by too many Europeans to be the real governing force in the United States, who favor the transfers—because of the bad private loans. Has France been accepting these as the spokesmen of America?

Or did these seeming assurances come from men high in our governmental circles in the course of the correspondence and the secret conversations?

The speech of Herriot, evidently sincere, implies that France has somehow been deceived—tricked! We have come to the conclusion that she really feels she has been. If that be true, much good may come from the present flare-up, if Europe will learn that under our governmental forms no private citizen and no single man in the executive department can speak with authority for the American nation.

Meanwhile, let us be thankful that thus far America has met the act of default with dignity and without invectives and denunciation.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

Your lack of popularity may be due to the fact that you try to attract too much attention to yourself.

Some men, with the mistaken idea that notice given them when in the presence of, or in the same crowd with, an employer, strengthens their position with their superiors, find out to their sorrow, quite the reverse.

The man holding an under position should not seek to become too favorably known in a personal way; he should understand that he is paid to make the firm as a whole stand out.

The reflected credit may be his rightfully, but he should not seek personal attention, when he is representing a company.

If not satisfied with reflected credit he may find himself out of competition with those more entitled to recognition.
